7TH ARMY GAINS 7 MILES!

YANKS ADVANCE NEAR REICH ON 35 MILE FRONT

Big Guns Open Fire on Karlsruhe.

Lt. Gen. Patch's American 7th army yesterday drove virtually to the border of Germany at two points on a 35 mile front as three other American armies—the 1st, 3d, and 9th—scored new gains within the reich.

In northern Alsace the 7th army drove seven miles in 10 hours to the outskirts of Lauterbourg and its big guns were reported shelling Karlsruhe, capital of Baden, across the Rhine 10 miles away. The Yanks at Lauterbourg were almost at the border as were other Americans farther west at Scheibenhard.

The old Maginot line fortress town of Bitche was believed abandoned after the 7th virtually encircled it with a push to within three miles of the Saar border.

On Roer for 15 Miles.

At the northern end of the western front the American 9th army pushed the Germans from Vichhofen, two miles south of the Roer river citadel at Julich, and from Schophoven, farther south. The 9th and the American 1st army to the south drove up to the Roer river along a solid 15 mile front.

First army guns were pointed across the Roer toward Duren, east bank keystone of the defenses of Cologne. The 83d infantry division—for the first time disclosed as being in action with the 1st army—pushed two miles and captured Gurzenich, southwest across the Roer from Duren. Other 1st army troops 14 miles southwest of Duren gained nearly a mile.

The 3d army pushed across the German border in a new penetration six miles east of Sarreguemines and south of Nieder-Gailbach.

U. S., Britain Bless Italy's New Regime

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—In an apparent move to patch up differences in their European policies, the United States and Britain today simultaneously bestowed their blessing on the new Italian government.

At the same time, the London government designated British Minister of State Richard K. Law to hurry to Washington, D. C., to talk over policies to be applied on the continent, and the problem of getting supplies to liberated peoples. Officials of both countries have expressed concern over the supply matter, feeling that political unrest in some degree has grown out of wants.

Emphasized Close Consultations.

The statements on the new government set up by Premier Ivanhoe Bonomi emphasized the close consultation between ambassadors from Washington and from London during formation of the cabinet. Apparently the intent was to underscore settlement of the question of advance consultation on European policies.

It was this question which led to an open airing of differences between London and Washington. Without consulting the United States, the British came out against the selection of Count Carlo Sforza as premier or foreign minister of Italy. Whereupon Secretary of State Stettinius announced the United States was opposed to outside interference in the formation of European governments.

Text of U. S. Statement.

The Washington statement on the new government:

"The United States and British ambassadors in Rome have been in close contact during the recent developments in Italy. United States Ambassador Alexander C. Kirk has kept the department carefully informed. He reports that the new government of Italy is supported by a majority of the political parties comprising the committee of national liberation, and thus maintains a representative character. This government, in accord with the British government, is happy to see the new Italian government, under Signor Ivanhoe Bonomi, take office."

The British statement, using the words "close consultation," covered precisely the same ground.

BRITAIN READY FOR HAPPIEST YULE IN 5 YEARS

LONDON, Dec. 14 [Reuters].—Britain is preparing for her happiest Christmas since 1939. Many families are back in their own homes after years of evacuation. Lights are brighter, there will be extra rations, more candies for the children and, most important of all, some of the service men will be home from overseas on their first leave for four or more years.

Every civilian can buy an extra half pound of margarine and sugar for Christmas, and 15 cents worth more meat, making a total of 25 cents worth for the week. Persons over 70 have three, instead of the usual two ounces of tea.

Toys, however, are shoddy and the few good ones are beyond the pocket of the average shopper. At least one American air force station has arranged to entertain children orphaned in the London blitzes. Pilots and crews have made toys for them from salvaged aircraft material.

Leyte Losses: 82,554 Japs; 10,409 Yanks

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., PHILIPPINES, Dec. 15 (AP).—Gen. MacArthur reported today Japanese casualties of 82,554 and American losses totaling 10,409 thus far in the 35 day old Leyte and Samar campaigns.

MacArthur broke down the Japanese casualty figures thus:

Abandoned dead on ground captured by Yanks, 33,801.

Prisoners captured by Yanks, 253.

Estimated dead not yet collected, and dead within the enemy's own lines, 18,500.

Drowned or killed in the total or partial destruction of 10 convoys attempting to reënforce the Nipponese Leyte garrison, 30,000.

Yank Dead Total 2,176.

MacArthur said the American casualties consisted of 2,176 killed, 7,976 wounded and 257 missing.

The Japanese casualties reported are the greatest for any of the campaigns thus far.

MacArthur also reported the Yanks advanced another mile north of Ormoc, capturing some major enemy supply dumps after overcoming "bitter resistance."

Destroy 91 Planes.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ. Pearl Harbor, Dec. 14 (AP).—The destruction of 91 Japanese planes by carrier based American aircraft in a raid on Luzon Island in the Philippines and three new land based smashes at Iwo Island were announced today by Adm. Nimitiz.

There have been 10 attacks in 13 days on Iwo, from which the Japs have been raiding Saipan, the B-29 base 725 miles to the south.

The attack on Luzon, on which Manila is situated, was directed at harbors and air fields, but Nimitz's war bulletin gave no details other than the shooting down of 14 Nipponese interceptors and erasure of 77 on the ground.

CUTBACK ON MACHINE GUNS ORDERED AS AID TO OTHER WAR ITEMS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—A 23 million dollar cutback in the production of machine guns for army planes was approved officially tonight. The move, it was explained, will release man power for more critical ordnance items, including ammunition.

The decision, announced by the production executive committee of the war production board, will release 6,000 workers from five plants about Jan. 1.

"Immediate action" is being taken by the war man power commission to channel the laid-off employes into critical jobs, it was said.

NIMITZ' ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS TO MOVE WEST

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Dec. 14 (AP).—Adm Nimitz soon will establish his Pacific fleet advanced headquarters in a "forward area," he said today in a press release. Main headquarters, however, will remain at Pearl Harbor.

An Australian radio report recently said the new advanced site would be Guam.

"Capture of the Gilberts, Marshalls, Marianas, Ulithi, and Palau has permitted moving the center of gravity of operations of the ground, sea, and air forces, Pacific ocean areas, far westward," the announcement said.

Advance headquarters in the "forward area" will be established "to improve the effectiveness of control of these forces as their operations converge on Japan," the statement added.

Donald M. Nelson, who has been to China as President Roosevelt's special representative, conferred privately with Adm. Nimitz here while en route to Washington, D. C., a navy press release disclosed.

Ban on Honors for U. S.-Japs Stirs Up Row

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 14 [Special].—An Oregon American Legion post today was charged by a California Legionnaire with "desecrating the grave of the unknown soldier" by removing the names of 16 Japanese-American soldiers from its county honor roll because they are of Jap ancestry.

The charge was made in a letter from Robert B. Cozzens, World War I. veteran and a member of the Legion, to Jess Edington, commander of the post at Hood River, Ore. Cozzens is assistant director of the war relocation authority.

Erasure of the names occurred last week.

3 Wounded in Action.

Cozzens assailed the action as a "refutation of our basic American principles of equality of all men." He declared the striking of "these American soldiers of Japanese ancestry" from the roll was an "un-American act," and reminded Edington that three of the 16 Nisei had been wounded in action.

"As a member of the American Legion and a veteran of World War I., I know your disgraceful act cannot be condoned by a vast majority of American Legionnaires, or by the 'lost battalion' rescued in this war by the Nisei, nor by Lt. Gen. Clark, who cited the 100th battalion of Nisei for bravery in Italy, nor by any fair minded person who is able to make the distinction between the enemy and loyal Americans fighting the enemy," he wrote.

"Betrayed Legion."

Cozzens asserted the Oregon post had "betrayed the Legion by a deliberate insult to our army, its uniform, and the brave men who wear it.

"You desecrate the grave of the unknown soldier for neither you, nor any other man, knows but that sacred resting place may hold the remains of a descendant of any enemy nation. We had Japanese-American soldiers in World War I.

"You should replace the names of the loyal American soldiers on the Hood River honor roll and confine your hate complex to the enemy Japanese rather than attempting to imitate the sordid attitudes of those we are fighting."

Since the action by the Hood River post, Capt. Belvidere Brooks' post of New York has invited the 16 Nisei to become members of that post.

BRITON DENIES FIGHT RAGES ON ETHIOPIA, SOMALILAND BORDER

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP).—A British military commentator said today the British were maintaining troops on the Somaliland-Ethiopian border to prevent tribesmen from "pinching" grazing lands in British territory, but denied suggestions that fighting had broken out.

In a hearing before the senate foreign relations committee on Tuesday, Sen. Guffey [D., Pa.] asked Secretary of State Stettinius if the British were using American munitions against Ethiopians in two provinces.

The question became sidetracked in the discussion. Guffey declined to elaborate, and said "I had a reason for asking it."

Report Germans Ask Pope to Learn Allied Terms

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 14.—The Germans in the last two weeks have been making efforts thru the Vatican to get a more precise definition of "unconditional surrender," according to unofficial reports here today. Pope Pius XII., it is stated, has been asked to ascertain from allied quarters whether any distinction will be made between the Nazi regime and the German people.

G. I. with 58 Inch Waist Gives Hospital a Problem

Cheyenne, Wyo., Dec. 14 (AP).—Suitable hospital clothing cannot be found for Pvt. John Danko of Pittsburgh, Pa., at the Fort Warren Regional hospital. Danko is 6 feet, 3 inches tall, weighs 370 pounds—and has a waist measurement of 58 inches. Brought from Fort Robinson, Neb., Danko declares he is not ill and refuses to be draped in bed sheets.

FAREWELL NOTE NEAR HER BODY ACCUSES ACTOR

Beverly Hills, Cal., Dec. 14 [Special].—Despairing of ever being married by a lover who had become the father of her unborn child, Lupe Velez, vivacious Mexican film star, ended her tempestuous career today by committing suicide with an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Beside her pajama-clad body, lying in her eight foot square bed in her luxurious Beverly Hills home, was a heartbroken farewell note in which she accused Harald Ramond, handsome young French actor, of refusing his name for the child she was to bear in five months.

A tragic irony of the death of the cyclonic actress, whose last picture bore the singularly apt title, "The Mexican Spitfire's Blessed Event," was the assertion of Ramond, after he learned of it, that he had planned to marry her and that, tho they had not set a wedding date, it was "understood" the marriage would take place.

Asks Forgiveness.

On the silk encased pillow beside Lupe's tumbling curls lay the note which she had addressed to "Harald" in her slanting handwriting and which, for the first time, informed the film colony of the secret of an actress whose volatile temperament had carried her from a lowly beginning as a Mexican dancing girl to wealth and stardom in Hollywood, where she had spent half of her 34 years. The note, in her own language, said:

"May God forgive you and forgive me, too. But I prefer to take my life away and our baby's before I bring him such shame or killing him.

"How could you, Harald, fake such great love for me and our baby when all the time you didn't want us? I see no other way out for me, so good-by, and good luck to you. Love, Lupe."

A second note was addressed to Mrs. Beiah Kinder, who had been her secretary and companion for 10 years and who first discovered her death. This note said:

"My faithful friend, you and only you know the facts for the reason I am taking my life. May God forgive me, and don't think bad of me. I love you, Mammy. Take care of your mother, so good-by and try to forgive me. Say good-by to all my friends and the American press that were always so nice to me.

Lupe."

Telephones Police.

Mrs. Kinder frantically telephoned police, requesting an ambulance, physician, and inhalator, when she found Miss Velez would not awaken at 10 a. m. In its robin's egg blue pajamas, Lupe's shapely figure sprawled across the silken sheets. The big, especially made black and silver bed, with its sunburst headpiece, was set against a curtain of white silk and rested on an enormous oyster-white rug.

"'I thought at first she was just asleep—she looked so peaceful," Mrs. Kinder said. "Then I felt her head. It was cold."

For an hour efforts to resuscitate her were made in vain. A physician said she had been dead about two hours before he arrived.

Chaplin Loses First Rounds in Baby Suit

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 14.—Charlie Chaplin made a one minute appearance in Superior court today in an unsuccessful attempt to have Joan Berry's paternity suit against him thrown out of court and, failing that, to have it tried by Judge Harry M. Willis rather than by a jury.

Judge H. M. Willis.

Both these motions by Chaplin's counsel, balding Charles E. Millikan, were denied by Judge Willis, who ordered that selection of the jury be started.

When court adjourned for the day five men and seven women were in the jury box but neither side had exercised any challenges, so if the trial proper gets started before next week, it will be by sheer accident.

Baby Not in Court.

The plaintiff in the case, Carol Ann, the 14 month old daughter of Miss Berry, was not in court. Neither was her mother.

Chaplin, decidedly debonair but looking older than his last legal appearance, when he was tried and acquitted on Mann act charges involving Miss Berry, was in the witness chair only long enough to give his name and address. The judge seemed to think that was enough.

Chaplin appeared as a surprise witness to support the contention of Millikan that the case should never reach a jury because blood tests 10 months ago purported to show he could not have been the father of the child.

Miss Berry Got $17,300.

Millikan disclosed in his arguments that Chaplin had paid Miss Berry $16,200, including $5,000 for attorney's fees, when the child was 4 months old—before the blood tests were taken. After a court refused to dismiss the action several months ago, Chaplin paid Joan an additional $1,100 in $75 a week instalments, his attorney disclosed.

Chaplin's counsel argued that the court could dismiss the suit on the ground the blood test agreement could be considered "a contract for the payment of money." When the Berrys failed to live up to their provision to cancel the paternity suit after the blood tests proved negative, the "contract was voided," Millikan contended.

Atty. Joseph Scott, attorney for Carol Ann, whom he described as "a pure little child who wants a father," argued that no lawbook contains any such contract as that agreement represented. He termed the stipulation "lopsided and inequitable," and added "it shocks the conscience and violates the fundamentals of fair play. The child hadn't a chance."

Invalid, Judge Rules.

In denying the defense motion to dismiss the suit, Judge Willis frankly said he believes no guardian has the right to compromise the claims of a minor.

"This case is a simple one," said Judge Willis. "All we are concerned with here is the single issue of parentage: Is the defendant [Chaplin] the father?"

Judge Willis said he disliked to "disagree with my fellow judges, but I am satisfied that the approval signed by Judge William Baird did not add one iota of value to the stipulation."

Judge Baird had approved the stipulation providing for the blood tests and dismissal of the suit if they proved negative. Later, however, Superior Judge Stanley Mosk refused to dismiss the suit when the doctors reported their tests showed Chaplin was not the child's father, and Judge Moak was upheld by the state Appellate court.

SENATE GROUP GIVES MacLEISH ONE VOTE EDGE

Faces New Fight on Floor Today.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—Doubt which had persisted all day that the senate foreign relations committee would recommend senate confirmation of all six of President Roosevelt's nominations for top state department posts ended at midnight tonight.

At that hour, the deadline set by the senate, Archibald MacLeish, the one nominee whose fate had been in doubt all day, still had a one vote lead, since no word had been received from Sen. Nye [R., N. D.] in New York. Had Nye voted against MacLeish, the vote would have been tied, 11 to 11, and MacLeish, retiring librarian of congress, would have failed of recommendation.

This would not have prevented his confirmation by the senate tomorrow, but political observers said it would have been a blow to Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] and members of his committee who sought to support completely Mr. Roosevelt's state department reorganization program.

Unprecedented Rebuke.

Connally and his followers have been smarting for a week under the unprecedented rebuke they suffered when the senate refused their plea for immediate confirmation of the nominations, which senators said were dictated by Harry Hopkins.

Senators said the events today point to a battle over some of the nominations tomorrow, particularly that of MacLeish.

In a day of the wildest excitement known in the senate recently, MacLeish, under fire for his writings and philosophies, was flatly refused a recommendation once today. The committee reconsidered and gave him a tie vote. Later Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.] broke the tie from New York, giving MacLeish the recommendation by an 11 to 10 vote.

Switches by Guffey.

During the day, Sen. Guffey [D., Pa.], once voted against MacLeish, once sought to save MacLeish by reversing the negative vote and finally, after the change was challenged, let his vote against MacLeish stand.

Chronologically, here is what happened on the committee's consideration of the nominations, which kept the committee and and which kept the committee and senate clerk's staffs and Supt. Harold Beckley of the senate press gallery on the job until midnight:

The committee held a closed hearing today, after earlier public hearings in which the principal objections were directed at MacLeish.

Four senators presented a resolution asking President Roosevelt to reconsider the nominations. They were Senators La Follette [Prog., Wis.], Murray [D., Mont.], Guffey [D., Pa.], and Pepper [D., Fla.].

The resolution said reorganization of the department would greatly influence the conclusion of the war and the establishment of peace. The resolution commented that the senate is not satisfied that the six nominees reflect the senate's views on foreign policy.

Defeated, 12 to 4.

The proposal was beaten 12 to four, the only votes for it coming from those who introduced it.

It is considered likely, however, that a similar measure may be brought up on the floor of the senate.

Confirmation of five of the nominees was then voted. The votes were, for:

Joseph C. Grew, for undersecretary of state, 15 to 4; James C. Dunn, like all the remaining, a nominee for an assistant secretaryship, 13 to 5; William L. Clayton, 11 to 7; Nelson Rockefeller, 12 to 7, and Brig. Gen. Julius C. Holmes, 15 to 4.

Some of the committee members were forced to visit the senate floor for brief periods, accounting for slight differences in some of the totals in cases where one or two votes would not have effected the result.

On the first ballot, MacLeish was rejected 12 to 8. The vote was then reconsidered and Senators Murray and Pepper, who had voted against MacLeish, reversed their votes, making a 10 to 10 tie.

It was reported that the second vote was taken after one senator had demanded that the roll call be made public. This was denied by Connally.

Connally summoned reporters and told them what the committee had done, making public all the roll calls. While he was talking, Sen. Guffey, who had departed, telephoned that he wished to switch his vote, making it 11 to 9 for MacLeish.

Five minutes later Sen. Clark [D., Mo.], who was MacLeish's most persistent questioner at the public hearings, announced that he, Clark, had challenged Guffey's right to change his vote by telephone.

Connally, who had meanwhile gone to the senate floor, was visited by reporters who informed him of Clark's action. Connally called another committee meeting.

Tie is Reinstated.

At this meeting, Guffey reported that he would let his original vote against MacLeish stand, returning the vote to a 10 to 10 tie. Efforts were begun to communicate with Nye and Wagner.

Shortly afterward Connally returned to the senate chamber where he reported that the committee had recommended the confirmation of the five who received favorable votes. He obtained permission to report on MacLeish before midnight.

Acting Majority Leader Hill [D., Ala.] announced that the nominations would be taken up tomorrow. Clark responded:

"I'm in a position to say that if they are, they won't be acted upon until later."

Hurries to Barber Shop.

Clark then hurried to the senate barber shop, which none but senators may enter.

Connally followed to the barber shop, and the press followed Connally.

The reporters waited while Connally had a shave and then buttonholed him when he emerged.

He reported that he had just heard from one of the absentee committee members, but declined to tell which one. It was Wagner, however.

CONSERVATIVE IS NEW PRESIDENT OF SWITZERLAND

BY F. E. BRIQUET.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Dec. 14.—The Swiss federal council today elected as president of Switzerland Edward von Steiger who belongs to one of the oldest patrician families in the city of Bern. He is a descendant of Friedrich von Steiger, last "avoyer" [first magistrate] of the old republic of Bern when Switzerland was conquered by Napoleon in 1798.

Von Steiger, a Conservative, received a large number of Socialist votes which heightened the evidence that Swiss opinion is practically unanimous in support of the federal council's conciliatory policy toward Russia which has refused to resume diplomatic relations with Switzerland.

The square milk bottle is here to stay, said members of the Illinois Dairy Products association who opened their annual convention yesterday in the Morrison hotel, and in the coming year housewives will have their choice of square bottles in glass or cardboard.

Twelve dairies in Illinois and Iowa already are delivering milk in square glass bottles, with such favorable reception from housewives that the dairy industry is planning to spend 40 million dollars to convert present bottling and delivering equipment to handle the new containers.

TO MAN IN MOON: GRIEF IS AHEAD; WE'RE COMING UP

Memo to the moon: Don't look now, but you may have visitors in a generation or so, which is pretty soon, as you measure time. They will be members of the U. S. Rocket society, whose president, R. L. Farnsworth, 781 Riford av., Glen Ellyn, has written to the interior department's land office in Washington, asking how they can go about filing claims on sections of you. And Commissioner Fred W. Johnson, of the land office, has written back to say that all they'll have to do is file an affidavit stating they have examined personally the sections of you they want and are fully acquainted with your characteristics.

Yesterday Farnsworth was asked if he knows you have no air for the visitors to breathe and that at night you are colder than cold and in the day time hot enough to melt a china nest egg. He said he does, adding that people can live in submarines and that they fly thru the stratosphere in planes with supercharged cabins, so that it really makes little difference what mood you may be in when the delegation arrives. They'll simply set up supercharged astronomical stations, internally heated and cooled, and with radios that can span the 238,860 miles back to earth and tell all your secrets. This is just by way of tipping you off.

SERVILITY OF U.S. DIPLOMATS TO BRITISH LASHED

Chandler Says Our Envoys Need Higher Rank.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.] today demanded that the state department end its subservience to British diplomats.

Sen. Chandler.

While most members of the senate foreign relations committee kept silent on the hush-hush topic of British domination in the committee's current hearings on the nominations of the six proposed new top state department officials, Chandler brought the matter out into the open.

Altho not even a member of the committee, he obtained permission to take part in the interrogation of Secretary Stettinius at yesterday's committee session and asked him about the British domination and the prospects of its continuance when the department's reorganization is completed.

Outrank Americans.

Chandler said in an interview today that one reason for the British dominance is the fact that their representatives almost always outrank American representatives. He demanded that Stettinius remedy this in the field of diplomacy, at least, by giving American officials sufficient rank to place them on an equal footing with the Britishers.

Amplifying the complaint he made yesterday to Stettinius, that Americans customarily "sit at the foot of the table" abroad, Chandler told today of the conditions he found when he toured the world's battlefronts with a committee of senators last year.

"We visited all around the world," Chandler related. "We were entertained by the British and by our own people in London, Egypt, the far east, and every place we went.

How It Went.

"Everywhere the ranking officials were British. If we had an ambassador, they had a fellow a step higher—a roving ambassador, who took precedence over our top man. If we had a minister, they had an ambassador. If we had a brigadier general, they had a major general.

"Under those conditions, we are bound to follow the British, as they always manage to have the higher rank and the authority that goes with it.

"Our diplomats and our military men should have rank equal to the British. I don't concede we're second. But our attitude in granting our representatives proper rank has been niggardly.

"Gen. Eisenhower entertained us in Algiers. They told us he was the boss.

British, British, British.

"But I asked who was the head of the air forces and they told me Air Marshal Tedder. British. I asked them who was the head of the navy and they told me Adm. Cunningham, British. I asked them who was the head of the ground forces and they said Gen. Alexander. British.

JUANITA BECKER.

Miss Juanita Becker, 20, of 2437 Jackson blvd., an unwed mother, filed suit for $100,000 damages in Superior court yesterday for the mental anguish she said she suffered for two months while her child was kept by a married couple who obtained the baby from the hospital where it was born.

The baby, whom Miss Becker has named Jackie Kelly, was born June 7 in the Grant hospital, 551 Grant pl. Mr. and Mrs. Homer Meyers of 856 E. 82d st., took the infant to their home on June 17.

Miss Becker, represented by Atty. Jay J. McCarthy, claims she was suffering from "partial amnesia" when she consented to the adoption.

NAZI PRISONERS ON STRIKE FACE MORE PENALTIES

German prisoners of war at Fort Sheridan, who were placed on a diet of bread and water for 14 days as a result of their refusal Tuesday to go to work, may suffer an extension of the diet for a period of 84 days under the articles of war, Maj. E. R. Schuelke, commander of the prisoner of war camp, explained yesterday, after the prisoners continued a sullen silence.

They were penalized for insubordination and failure to obey orders after one of their leaders was taken from his job. Maj. Schuelke imposed the bread and water diet to continue thru Christmas day. Under the Geneva convention articles, the men will be given a full day's mess after each 14 day period if their insubordination continues.

Maj. Schuelke explained that even the prisoners' willingness to return to work might not result in the diet being canceled.

ASSERT PREMIER KING DODGED BIG ISSUES IN COUP

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 14.—Political opponents of Prime Minister King today declared that he has cleverly wangled a vote of confidence out of parliament without having exposed his tenure to debate on any of the issues shaking his administration, including the question of full conscription in Canada.

The charge made by King's opponents is that after compromising a dispute as to whether drafted men should be used overseas, King recently manipulated an indorsement of his administration from the house of commons on the question of support for Canada's war effort—in somewhat the same manner that President Roosevelt campaigned for reelection as commander in chief.

"This instance," said John Bracken, for 20 years premier of Manitoba and now national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, "was the first time in the history of British parliamentary procedure that a government has been sustained by 'a vote of no confidence.' The several proposed amendments to the motion for a vote of confidence are themselves proof of no confidence."

[Amendments to authorize a draft for overseas service and to abolish the draft altogether were introduced but not adopted. The resolution originally presented said the house "will aid the government in its policy of maintaining a vigorous war effort." King accepted an amendment to delete the reference to the government's policy.]

Called Suspended Sentence.

"The vote itself," Bracken continued, "was not one of confidence, but a suspended sentence over the head of King which will be applied if full and complete reënforcements are not forthcoming."

The consensus is that the political coup postponed a general election in Canada, probably until next spring. The compromise, the proposition of whether 16,000 draftees should be made available for overseas service, permitted evasion of the question whether all conscripts should be available for all services.

The coup also avoided other challenges to the administration which have been pressed by an assortment of minorities. Some of these object to control over Canada's foreign policy from London. Others protest against the concentration of wealth that has kept the standard of living of the working man in Canada below that of the working man in the United States.

The army, of course, is happy to get its hands on some of the 60,000 draftee home guards, dubbed zombies, who refused to volunteer for foreign service. Figures, suppressed for security reasons but shown to this correspondent by a high military officer, indicate that 16,000 of the best trained are needed and will be used as replacements in Canada's overseas army of more than a quarter of a million.

Draft Still Opposed.

Canada is proud of having 7½ per cent of its population in uniform, [the United States has 8⅓ per cent] without resorting to outright conscription for combat duty. Objections still are raised to a general draft, however. The objections come, furthermore, from English speaking Canadians as well as from the third of the population which speaks French. Of the 60,000 zombies, 23,000 are French.

Riots and demonstrations on the west coast, in Ottawa, in Montreal and in Quebec which accompanied debate in commons over sending 16,000 home guards overseas involved English speaking as well as French speaking Canadians. Protests came from minorities who believe Canadian interests should not be rated second to England's interests—Canada firsters, so to speak.

Other minorities, in various categories of socialism, expressed their objections to the draft in the banners they carried in street demonstrations. These generally read, "Conscript wealth as well as men."

Few Furloughs Possible.

The numerical inadequacy of the 16,000 who will be sent overseas to meet replacement requirements without additional thousands of volunteers is emphasized by military authorities interviewed here. The urgency of this requirement is further dramatized by the severe test necessary to qualify for a furlough from Canadian overseas duty. A policy just becoming effective will give 30 days at home, as the exigencies of the service permit and as shipping is available, to the following three classes:

Veterans with five continuous years' service overseas; those who have been wounded three times, each time with at least three days of hospitalization, and those with two such wounds and three years of continuous overseas service. Fewer than 500 are expected to reach home for Christmas.

King told parliament he was asking for only 16,000 of the zombies because the others could not be fitted for infantry service promptly. Army authorities said today more than 5,000 will be sent overseas before Jan. 1 and a similar number before Feb. 1.

MAJ. M'LAUGHLIN SERIOUSLY ILL, HOSPITAL SAYS

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, 66, millionaire coffee importer and owner of the Chicago Blackhawks hockey team, was reported in serious condition yesterday in the Lake Forest hospital, where he has been confined for several months. Maj. McLaughlin suffered a cerebral spasm last May from which, it was said at the hospital, he has not fully recovered. He was hospitalized at that time and then returned to his home at 1194 N. Green Bay rd., Lake Forest. He was taken back to the hospital a few weeks later and has remained there since.

First Army Hostesses Reach Paris and Brussels

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—The war department announced today that the first contingent of 13 United States army hostesses ever sent to an active war theater had arrived in Paris and Brussels. The American women, with an equal number of British army hostesses, will operate recreation clubs for enlisted troops at the Grand hotel in Paris and the Metropole hotel in Brussels. The contingent included Jane Moist, Wilmette, Ill.; Helen Souhrada, Chester, Ia., and Bertha L. Heetland, Sibley, Ia.

TEMPERATURE RISE TO 32° IS PREDICTED FOR CHICAGO TODAY

Slightly warmer weather for Chicago today was predicted by G. L. Canaday, government forecaster. Temperatures should rise to 35, he said, after a night low of 14. Light snow flurries are expected tomorrow, Canaday added.

The Chicago area was in a cold spot, Canaday said. In near-by Joliet the mercury dipped to 6 degrees below zero, and at 5 a. m. yesterday Chicago registered 6 above. Generally agreeable winter weather began returning soon afterward, however, in the Chicago area and thruout the middle west.

In neighboring northern Indiana, Gary and other cities dug out of a freak 12 inch snow that swept in from Lake Michigan. All main and most secondary streets were cleared in Gary. Routes 12, 20, 30, 6, and 2 also were cleared of snow, but were covered with ice, making driving dangerous. Eight thousand children were excused in rural Lake county school and 2,000 enjoyed similar freedom from rural classrooms in Porter

CORCORAN CALLS WHITE HOUSE AND RADIO QUIZ ENDS

Tells of His Interest in WMCA Transaction.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—A house investigating committee today solved the mystery of why the White House suddenly called off an investigation into the alleged forced sale of a radio station to Edward J. Noble, former undersecretary of commerce, after President Roosevelt had personally ordered the inquiry.

Thomas Corcoran.

The answer was simple, the committee learned. A telephone call to the White House from Thomas G. [Tommy the Cork] Corcoran apparently did the trick. Corcoran's testimony, delivered behind closed doors, furnished the missing link in a puzzle presented in the evidence of previous witnesses.

The voluble Tommy, characterized by one of the members as "the smoothest article I've ever seen," protested that his influence, gained when he was a Presidential confidante, entertainer and ghost writer, was not used in connection with the radio deal. But under prodding at an all-day session, he gave the committee a glimpse of his method of operations in Washington since he quit government service "to make a million dollars."

Roosevelt Switched.

Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, secretary and military aide to Mr. Roosevelt, told the committee last month that the President, in December, 1940, ordered "a thoro investigation" of rumored scandal in the sale of New York station WMCA by Donald Flamm to Noble. Flamm charged he was forced into selling the station for $850,000. It was later sold for $1,255,000 after which Noble bought the Blue network for 8 million dollars.

Former FCC Commissioner George H. Payne then told the committee that the President's orders were rescinded in a later message from the late Rudolph Forster, White House executive clerk, who quoted Mr. Roosevelt as saying "forget about" the investigation.

Thought Probe Unwise.

What happened to make the President change his mind had mystified the committee until Corcoran was questioned today.

"I just happened to hear about the reported investigation," Corcoran said, "so I picked up the telephone and called a woman secretary at the White House whom I have occasion to call frequently on many matters. I talked about various other matters and then just mentioned that I thought the investigation would be unwise; that it would be interpreted as the White House taking reprisals upon Noble for quitting his job and going to work for Willkie in the 1940 campaign. That's all I know about it."

Corcoran later admitted that Noble, before he bought WMCA, consulted him regarding whether there would be any "trouble" with the administration about his ownership of a radio station in view of his activities in behalf of Willkie.

"I assured him there would be none," Corcoran said.

"Misunderstood," He Says.

Corcoran insisted he had been "misunderstood" in connection with the radio deal. His role was merely that of an old friend of Noble, he said. He admitted that Noble consulted him about hiring William J. Dempsey, former general counsel for the FCC, as an attorney in the WMCA deal and that he indorsed Dempsey as a good man.

"I know nothing wrong about the sale," he declared, "except that I thought the price too high."

Corcoran was asked about the testimony of Eugene L. Garey, former committee counsel, that Corcoran had come to him and pleaded with him not to investigate the radio deal because it would "smear" him and Noble. He flatly denied Garey's assertion.

David K. Niles, White House administrative assistant, whose name has been mentioned in testimony, was also questioned by the committee. He denied he had any connections with or knowledge of the radio deal.

Yank's Dog Safe

When Leonard Mednick, 22, went into the army three months ago he left his Belgian shepherd dog, "Butch," in the care of the home folk, his wife, Dorothy; his sister, Minnie; her husband, Harry Davis, and their two children, Polly, 11, and Sheldon, 4. Butch and the youngsters became great pals and it was a shock to all when he disappeared Monday night, especially since Leonard is expected home shortly for Christmas.

Yesterday, as Detective Charles Dalton walked to work at the Fillmore street police station, he observed that a handsome dog was following him. It was bitterly cold, so Dalton held open the station door and allowed the dog to go in and get warm. Then he hastened to roll call, arriving just in time to hear the name and description of a missing dog. Dalton hurried out front and called: "Butch!"

"Arf!" replied Butch, wagging his tail.

MacARTHUR GETS A DECORATION FROM DUTCH

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 14 (AP).—Gen. MacArthur has been presented the Knights Grand Cross, with swords, of the Netherlands Order of Orange-Nassau, Aneta, official Netherlands news agency, reported today from Melbourne. The presentation was made by Dr. Hubertus Van Mook, acting governor-general of the Netherland East Indies, during a trip to Leyte, Philippines, and to liberated areas of the East Indies. Van Mook also presented the cross, with swords, of a grand officer in the order to Lt. Gen. Krueger, commander of the American 6th army, which cleared Dutch New Guinea of Japanese and is fighting on Leyte.

Big Ben Operation Makes Famed Clock Run Fast

LONDON, Dec. 14 [Reuters].—Big Ben—the great clock in the tower of the houses of parliament at Westminster—had today not fully recovered from the "operation" on its works after it stopped last Saturday night. A new pendulum suspension spring was put in on Sunday and since then the clock has gained a few seconds each day.

U. S. SAYS STRAIT MIGHT SAVE AIR ROUTE TO EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—The state department today conceded the possible use of tiny Belle Isle strait, between Newfoundland and Labrador, as a peace time "escape route" for American aircraft flying between the United States and Europe. The department also indicated its belief that any possible objections by Canada to landings in Quebec via the strait route would in time be removed.

The potential importance of the little known strait, linking the North Atlantic and the Gulf of St. Lawrence, came to the fore after the recent Chicago world air conference. After the United States had pledged freedom to fly over and to land on American soil in the Pacific, Great Britain was expected to do likewise in the Atlantic.

Put in Reservations.

At the last minute, however, Philip Cunliffe-Lister [Viscount Swinton], chairman of the United Kingdom delegation to the conference, excluded Newfoundland and Labrador, which it governs, from the two air freedoms. These lands are vital for refueling stops on the short great circle air route. By his act, Swinton seemed to have retained for Britain an apparent stranglehold on post-war trans-Atlantic flying.

Then came the suggested use of the strait of Belle Isle, first disclosed in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The strait is only 35 miles long, and 10 to 15 miles wide, but its center channel for a minimum width of four miles is international water, allowing for the three mile territorial water limit from each shore. Thus, American planes, if denied freedom to fly above Newfoundland or Labrador, or to land, could escape restrictions by flying over the middle of the strait.

Doubt Future Need.

In agreeing with this possibility, state department opinion expressed doubt at the same time that it will be needed. Opinion was that eventually Newfoundland will grant the desired air freedoms, and that all difficulties will be removed by the time post-war Atlantic routes are allocated, and planes are available.

If however, it were necessary to use the strait, Canada's position would require clarification. Thus far Canada has not signed for the two air freedoms, but is expected to. If it doesn't it is highly probable, state department opinion suggested, that a bilateral agreement could be reached allowing planes to or from Chicago, for instance, to land in Quebec province, near the strait, for refueling. Canada and the United States at present have an agreement allowing free passage of planes at certain points, but whether it is broad enough to cover post-war aviation is not yet clear.

In any event, the narrow strait of Belle Isle, apparently overlooked by Britain, today stands as America's post-war trans-Atlantic ace in the hole.

War Expenditures Down 352 Millions in November

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—The war production board today reported that November war expenditures amounted to $7,095,000,000, a decrease of $352,000,000, or 4.7 per spent $236,700,000,000 for war purposes between July 1, 1940, and Nov. 30, 1944.

POLAND WILLING TO GIVE UP LAND, PREMIER SAYS

Claims Part of Reich as Reparation.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Poland is willing to make territorial sacrifices if, by so doing, she can help to establish lasting peace in Europe, Premier Tomasz Arciszewski said in London today.

In his first public statement on the Russo-Polish border dispute the new Socialist premier indicated, however, that his government is not reconciled to giving up its eastern provinces to Russia.

"The eastern provinces belong to Poland and their inhabitants have expressed no desire for separation," he said.

Hopes for Talks.

Arciszewski did not make clear what territorial concessions Poland would be willing to make but said it was hoped negotiations with Russia could be reopened, probably by again proposing a temporary line of demarcation during the period of hostilities with final settlement to await the peace conference.

This proposal was submitted to Russia by the resigned prime minister, Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Aug. 31, but was given no consideration by Moscow. Arciszewski said. It was understood the temporary line proposed at that time did not give Russia Wilno [Vilna] or Lwow [Lemberg].

Arciszewski disclosed Polish claims for German territory which he said his government did not regard as compensation for territory lost to the Russians but, rather, as reparation for the damage inflicted on his country by the Germans.

These claims, he asserted, include less German territory than Russia suggested Poland should take. [It is understood Russia advised Poland to move its western border to the Oder river.]

Expects "Certain Improvements.'

The premier said Poland did not wish Stettin or Breslau but did expect "certain improvements" up to the Baltic sea as well as in Upper Silesia and East Prussia.

In rejecting the Russian suggestion that a larger slice of Germany be taken, the premier explained it was desired to avoid setting up a new minority that might lead to future wars. He also indicated it was questionable whether the peace conference would agree to extending the Polish frontier deep into Germany.

The premier said Stettin should be made an international free port removed from German control.

Report Communist Move.

It was reported from other sources that the so-called national committee of Polish liberation soon will declare itself to be the Polish provisional government of Russian occupied territory, with its capital in Lublin.

Meetings have been reported held in Russian dominated towns for the purpose of passing resolutions calling upon the committee to take this step. The Communist liberation committee's president, Boleslaw Beirut, will be premier of the Lublin group, it was believed here.

Arciszewski said his government in London had reestablished contact with the Polish underground and is discussing the new proposal for the solution of frontier problems. He said he would be grateful for the support of the United States government but does not expect Washington to take the Polish side against London and Moscow. The premier indicated he was seeking a plan which would gain the support of both President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill and permit their governments to mediate the dispute with Russia.

Gains 7 Mi. in 10 Hours; Shells Karlsruhe.

southwest of Lauterbourg to the Lauter river, which divides Germany and France, and farther west—in the Lembach area—it was three miles to go over the last long hills.

As the thrusting Yank infantry and armor were lunging forward in these sectors, shells were hailing in from Siegfried line positions and self-propelled guns. Our artillery was striking back at the enemy's fierce defense on his Saar threshold. Our progress thru the last Maginot barriers had been rapid during the day but then we came within the full range of the guns just within his own border.

Wissembourg an Outpost.

Lauterbourg and just west of it, Scheibenhard, toward which we also are attacking, are French Lauter river towns some eight miles southeast of Wissembourg. Wissembourg is the outpost of a 10 mile deep Siegfried zone defense and some of the shelling was coming from there.

Other enemy artillery fire thundered in from a strong point at Buchelbourg, several miles north of Lauterbourg in the Bienwald forest. Buchelbourg received a heavy pounding from Thunderbolt dive bombers as did other Siegfried fortifications on the Saar frontier.

The Yanks came up swiftly from Seltz today, sweeping thru Maginot positions which were only lightly manned or completely abandoned. Then as they got to Salmbach, west Scheibenhart and a mile below the Lauter, the German artillery stepped up the pace and there were dozens of small arms fights on the edge of the town.

Move Over Steep Hills.

In the Lembach region were what purported to be three of the strongest Maginot forts—at Lembach, Schoenenbourg, and Hochwald. All received long shellings and then Yank infantry moved into the neighborhoods over steep, wooded hills.

Four pillboxes in the outer circle of the Hochwald fortification system were found unmanned but the G. Is were under automatic weapons fire fr[illegible] a dozen other small bastions and from the big central fort. The heavy artillery pieces had been removed from Hochwald, but the revolving turrets gave full play for the smaller weapons.

There was no attempt at frontal assaults on the Hochwald, Lembach, and Schoenenbourg main citadels. They were by-passed by the first American forces and succeeding units threw in flanking fire. The Lembach defenders were almost completely silenced but there was still opposition from Schoenenbourg and Hochwald.

A View Into Germany.

Germany could be seen from the Lauterbourg vicinity, but there was no such view from Lembach, because of the high ridge to the north. The Americans hadn't gained posts for observing just where our artillery fire was falling in Germany beyond the crest, but the enemy didn't need much observation for his purpose.

He knows well the whole hill and valley sector, where we are advancing and his shells cracked in viciously and constantly. He was striking at the crossroads and draws. We suffered casualties.

The spirit of competition was strong all along the American line tonight, with each unit anxious to be the first from the 7th army to get into the reich.

"I expect to get my next mail in Germany," said Sgt. Mike Neigoff, 444 Surf st., Chicago.

Nazi Prisoners to Tend British Farms Unguarded

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 14.—That selected German war prisoners, soon to be put to work on British farms, will not have military guards, was confirmed today. The prisoner "trusties" ultimately are expected to number 100,000. Their employment will release Italian prisoners for work on bomb damage repair projects. The men will wear war prisoners' dress, receive up to $1.20 a week in allowances, and get no liberty or privileges.

BRITISH CLAMOR FOR STATEMENT ON ALLIED PLANS

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP).—A mounting clamor for a clearcut enunciation of British-American-Russian policy in Europe developed today as Prime Minister Churchill told his critics in parliament that he might carry to the people his defense of Britain's intervention in Greece.

Still under fire in sections of the British press as well as in legislative halls, the prime minister stood firm on his policy in both Greece and Italy, but his intimation of a "further account" on those affairs offered a clew to the extent of the still prevalent protests.

In dealing with the Italian situation under persistent Labor party cross-questioning, he emphasized that Britain's policy was based on military necessity.

Touches Off Uproar.

Churchill acknowledged that he had approved continuance of King Victor Emmanuel's regime "until the military situation had got into a better condition," and added that the results were "not unsatisfactory as far as our armies are concerned."

An uproar was touched off in the house of commons when Laborite Seymour Cocks asked, "How long this government intends to go on with this policy of murdering our Greek comrades."

Churchill did not reply, but other members shouted "shame" at Cocks. Churchill said British casualties in Greece since the landing totaled about 460, but did not make clear if this covered all the period of civil strife.

Expect Statement Soon.

When Laborite Daniel Kirkwood said the British policy in Greece was bringing him a flood of telegrams from workers threatening a protest strike, Churchill replied:

"I gave a long account of this matter to the house the other day and I may take occasion to give some further account to the country."

Diplomatic quarters speculated that the address—either in the house of commons or on the radio—would come before the Christmas recess, with the probability that it would deal with the whole map of Europe rather than the Greek problem alone.

CHICAGO MAJOR WEDS ACTRESS IN LONDON CAST

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Jolicoeur, 1406 N. 14th st., Melrose Park, said last night they had received a message from their son, Maj. Raymond D. Jolicoeur, 27, announcing his marriage in England last Sunday to Joan Preece, 21, London actress. Maj. Jolicoeur, a supply depot officer at a bomber base, met his bride at an officers' dance last spring. In a letter announcing their engagement Maj. Jolicoeur said he would send her to Melrose Park after their marriage. His brother, Sgt. Valmer, 26, who recently returned from England, said he met the young actress and indorsed the major's choice.

FRENCH CHARGE SPAIN AIDS NAZIS IN COAST TRAPS

BY ROBERT SAGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 14.—Charges that Spanish fishing boats are putting out from Bilbao with food, munitions and gasoline to supply the 70,000 Germans trapped along the French seacoast were made in this morning's Combat by Sylvain Zegel, special correspondent of the National Movement of Liberation.

The article by Zegel forms the first flat charge by Frenchmen of the alleged activity altho rumors of such aid have been persistent. The article apparently was viewed with alarm by French censors who cut part of the headline, half of the lead of the story and seven lines at the end.

According to Zegel, who cites the testimony of a Spanish guerilla member who slipped across a mountain on the border to Toulouse, a convoy of these camouflaged fishing smacks was loaded Dec. 4 at Santurca docks at Bilbao. Trucks brought cases of sardines from Santorna, medical supplies from the Spanish quartermasters and the health services of Bilbao, and cases of munitions from the Casillo barracks.

ATHENS BATTLE RENEWED AMID PEACE RUMORS

Leftists Shell City; Kill Policemen in Fight.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 14.—The steadily lifting spirits of the Athens civilian population over the prospects of peace received a severe blow this afternoon when hidden leftist ELAS artillery again opened fire on the central part of the city, apparently still shooting at British headquarters.

As in the past days the shells crashed in the vicinity of the Grande Bretagne hotel, shaking its windows. Civilian residents who had been roaming about outside scurried toward the hotel at the first hit.

Some responsible sources, however, feel that the renewed shelling after a 24 hour lull does not necessarily mean that all hopes for an armistice must be abandoned. They point out that as in all wars shooting can be continued legitimately until terms actually are signed.

Negotiations Continue.

All sources agree that negotiations have been going on and most say that they are continuing. It was reported that leftist EAM Liberation front leaders were dealing directly with the British and not the Greek government, which is another sign of Premier George Papandreou's dwindling influence.

The premier heads a government whose domain ends at the doorway of the Grande Bretagne hotel. Practically the whole cabinet is clustered here with him behind the protection of British barbed wire and machine gunners.

It was reported that the Liberation front still is insisting on being granted amnesty for its deeds since the revolt started Dec. 2, and also fair representation in some form in the new cabinet. It was rumored that negotiations also were under way on political dealings within the Liberation front itself.

Gen. Nicholad Plastiras, Greece's strong man, who arrived in Athens yesterday, was reported drafting a new cabinet and promising the ELAS a fair plebiscite if the leftist forces quit fighting.

ELAS Shoot Policemen.

Papandreou visited the British embassy this morning and conferred with Harold MacMillan, recently arrived British resident minister in the Mediterranean.

Fighting broke out this afternoon in Omonia square, northern fringe of the British position, when a group of policemen and newly recruited militia appeared there. The captain said the ELAS had overrun his station and killed a number of his men. As they started up University avenue, main artery between Omonia square and Constitution square, ELAS snipers shot down six policemen at one corner. A tank rolled up and blasted at the snipers and ambulances picked up casualties. Spirited battles also continued in Piraeus as ELAS forces besieged the naval radio station.

The United States is supplying a good part of the armament being used by the British in Athens. American Sherman tanks prowled the city shelling snipers' nests, many armored cars are of American make, 100 Thompson submachine guns are being employed, and American jeeps and ambulances are much in evidence.

Bad Weather in Europe Keeps Bombers Grounded

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP).—Poor bombing weather today and absence of warnings from Nazi radio stations apparently meant R. A. F. and American heavy bombers in Britain and Italy were still grounded.

Rail Traffic Hampered.

TWENTY-FIRST ARMY GROUP HDQ., Dec. 14 (AP).—Allied aerial blows have so paralyzed German rail traffic that virtually no passenger trains except military transport are now operating in the reich, an R. A. F. spokesman sai dtoday. By the end of October, he said, German locomotives had been reduced to 42 per cent of the 1939 figure.

Greek Rivals Confer on Peace

CHICAGO GREEKS WILL ASK U.S. TO TAKE ACTION

Thousands of Americans of Greek descent will gather in the Mural room of the Morrison hotel at 8 p. m. Sunday to protest British intervention in Greece, the Chicago Greek-American Committee for National Unity in Greece announced yesterday.

The Chicago committee charges that British intervention in Greece is against every agreement of the war from the Atlantic charter to the Teheran declaration, and will ask that the United States act in this crisis.

Stelios Pistolakis, leader of the EAM [National Liberation party], sentiment among Americans of Greek descent, will come here from New York to address the group on actual conditions in Greece as learned thru underground sources. He was formerly a member of Venizetos cabinet.

U-BOAT PACKS MAY HUNT AGAIN, BRITISH ARE TOLD

LONDON, Dec. 14 [Reuters].—Saying that he "spoke with knowledge," A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, told a gathering at the Mansion House, London, today that there might be a renewal of heavy U-boat packs. "In any event," he added, "the eastern war will make a big demand on our navies."

Alexander was speaking in support of the lord mayor of London's national appeal on behalf of the royal navy and the merchant navy.

Casualties in the merchant navy up to the end of October, it was revealed, included 30,000 dead.

WELLS CALLS ON CHURCHILL TO RETIRE—NOW

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP).—Asserting that Prime Minister Churchill is a "would-be British fuehrer" who has "lost his head completely" in the Greek crisis, H. G. Wells, the novelist, said today "it is high time he retired upon his laurels before we forget the debt we owe him" as a British fighting symbol.

In an article entitled "Churchill Must Go," published in the Weekly Tribune, Wells said the prime minister's intervention in Greece was a "discredit" to the nation and resulted from Churchill's "pro-royalism," his "snobbishness" and "limited range of ideas."

Saying that "if we do not end Winston, Winston will end us," the British author declared that "since those early days world events have moved with a swiftness this earth has never known before. His [Churchill's] ideology, picked up in the garrison life of India, on the reefs of South Africa, and in the maternal home and conversation of wealthy Conservative households, is a pitiful jumble of incoherent nonsense. He has served his purpose . . . a Boy Scout is better equipped. "We want him to go—now—before he discredits us further, for his own sake as well as ours, and if he takes all the royalties in the world with him—so much the better for human hope."

ALLIES TELL GERMANS STOLEN ART WILL BE RESTORED TO OWNERS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The allied military government in Germany will restore to the rightful owners all works of art and objects of scientific or historical value which have been looted by Germany from allied countries, a broadcast proclamation issued in the name of Gen. Eisenhower said yesterday.

All Germans who "wish to make restitution for the wrongs" done by Germany were called upon to assist in locating stolen objects. The people were warned that "all sales and movements of such objects will be forbidden and the destruction or concealment of them will be severely punished."

The proclamation also pledged that the allies would, as far as possible, refrain from damaging any German art treasure.

CONGRESSMEN FIND G. I. NEED OF HOME NEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 14.—The American congressional party, members of the house military affairs committee, after touring France, England, and Belgium, carried with it a number of impressions.

First, the representatives got the idea from G. Is they interviewed that our soldiers in Europe are adequately supplied with news. They believe the soldiers should be able to read publications giving news from home.

Second, the congressmen believe insufficient credit was given to the American effort to get supplies to the French army, and they found the impression prevails in France that what we are giving is coming from other sources.

Third, the party believes the United States may expect little more than token aid from the British in the Pacific.

Fourth, plans for post-war Germany, particularly how and what labor is going to be paid, are not sufficiently clear. They found it significant that Sidney Hillman of the CIO is in Europe.

2 G. I. DIPLOMATS POP POLITICAL QUESTION TO SECRETARY EDEN

LONDON, Dec. 14 [Reuters].—Two ambassadors without portfolio today approached Foreign Secretary Eden as he was leaving parliament Eden looked startled for a moment then grinned, as the strangers propounded their political question.

The three "diplomats" then went into a huddle from which the foreign secretary showed no inclination to leave. When at last, however, he bid a friendly good-by, his two questioners shook their heads incredulously. One of them said:

"I don't know how we had the nerve to do it, but this is something to tell them when we get back home."

The diplomats extraordinary were Sgt. Roger Dove of Hartford, Conn., and Sgt. Eric Stern of Chicago.

U.S. TO FRANCE: HARDSHIPS OF TRIP DESCRIBED

Two Months Required for Civilian's Journey.

BY SIMONE DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 14.—It is about as easy today for a civilian to travel from New York to Paris as it was for the Biblical camel to pass thru the eye of the needle.

Unless, of course, you have a mission or are a member of the armed forces or an auxiliary organization.

After nearly two months beset with many difficulties, including slowness of the Portuguese ship, I have just arrived in Paris from New York via Lisbon.

The sea trip alone required 18 days between New York and Lisbon. Ships of the Portuguese line may receive orders at sea to make a detour to Madeira or other islands to pick up troops or cargo as ours did.

French, Swiss, British, and Americans made up the passenger list.

Passports Hard to Get.

It is no easy matter for civilians to leave the United States and validation of passports from New York to Paris is subject to most careful examination and restriction. Part of the reason is that living conditions in Paris are still difficult.

And traveling from Lisbon to Paris is arduous. From Lisbon to Irun, on the Spanish border, the trip requires two days. I was the first American civilian to cross the Spanish frontier back into France since the liberation of the country. I crossed thru Irun and Hendaye over the same route in reverse, to that I had taken when I was released from internment in Baden-Baden, Germany, last March, and returned to America on the repatriation ship, Gripsholm.

It was interesting to see the same scenes under a setting that was different from nine months ago. Then Hendaye, Biarritz, Bordeaux, and other French towns were in the hands of the Germans.

Easy to Cross Spain.

Leaving Lisbon, replete with goods, it is not hard to get actual traveling facilities across Spain to France. The Portuguese capital is a mecca of successful business men, international bankers, South American — and not only South American—diplomats building titanic fortunes thru black market operations in foreign currencies.

Because few people travel, it is easy to get reservations on a train running direct from Lisbon to Irun with one sleeping car.

The day I traveled there were two other passengers—a French woman and a diplomatic courier. The train had no dining car. Food was carried in baskets bought in Lisbon station—enough for two days.

We left Lisbon Sunday night and arrived at the Spanish border Monday noon. Portuguese customs officers are firm but courteous. They prohibit the exit of woolen goods or cut material or silk stockings.

Food Is Licensed.

No food is permitted, either, unless covered by export license. The licenses never cover soap, oil or fats. One may take only a small quantity of excellent coffee, bad tea, a few sardines, and chocolate.

Spanish customs officers, who were ruthless in the old days, are better disposed to citizens of allied countries since the liberation of France.

I opened one suitcase out of the four heavy ones. The customs officers always seemed to be looking for gold bars which appear to be the most advantageous smuggling article nowadays. Formerly it was perfume.

The Spanish customs man found no gold in my suitcase. He said, "Nada," [nothing] and went away.

Then appeared the money control man. All currencies have to be declared to the Spanish. Money smugglers are usually reported in advance by porters and hotel touts so customs men know whom to look for. The search seemed more rigid than when I returned to France from America in 1942.

Wait Five Hours at Border.

Our train stopped at the border for five hours waiting for the Madrid train, and arrived in Irun at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

In Irun there were no formalities. At the station waiting taxis took us to the security police and then to the famous international bridge. It was deserted except for a guard of armed men on each side.

A small money exchange office was closed. The agent was not expecting travelers since the frontier is closed.

But the control officer, on seeing the military permission on my passport, changed some funds for me. A Spanish sentry raised the automatic gate and said, "Adios."

Then we walked across the gate on foot and at the other end there was another automatic gate and past that we set foot in France.

Pass French Sentry.

I had not seen this famous international bridge since the days when I used to accompany my husband to the border during the Spanish civil war.

On the French side a French sentry said the border was closed and he could not let us pass. He finally did. We passed the customs again. An official consulted his books to see that we—the three passengers from Lisbon—were not on his blacklist.

The customs man opened just one suitcase and touched by the honest aspect of worn shoes and thrice washed stockings he closed it quickly.

Here we were in France. The whole atmosphere was different. We went to the station in Hendaye and found we had missed the noon train. Then we went to the city hall, where we were given ration tickets to last us five days.

Gets Meager Lunch.

With ration tickets we got lunch at the Hendaye railroad station. Lunch was far different from the sumptuous 10 course meals of Avenida palace and Estorial restaurants in Lisbon, which cost but $2.

Here in a miserable railway station restaurant for a little over $3 we were served cabbage soup, a thin piece of bad meat, carrots, a green apple, and a glass of red wine.

The manager of the station restaurant, a pretty girl in an elegant handmade blue sweater, that would fetch $30 at any exclusive Michigan av. store, said that her husband had been taken away by the retreating German army.

It was raining. There were more papers to be gotten. The frontier commander finally granted us safe conduct.

At 6 o'clock we got the train for Bayonne and reached there in three hours. The distance was about 20 miles. The train was cold and unlighted. What an impression of misery and loneliness.

TELL CHUTISTS' AID TO PATRIOTS INSIDE ALBANIA

LONDON, Dec. 14 [Reuters].—A British brigadier who parachuted into Albania more than a year ago with orders to kill Germans became a chief organizer of the Partisan movement that led to the seizure of the capital, Tirana, and Durazzo, the chief port. The story was officially disclosed today. The first British military mission entered Albania in April, 1943. It was joined in October by Brig. George M. O. Davy, now commander of the Adriatic land forces.

Four hundred paratroopers were dropped in Albania. By August, 1943, several British missions were at work amid hardships and dangers. In April of this year seven Partisan brigades and 10 battalion groups—12,000 men—were operating in the country. Trained by British officers, this force was capable of launching offensives. The strength of the Partisan army soon grew to more than 20,000.

REDS CLOSE IN ON HUNGARIAN IRON, COAL TOWN

LONDON, Dec. 15 [Friday]—(AP).—Russian troops yesterday drove to within two miles of the rich iron and coal center of Szendro, 95 miles northeast of beseiged Budapest. Berlin indicated that other soviet units had crossed into western Slovakia at a point 34 miles north of the Hungarian capital and 115 miles east of Vienna.

A German broadcast said Red army troops tried to take by storm Ipolysag, a half mile inside western Slovakia, but were repulsed and lost 1,000 dead. The Russians struck from the south and west at Ipolysag, 87 miles east of Bratislava, Slovak capital, Berlin said.

Heavy fighting also was reported by Berlin at a frontier village 25 miles east of Ipolysag. The Russians threatened to smash into Slovakia on a broad front at the rear of German forces fighting in eastern Slovakia.

Aim at Encirclement.

The push toward Szendro in Hungary's northeastern mountains was part of this Russian strategy aimed at enveloping the Germans in eastern Slovakia or forcing their retreat to the west. The Russians gained six miles in the Szendro sector and reached to within nine miles of the central Slovakian frontier at two points, Moscow said.

Berlin said two soviet armies totaling 100 divisions, or more than 1,000,000 men, were attacking on a 250 mile front from the Slovakian frontier northeast of Budapest to the Yugoslav frontier southwest of the capital.

Big Guns Blast Suburbs.

Soviet siege guns were pounding to rubble the big Budapest suburbs of Ujpest and Rakospalota, adjoining the capital on the north, and Kispest on the eastern side, Moscow dispatches said.

Russian shells also arched into Budapest proper in a night and day cannonading which fed fires already set by previous bursts of shells and bombs. Some of the air battles over the capital rivaled those fought during the reconquest of Sevastopol in the Crimea, front reports said.

Russian infantrymen were fighting within seven miles of Budapest's city limits on the north, within five on the south, and less than 10 on the east, but the Germans were well dug in behind broad belts of mine fields, pillboxes, anti-tank ditches, and other fortifications.

FRENCH VOTE FOR COMMITTEE RULE OF PLANTS

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 14.—The text of the government ordinance nationalizing the coal mines of the Nord and Pas-de-Calais departments was made public today.

The publication came a few hours after the consultative assembly approved a proposed ordinance creating employer-worker committees in all industrial and commercial establishments employing more than 50 workers.

The ordinance nationalizing the coal mines provides for a president, general manager, and assistant managers to coöperate with a consultative committee including representatives of workers, office employes, technicians, consumers, and each ministry taking charge of the mines and the minister of national economy.

GIRLS WHO DATE U. S. SOLDIERS AROUSE DUTCH

MAASTRICHT, Holland, Dec. 14 (AP).—Romances between liberated Dutch girls and liberating United States soldiers are diplomatically discouraged in Limburg province, without reflection upon either. Homes, churches, schools, newspapers, and the military government have joined in the quiet campaign.

The basic theme is that the girls should avoid attracting the soldiers because this might break up the married life or engagements of their liberators in America.

The only harsh note has come in posters pasted anonymously on some buildings threatening hair cutting and other reprisals for Dutch girls caught keeping company with Americans.

BRITONS DEMAND END OF MYSTERY IN ALLIED RELIEF

UNRRA Muscle Bound, Leader Suspects.

LONDON, Dec. 14 [Reuters].—Demands to raise "the shroud of mystery" from the united nations rehabilitation and relief administration were voiced in the house of lords today.

Gerald Rufus Isaacs [Marquess of Reading] said:

"There is a suspicion that the huge UNRRA organization is such a vast colossus that it is muscle bound and paralyzed by its own weight. There is a further suspicion that those jointly responsible for its creation have not tried very hard to stimulate it into activity.

"It is also commonly believed that UNRRA has stores of food and fuel that are not reaching the people for whom they are intended and the world is entitled to know where the stoppage is."

Isaacs said too many governmental departments were concerned and there were so many fingers in the pie that the pie was not reaching the people hungry for it.

"Dumbarton Acorn" Seen.

He condemned the use of so many civil servants to staff UNRRA. Civil servants, he said, were not skilled at improvization or making urgent decisions.

"It may be that UNRRA is being used as a forcing ground for an international civil service and that it is becoming a sort of Dumbarton acorn commercial company," Isaacs went on.

"What UNRRA wants is a group of business men backed by great corps of experienced philanthropic workers.

"We want people with a flaming vocation for this task. UNRRA is a great experiment in humanity by humanity, for humanity, which cannot be allowed to fail."

Some Nations Hesitate.

Francis Hastings [earl of Huntingdon] asked why UNRRA had been shrouded in mystery and why certain stricken countries had been reluctant to apply for UNRRA relief.

"Are they frightened that UNRRA will be used to cloak commercial enterprises or that it will be used as a political weapon as relief was after the last war," he asked.

The bishop of Chichester said UNRRA would have to be written off as an effective agent unless it began to function soon.

Francis J. Rennell Rodd, at one time in charge of AMGOT [allied military government] in Sicily, said false hopes had been raised by too much publicity.

A proposal that the minister of economic warfare should take charge of UNRRA with the title of minister for the relief of Europe was put forward by Joseph Kenworthy [Lord Strabolgi]. He complained that British personnel for UNRRA had been handpicked.

"One energetic and idealistic man of means who wanted to throw his whole weight into the job was turned down because he belonged to the Labor party," Kenworthy said.

Minister Lauds Lehmann.

The minister of economic warfare, Roundell Cecil Palmer [earl of Selborne], replying for the government, said the work was already in the competent hands of former Gov. Lehmann of New York.

Executive authority has been given to Lehmann and UNRRA has full authority to act, he added. "UNRRA stops at rehabilitation," Palmer said. "For reconstruction you come to other machinery. UNRRA can only deal with supplies allotted to it by the combined boards who have to consider the needs of countries."

UNRRA Can Follow Army.

Palmer said the allied armies were taking food to Holland, Belgium, and to those parts of France where it was necessary.

"They did the same in Italy," he added. "That is a necessary function of liberating armies. UNRRA only comes in after the armies have passed on, but the idea that there must be a gap is wrong. UNRRA can follow an army instantly when invited by the military and the government of the country concerned.

"That is what has been happening in Greece. UNRRA was invited both by Gen. Scobie and by the Greek government and is functioning in Greece as an agent of the military."

Only Greece and Italy have thus far invited UNRRA, Palmer said.

POSTPONE INQUEST INTO 3 CHILDREN'S DEATHS IN FLAMES

An inquest into the fatal burning Wednesday of three children of Mr. and Mrs. William Russell of 523 W. 45th st. was postponed indefinitely yesterday, pending the outcome of the condition of a fourth child, Robert, who was in Evangelical hospital.

William Russell.

The father, a railway fireman, testified that he believes his younger son, James, 4, may have opened the door of the stove, as he had done on previous occasions, and started the fire which damaged the Russell home and left James and his two sisters, Carol Ann, 3, and Patricia, 1, dead.

Twice during the inquest, proceedings were delayed when grief overcame the father, and later when Mrs. William Dwyer of 617 W. 46th st., a sister of Mrs. Russell, collapsed and was carried from the room.

CANADIANS GAIN IN ITALY DESPITE BIG NAZI BLOWS

ROME, Italy, Dec. 14 (AP).—The Germans flung all available reserves of armor and infantry into a furious attempt today to contain a Canadian bridgehead over the Lamone river and to save the nearby road center of Bagnacavallo, 10 miles northeast of Faenza in the Po valley.

Counter-attack after counter-attack hit the four mile wide bridgehead, but all were thrown back. At nightfall the Canadians had enlarged their holding, allied headquarters announced.

The Nazis repulsed attempts by the American 5th army to gain high ground near Monte Castello, southwest of Bologna, and in turn saw their own attacks against Monte Cerere, 11 miles southeast of Bologna, rolled back. British troops smashed into Tossignano, seven and a half miles southwest of Imola.

2 Italian Generals Tried for Surrendering Naples

ROME, Dec. 14.—The trial of Gen. Riccardo Pentimalli and Gen. Ettore del Tetto, accused of surrendering Naples to the Germans without a struggle at the time of the Italian armistice, began this morning. If convicted of collaboration they are liable to death sentences.

Senate Approves Armour as Ambassador to Spain

OAK PARK AIRMAN DOWNS 2 OF 11 JAP PLANES OFF LEYTE

AN AMERICAN AIR BASE ON LEYTE, Dec. 14 (AP). — Seven marine fighter pilots, only one of whom had seen a Japanese plane in the air before, attacked a large force of Nipponese planes just before dawn Tuesday and shot down 11 without damage to themselves.

Members of the "Bat Eye" night fighting unit, the pilots were assigned to early morning cover for withdrawal of an American convoy from the Ormoc sector. They sighted enemy fighters, dive bombers, torpedo bombers, and medium bombers moving in on the convoy.

Capt. David Thomason, 726 Northeast av., Oak Park, Ill., downed two enemy fighters and damaged a third. He had led three Helicats into the scrap. "With the odds 11 to 1, I was scared green when we went in to attack," Thomason said.

Freed by Nazis Dec. 14, Becomes Citizen Dec. 14

Six years to a day after he was released from a German concentration camp, Berthold J. Weinberg, 41, of 4147 Nelson st., yesterday was granted citizenship by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Weinberg, a shipping clerk, and his wife, Frederika, 41, were given the oath with 200 other aliens. The couple came to this country three months after Weinberg was released from the camp. They have two children, Claire, 10, and Bernd, 4.

A Short and Unhappy REPORT TO THE PUBLIC!

Short on Candy..!

Sugar—chocolate—butter—all rationed! As they should be as long as the armed forces need them! We could make more candy only at a sacrifice of quality—by stretching, and substituting ingredients and rushing processes—and this we will not do! So we play fair—spread the candy we do make!

Short on Help...!

In the Kitchens, half as many trained chocolate coaters as before! Skilled candymakers—working overtime—still can't make up for those who've gone to war! In the Shops, many sales folks who have been with us 10 to 15 years and many new ones—efficient, courteous—but, alas, too few to meet peak shopping hour needs—too few to give all the service that we would like to give!

Short Store Hours!

Due to candy and help "Shorts!" We don't know which is worse—to have a customer find the Fannie May shop closed—or open with no candy on hand! Both situations worry us—plenty! But . . . what to do?

So... Please be patient with us... until Victory brings an end to Shorts!

Capt. W. J. O'Brien.

W. J. O'Brien, 1134 Chestnut st., Wilmette, was hurrying for a train at the North Western railroad station in Chicago when he was bumped into by a young air force officer, also hurrying home after 32 missions as a Flying Fortress pilot in Europe.

"Hello, dad," said the flyer, Capt. William J. O'Brien, 22. He said he did not write his parents that he was returning on leave because he wanted to surprise them, but he did not expect the surprise would be mutual. His father is president of the Sterling-Midland Coal Co., 8 S. Michigan avenue.

Capt. O'Brien, who attended Northwestern university, was lead pilot in a bomber group, and flew a plane named Miss Pooh. The Miss Pooh later was shot down over Germany. O'Brien has received the distinguished flying cross, a Presidential citation, and the air medal.

13 MERCHANT MARINE CASUALTIES LISTED; TWO FROM ILLINOIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—The navy today made public a list of 13 casualties in the merchant marine, including two from Illinois and one from Michigan.

The list, covering the period from Oct. 1 to Nov. 30, brought total merchant marine casualties to 5,898, including 725 dead, 4,592 missing, and 581 prisoners.

Those from Chicagoland on the new list are David Pugh, a messman, missing, son of Mrs. Viola Pugh, 617 E. 39th st., Chicago; Frank L. Yohe, fireman-watertender, missing, son of Mrs. Mary Yohe, Harrisburg, Ill., and Herman R. Denzler, oiler, missing, son of Herman Denzler, 237 Lake Shore dr., Grosse Pointe, Mich. Denzler previously had been reported a prisoner of war.

MEDAL AWARDED TO 'COMMANDO' KELLY BY BRITISH

Fort Benning, Ga., Dec. 14 (AP).—Tech. Sgt. Charles E. [Commando] Kelly, holder of the congressional medal of honor and the silver star, today was awarded the British military medal in the name of the king of England at the infantry school here.

Presentation of the award "for gallantry in the field" near Altavilla during the Italian campaign was made by Maj. Gen. Fred L. Walker, who commanded the 36th division in which Kelly won fame overseas and who now commands the infantry school at which Kelly is serving as a member of the academic regiment.

The military medal, which ranks with the United States silver star, was recommended for Kelly by Lt. Gen. Clark, then commanding the 5th army.

PLANT OFFICIAL SOUGHT IN THEFT OF MACHINERY

Police armed with a grand larceny warrant last night were searching for Gordon Fischer, vice president and general manager of the Curlemont corporation, 19 N. Loomis st., accused of removing plant equipment and machinery valued at several thousands of dollars. His intention apparently was to go into business for himself, according to Fred and Edward Leutheser, coowners of the company, who made the charges to Lt. Harry Scholz of the Warren Avenue police Wednesday night. The warrant was issued Wednesday in Felony court.

During the day police seized two Curlemont employes who have been under Fischer's direct supervision and found quantities of equipment identified by the Leutheser brothers as having come from the plant.

The two employes, against whom no charge has been filed yet, readily admitted removing the equipment to a store basement, but said they were only obeying Fischer's orders and assumed the basement had been obtained by the company as storage space. Fischer, whose salary was $25,000 a year, has been living at the Morrison hotel.

17 Per Cent at Infirmary Leave to Fill War Jobs

Enrollment in the Oak Forest infirmary has been reduced 17 per cent by patients who have gone to war jobs, Frank Venecek, superintendent, reported yesterday. Some of the workers, he said, are more than 70 years old. Enrollment, Venecek added, has been reduced to 2,728, compared with 3,274 a year ago. Despite the reduction of patients, he said, an increase of $122,721 was asked in the 1945 budget to meet salary increases. The 1944 budget was $1,316,288.

B-29s ASSAULT JAPAN'S BASES IN BURMA, THAILAND

Rangoon and Bangkok Hit by Super Forts.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—Super Fortresses from India smashed today at Japanese outposts of conquest in Thailand and Burma in a follow up to yesterday's major strike from Saipan against airplane production in the enemy homeland.

The force which Maj. Gen. Curtis Lemay's 20th bomber command dispatched from India was described in a war bulletin as substantial.

No details were given on the strike at Bangkok, Thailand, and Rangoon, Burma, but both are major transportation centers supplying the Japanese in southeast Asia.

The war department later added this to the bulletin:

Third B-29 Blow at Bangkok.

It was the third B-29 blow at Bangkok. That city was the target of a strike by the big bombers June 5, and it was hit again Nov. 27.

A bulletin from 20th air force headquarters here reported large fires left burning after "many bomb hits" on military and industria targets at Nagoya, Japan, yesterday The list included direct hits on the giant Mitsubishi aircraft plant. Returning members of the striking force brought back information that indicated terrific damage.

Flying back in one of the first Super Fortresses over the Nagoya targets, Capt. Thomas Kuenning of New Bremen, O., brought photographs showing 24 hits on the rambling Hatsudoki aircraft plant. Other photographs showed at least 47 direct hits, with machine shops and assembly departments especially plastered.

One B-29 Missing.

The announcement reported one of the B-29s missing and presumed lost from the big force which Brig. Gen. Haywood Hansell Jr. sent off from Saipan, his island base in the Marianas.

Japanese broadcasts had claimed that two of the raiders were downed in Japan, and also reported five were shot out of the formations that swooped down on Bangkok and Rangoon.

Tokyo broadcast a report that one B-29 flew over Tokyo today but there was no American confirmation. It has not been the custom to make announcements on such lone missions, which presumably are for reconnaissance.

New Crews Get Training.

A 20TH BOMBER COMMAND BASE IN INDIA, Dec. 14 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Curtis Le May's B-29 Super Fortresses struck in moderate force today against railyards in Rangoon, Burma, and bombed a bridge spanning the Chao Bhraya river just north of Bangkok, Thailand.

The giant planes were manned mainly by crews new to this theater. A primary purpose of the raid was to give the newcomers a combat training mission.

DIG UP $303,000 IN STOLEN FUNDS HIDDEN IN YARD

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—More than $303,000 in cash and bonds was dug from a back yard in suburban Burnaby this week, it was disclosed today.

The cash and bonds were taken from the yard by Samuel Halpern, New York attorney, under instructions from Ralph M. Wilby, recently convicted in New York on 17 grand larceny charges involving $275,984. Wilby was accused of obtaining funds fraudulently from a large United States chain department store firm.

Wilby was sentenced to a maximum of 20 years in prison and, said a royal Canadian mounted police report, sought leniency by restitution of such funds as he had left.

When the bonds and cash were deposited in a Vancouver bank R. C. M. P. "froze" the treasure pending determination of Halpern's right to remove it from the country.

FIRE ROUTS 50 SMITH COLLEGE GIRLS IN NIGHT

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 14 [Special].—Fifty young women, students of Smith college, were routed from their rooms in Dickinson house, one of the oldest dormitories on the campus, tonight when fire destroyed the interior of the 50 year old building.

Firemen battled the flames for more than an hour.

For the girls affected by the incident, the college administration, recognizing that some may be upset by being routed from their beds and sent to other dormitories, arranged special consideration at the mid-year examinations tomorrow. They were told to write "Dickinson house" at the top of their papers and were assured due allowance for a sleepless night.

Salvador Rebels Claim Entry in Province Capital

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Dec. 14 (AP).—Alfonso Rochac, a member of the El Salvador government in exile, reported tonight that "Salvadorean revolutionary troops entered the provincial capital of Ahuachapan today amid the cheers of the populace and the ringing of church bells." The Rochac account conflicted with statements issued by the government of President Aguirre which, according to travelers arriving from El Salvador, said 600 rebels attempting to invade Ahuachapan from Guatemala were "surrounded by Salvadorean regulars and now were being annihilated."

ADVANCE BY CHINESE PUTS ONE AIR FIELD BACK IN ALLIED HANDS

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 14 (AP).—Chinese troops were reported nearing the Kwangsi province city of Hochih today amid indications that Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's United States 14th air force intended to follow the Chinese and reestablish bases lost during the Japanese drive westward.

When the Japanese threatened the Kwellin air fields Chennault asked Chiang Kai-shek to enlarge landing strips deeper in China and 180,000 workers began the task. One of these fields, again in allied hands, is at Tuhshan, northern terminus of the Kweichow-Kwangsi railroad.

Chinese troops advancing along this railway were reported by the Chinese to have captured Cheho.

WARSHIP MAKES MERCY CALL OFF JAP-HELD LAND

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP).—An Australian destroyer recently made a two-day mercy dash to a British submarine near Japanese-held territory, where an emergency operation was performed on an officer stricken with appendicitis,

The destroyer, with two physicians and a replacement for the officer, Lt. Robert Strouts, met the submarine by moonlight. In choppy seas the sick man was lifted out of the coning tower by ropes and taken aboard the destroyer. Within an hour the operation was over.

U. S. SMASHES 3 NAZI WEATHER UNITS IN ARCTIC

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 [Special].—Four coast guard cutters, penetrating into Arctic waters only a few hundred miles from the north pole, destroyed three German expeditions assigned to establish weather reporting stations on the northeast coast of Greenland, the navy reported today.

Late in July, the Greenland sledge patrol, composed of Danish nationals, discovered evidence of a German weather and radio station, and the cutters Northland and Storis, bearing an army combat group, sailed to the area of Cape Sussi. They found the base, which had been hastily abandoned, and burned it.

Trawler Blown Up.

Later, the Northland sighted a 155 foot German trawler, caught in the ice and heavily damaged by fire. Litter around the ship indicated the German expedition had blown up the vessel. Cylinders used in cargo parachutes suggested the men had been supplied for some time by air.

Nearly a month later, the Northland and Storis sighted another German trawler and chased it 70 miles thru ice floes. As the Northland closed in, two explosions ripped the enemy craft. Three life boats, containing eight officers and 10 enlisted men were taken aboard from the scuttled ship. The Storis, meanwhile, successfully defended herself against a Focke-Wulf twin motored bomber, presumably dispatched from Norway.

800 Miles South of Pole.

Early in October, the cutter Eastwind landed two platoons of sailors on Koldewey Island, 800 miles south of the north pole. They stormed a German radio and weather station and captured 12 officers and enlisted men, as well as scientific and radio equipment.

Several days later, a scout plane reported to the Eastwind and cutter Southwind that a new 180 foot German armed trawler, the Externsteine was near. The coast guard craft caught the vessel and attacked. The 20 members of the crew were captured and a prize crew placed aboard the surrendered craft. It then was sailed to an allied port.

The Northland smashed its rudder fighting ice packs and was towed 3,000 miles back to its base.

39 HEROES OF ATTU SHOW CHICAGO HOW THEY WHIPPED JAPS

Infantry men lay on the pavement of State and Madison sts. at noon yesterday and in the snow and ice in Grant park last night in the first of nine days of twin performances in Chicago by the army's E bond show. These were veterans who cleared the Japanese from Attu in the Aleutians, and Mayor Kelly called them "soldiers of the highest order" in a brief address in which he said: "If these men could crawl thru mud and cold and snow and ice, some giving their lives, to reach an objective, the lagging sale of E bonds here must end in success."

A crowd estimated at 30,000 saw the demonstration in the loop.

The night show was held on the parking lot at 16th st., south of Soldiers' field.

Today's performances are scheduled for 3 p. m. and 8 p. m. in Lane stadium, 2501 Addison st., and those tomorrow, at the same hours, will be in Loyola stadium, 6525 Sheridan.

Britain Fails to Produce Any Synthetic Rubber

LONDON, Dec. 14 [Reuters].—There has not yet been any commercial production of general purpose synthetic rubber in Britain. Oliver Lyttelton, minister of production, told parliament today that the plant of the British company to which a permit was granted in 1943 was still under construction.

CIGARET FAMINE LAID IN PART TO EXPORT BUYING

Reveals U. S. Purchases for Britain.

BY JOSEPH HEARST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] charged today that government crop control methods, industry monopolies, and government buying for export—principally to Great Britain—laid the foundation for the current cigaret shortage.

He asserted that plans to increase tobacco growing acreage next year by only 7 per cent, altho the rate of cigaret consumption is increasing 15 per cent annually, probably indicates a worse shortage in 1946 and 1947 than now exists.

Ferguson made his charges at the closing hearing by the senate war investigating committee that is trying to determine reasons and remedies for the shortage. Sen. Mead [D., N. Y.], committee chairman, said the committee will make its report in January.

Growers Fined.

Questioning W. C. Finn, assistant chief of the tobacco division of war foods administration, Ferguson developed that some tobacco growers had been fined for growing more tobacco than their allotment called for in a year when other growers failed to meet quota allotments.

"So you fined some for growing too much tobacco in a year of tobacco shortage," Ferguson asserted. "Did you pay any one for not growing tobacco?"

Finn said no one was paid in 1942 but that some nominal payments were made in 1943. He and Ferguson clashed later over government sales to Britain of tobacco purchased by the government in 1939 with the understanding that it would not be turned into domestic markets. Finn revealed that 30 per cent of the flue cured tobacco essential to cigaret manufacture now is being exported, mainly to England.

Ferguson charged that when the government went into the market foreign buyers stayed out because they knew that sooner or later they would get the product from the government at lower prices.

Denies Charge.

E. Y. Floyd, representing growers, also came under close questioning by Ferguson when it developed he also represents the fertilizer industry. The senator inferred Floyd was interested in seeing acreage held down so more fertilizer would be used to increase production. Floyd denied this and said controled production "normally" meets demands.

"But now it is not normal," Ferguson retorted. "Consumption is increasing, manufacturers say they could make 25 per cent more cigarets if they had enough leaf tobacco, and yet you say 7 per cent increased acreage is enough. What if you have a crop failure? If I were a cigaret smoker I would worry about 1947 supplies."

S. Clay Williams, board chairman of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company, said his company, which is setting aside 50 per cent of its cigarets for military use, could make 25 per cent more cigarets if the cured tobacco and man power were available. He agreed with Ferguson that his limitations were caused by limits on the amount of tobacco he could buy in 1941 and 1942.

"Those were the years the farmer was paid for not growing tobacco, weren't they?" Ferguson asked.

"It adds up to what you say," Williams replied.

MOVE TO SHIFT FARM WORKERS TO WAR PLANTS

A campaign to obtain temporary labor for war plants by recruiting farm laborers during the slack season was ordered yesterday by Paul G. Armstrong, state director of the selective service system, in a directive to all draft boards.

"Farm registrants who are permitted by their local boards to accept temporary employment in either war production or on farms in other parts of the state need have no fear that their 2-C classifications will be jeopardized by their temporary transfers," the director stated.

The only requirements, Armstrong explained, are that first the registrants must obtain approval from his county farm adviser and a release from his board. He will have completed his requirements when he returns to his agricultural occupation on the date specified by the board.

"Failure to comply with these requirements subjects the registrant to reclassification. It is the local board's responsibility, of course, to determine whether or not the temporary release of a farm registrant would be in the best interest of winning the war," Armstrong concluded.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passage with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LUPE, EXPECTING BABY, KILLS SELF TO AVOID 'SHAME'

"Lupe told me about the baby," Miss Taylor said, "She said she had plenty of opportunity to get rid of it. But she said, 'It's my baby. I couldn't commit murder and live myself.

Pacing the Floor.

"She was pacing the floor when I arrived about 9:30 p. m. She said, 'I'm just weary with the whole world. People think that I fight. I have to fight for everything. I'm so tired of it all, I don't know what I'll do with myself. Ever since I was a baby I've been fighting. I've never met a man with whom I didn't have to fight to exist."

Miss Taylor said Lupe's last words to her were:

"I'm getting to the place where the only thing I'm afraid of is life itself."

It was only about two weeks ago that Miss Velez gaily announced she planned to marry Ramond, whom she described as the great love of her life of many loves. She had met Ramond, who is 27, about a year ago when he was working on the set of "Frenchman's Creek."

Service in French Army.

Ramond was once employed by the Vienna Broadcasting station, then came to America and obtained parts in pictures. He said he had been in the French army. The name plate at his swank Fountain av. apartment reads "Harald Ramond-Maresch."

"I'm very happy because Harald knows how to handle Lupe," the actress had said. "I've always been used to controling men, but I try it with Harald and he tells me where to go."

But last Saturday the "tiny torpedo" disclosed that she had broken off with Ramond in a quarrel over their clashing nationalistic and political views.

Tells Him to Get Out.

"We had one big battle and I told him to get out of my house. I like my dogs better. I'm taking them with me to New York next Saturday."

Ramond, at his apartment after briefly viewing the body, gave a recital of his romance with Lupe.

"We had lots of fights," he said. "Sometimes she would say she was pregnant and other times she would say she was not. I didn't know what to think.

"I told her I would marry her if she was expecting an infant. I told her of my great love for her and begged her to marry me. She laughed and said she was only kidding, that she wasn't expecting a baby at all, the whole thing was just a joke."

It was only last week-end at Miss Velez's home that she denied expectant motherhood, the young Frenchman said.

"I went there to tell her of my love and to fix a date for the marriage," Ramond continued. "But like many other times when I thought she was serious, she only laughed and dismissed the whole thing with a shrug and a laugh. But what a terrible, awful joke."

'I Am So Confused'

[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

Appearing on the verge of hysteria, Ramond said:

"I am so confused. I never expected this to happen. The last time I talked to her I told her I was going to marry her any way she wanted. But when she said she wasn't going to have a baby, we parted."

In a Terrible Temper.

Apparently groping for the right explanation, Ramond said he once asked Lupe to sign an agreement that he was only marrying her to give the baby a name. Then he added quickly: "But I didn't mean that. We'd had a fight and I was in a terrible temper."

Bo Roos, Lupe's business manager, gave more information about her efforts to reach an agreement with Ramond. Roos said the star had been despondent for days but that she had no financial worries. She was to have begun a personal appearance tour on Dec. 22 that would have netted her about $45,000, he said.

"Last Friday morning," Roos related, "I was called to Miss Velez's home at her telephoned insistence. There she told me of the situation in which she found herself and asked my advice. She called Ramond from upstairs and I asked him what he intended to do about it."

The agent quoted Ramond as saying he would "have to have a little time to think it over." Roos said he told the actor that he ought to marry Miss Velez, and that Ramond then brought up a proposal of a mock marriage.

To Mexico or a Doctor.

On Wednesday, the agent continued, Lupe telephoned him and said: "Well, Bo, it looks like I either have to go to Mexico for a while or to a doctor. What do you propose?"

Roos said he made an appointment to meet her at 10 a. m. today at her home.

"I talked to her until late last night trying to argue her out of her suicidal intent," Roos said. "She was trying to go to New York on Saturday for a broadcast. Her last words to me were a promise she would do nothing until I talked to her today."

Dr. Edward Gourson, Beverly Hills police surgeon, said Miss Velez appeared to have been pregnant four months. This was confirmed in a postmortem examination conducted by Dr. Victor Cefal, deputy county autopsy surgeon, who said she would have borne a child in five months.

Chemical analysis of the blood, which is expected to confirm the presumed cause of death, cannot be completed before Monday or Tuesday, officials said. Whether an inquest will be conducted depends on the outcome of this examination.

Probe of Smuggling.

Chief of Police C. H. Anderson of Beverly Hills police said an immediate investigation would be launched into the possible smuggling of seconal, the chemical in the sleeping tablets, into the United States from Mexico. He said two vials bearing seconal labels showing they originated in Mexico were found at the actress' bedside.

Public Administrator Ben Brown took charge of Miss Velez's home pending arrival of relatives reported to be her mother, Mrs. Josefina Villa-Lobos of Mexico City, and a sister, Mrs. Josefina Anderson of San Antonio, Tex.

If Lupe had become afraid of life recently it was a sudden change from her attitude during the 17 successful years she had been known in Hollywood.

She was born Guadalupe Villa-Labos in the Mexican town of San Luis Potosi, daughter of a Mexican army colonel and an opera singer. Her father, Col. Jacobo Villa-Labos, died a year ago.

Educated in Convent.

Her education began in a Mexico City convent and was continued in a convent in San Antonio, Tex. During her early years she also worked in a department store in Mexico City. She studied dancing in her spare time and when she was 15 got a dancing job in a Mexico City musical comedy.

An agent saw her in that role and got her an audition for the title part in Richard Bennett's movie "The Dove." Bennett, however, thought her too young and inexperienced, so she got a job in a stage show in Hollywood. Other movie men saw her, of course, and it wasn't long before Hal Roach was using her in a series of comedies.

Her big chance came when Doug Fairbanks chose her for the role of a wild mountain girl in "The Gaucho." Since then Lupe has worked for most of the Hollywood studios and in England.

She played opposite Rod La Rocque and many other stars of the silent era. She was co-starred with Gary Cooper, at the height of a romance with him, in "The Wolf Song," and also played in "East Is West," "Men in Her Life," and "The Broken Wing."

For the last four years she had been starred in a series of pictures especially written for her. She made two pictures in the last year, "Red Head from Manhattan" and another one in Mexico City.

Married Only Once.

Altho Miss Velez had many romances that attracted public attention, she was married only once. For five tumultuous years she was the wife of Johnny Weissmuller, film Tarzan and former Olympic swimming champion. They were married in 1933 and divorced in 1938. In 1934 and 1935 Lupe sued for divorce but dropped the suits when they were temporarily reconciled.

On the occasion of one of their many martial marital activities, the fiery little wife gaily explained:

"We're not hypocrites. Lots of married people fight and deny it. We fight and enjoy it and we admit it."

Fun and Romance.

Life meant fun and romance to Lupe. She liked to shout and throw tantrums on movie sets and in night clubs. Some people said it was an act and others declared it was a natural expression of her uninhibited temperament. She made up for her lack of great beauty by wearing bizarre clothing and for her diminutiveness by making herself heard.

To many of her thousands of movie fans she is best remembered by her explosive readiness to "scratch some people's eyes out" and her shrill cry of "I'll keel him."

Company and Union Try to Settle Strike of 300

Company and union officials yesterday were attempting to settle a strike of 300 war workers at the Central Screw company, 3501 Shields av., Lt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, said. The strike started Tuesday when the workers, who are members of local 2226 of the United Steel Workers' union, walked out in protest against the discharge of a worker. The discharge was being processed thru grievance procedure, as provided by the union's contract with the company.

MRS. HOOPER FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE IN CHICAGO COURT

Alleging cruelty, Mrs. Maryland Mathison Hooper filed suit for divorce in the Superior court yesterday against her husband, Henry Hooper, president of the Lake Shore Fuel company, 1074 Division st.

Mrs. Hooper charges that her husband beat her on two occasions last August. The Hoopers were married Feb. 10, 1923, and separated Sept. 14 this year, according to the bill. They have two daughters, Alice, 20, and Anne, 19.

On Nov. 30, Mrs. Hooper obtained a divorce in Mexico, but on advice of her lawyer, James B. Wescott, that the Mexican decree might be open to legal attack, filed yesterday's action here.

ARMY OFFICERS LAY MILITIA TRAINING PLANS

Maj. Gen. John F. Williams, chief of the national guard bureau of the army service forces, Washington, D. C., yesterday completed a two day conference with representatives of the nine service commands to plan coördination of training of present state military organizations. Interested military agencies, including those on military training and personnel, also attended the sessions in the Palmer House.

PASTOR ENTERS GUILTY PLEA TO MORALS CHARGE

New York, Dec. 14 [Special].—The Rev. William C. Baxter, rector of fashionable St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal church in White Plains, N. Y., today pleaded guilty in Westchester county city court there to a charge of indecently exposing himself last July to two brothers, 12 and 14 years old. The offense carries a possible maximum penalty of one year in the county penitentiary and a fine of $500.

Baxter was arrested Nov. 21 on information filed by Dist. Atty. Elbert T. Gallagher on complaint of the boys' father. He was arraigned before County Judge Frederick G. Schmidt on charges of carnally abusing and impairing the morals of each of the boys. He denied the charges, stating thru his attorney that the district attorney's office had misinterpreted his attempt to help children with sex education.

Judge Stewart Rowe, before whom the Rev. Baxter pleaded, set sentencing a week from today, and ordered that the rector undergo a psychiatric examination. The judge said that if the rector is found mentally ill he would be committed to a state mental institution and his plea of guilty be withdrawn.

ROBBED OF $119 AND WATCH.

TRY THIS $2,000,000 WHISKEY SOUR!

Here's the recipe below! We call it a $2,000,000 "dream of a drink"—because that's what Fleischmann invested in grains, skill and research before we released one golden bottle of this rich, luxurious, straight bourbon whiskey. We make it in limited amounts. We have to—it's so smooth and delicious!

FIRST, GET FLEISCHMANN'S BOND

THEN DO THIS!

1. Squeeze ¾ ounce of lemon juice into a cocktail shaker.
2. Add 1 teaspoonful sugar, cracked ice, 1½ oz. of velvety Fleischmann's Bond!
3. Shake well, pour into a 6-ounce glass and garnish with fresh fruit! H-m-m-m!

FLEISCHMANN'S BOND.

WARD OFFICIALS SPURN HEARING CALLED BY WLB

Refuse to Attend Strike Session in Capital.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—The national war labor board today gave Montgomery Ward & Co. until Monday night to comply with two directives involving Ward employes in Detroit, Mich., after the Chicago mail order house had refused to attend a WLB hearing.

WLB Chairman Davis said that if the company does not comply by the deadline the case will "proceed in the usual way," which could result in government seizure of the company properties in Detroit.

Today's hearing was ordered Tuesday night in an effort to settle a strike of 1,763 CIO union employes of four Montgomery Ward stores in Detroit, which began Dec. 9 in protest against the company's refusal to accept WLB orders involving maintenance of union membership, dues checkoff, seniority, arbitration, and wage increases. The company was ordered to show cause why it had not complied, while the striking union was to explain why the walkout should not be ended.

Order Termed Illegal.

Davis opened the hearing by reading a felegram from John A. Barr, Montgomery Ward labor relations manager, which stated that the company not only could not attend, but also questioned the necessity of further hearings. Barr asserted that the company considered the WLB orders "illegal and uneconomic."

The telegram called Davis' attention to the fact that the company's views have been expressed frequently and that the courts have held the board's orders unenforcable and merely advisory.

The mail order firm's refusal to heed the labor board's summons appeared to surprise the CIO delegation, headed by Samuel Wolchok, president of the United Retail and Wholesale Employes of America, parent union of the striking Detroit locals. Wolchok asserted that the telegram was an "insult" to the labor board and to Montgomery Ward workers.

Claims $300,000 Back Pay.

Asked by Davis to state the union's case, Wolchok said that the company had not given the Detroit employes any wage increase as ordered by the WLB last May 22. He asserted that under the order, which made the pay adjustments retroactive to Dec. 7, 1942, the company owes these employes about $300,000. He said that in times of high wages Montgomery Ward refuses to pay the minimum basic wage of 46 cents an hour directed by the WLB.

Demanding immediate action from the WLB, Wolchok said the union could not control Montgomery Ward employes in other cities for long. He called upon the board to enforce its orders and protect the employes.

Vinson May Get Case.

When the presentation of the union case was completed, the board went into executive session and passed resolutions reaffirming its Montgomery Ward orders and directing compliance by Monday. Should the company refuse, Davis said, the next step will be to refer the case to Economic Stabilization Director Vinson.

Davis also announced that despite Montgomery Ward's refusal to attend, hearings involving company labor disputes in six other cities, including Chicago, will be held tomorrow as scheduled.

Today's developments were the latest in the long standing fight between the mail order house and the WLB. The company's challenge to the board's authority to issue binding orders reached a climax last April when the government seized the Chicago plant and armed soldiers carried Sewell Avery, company chairman, from his office.

Avery Hanged in Effigy.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 14 (AP).—A dummy, bearing a placard with the name "Avery" on it, was "hanged" tonight by striking employes of Montgomery Ward & Co. stores.

The dummy was carried from in front of the Grand River store by two former employes now members of the merchant marine. It was taken across the street, where the strikers tied a rope around it and suspended it from a tree.

Seeks Showdown

UNION TO CARRY WARD CHARGES TO NWLB TODAY

Henry B. Anderson, president of local 20 of the United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employes' union, will appear before the national war labor board in Washington, D. C., this morning, carrying charges that his union has for more than one year been deprived of a contract because of the "arrogant refusal of Montgomery Ward & Co. to comply with the laws of the United States and its duly constituted agencies."

Anderson, acting upon a resolution adopted at an emergency meeting of 90 union stewards last night at 518 Chicago av., will demand that the WLB order the firm to comply with the board's directives at once. If the company fails to comply, he said, the union will demand that the matter be turned over to the President.

The stewards complained that their membership had suffered from the "buck passing attitude" of the WLB and demanded immediate action or an admission of the board's failure, which, they said, would enable labor to act thru economic force. They also voted for maximum financial, moral, and physical aid to their striking membership in Detroit, Mich.

Student Jailed 60 Days for Wearing U.S. Uniform

Robert M. Pagett, 24, of 700 Pennsylvania st., Gary, Ind., a radio student who was charged with illegally wearing the uniform of an air force captain, was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail yesterday by Federal Judge Walter J. La Buy. He was arrested by military police Oct. 23 at Randolph st. and Michigan av.

COUNCIL PROBE OF CHEATING CAB DRIVERS URGED

Cab service in Chicago is worse than horrible, Ald. Cohen [4th] charged yesterday at a meeting of the city council judiciary committee. He said he would ask the council to make a complete investigation.

"Almost without exception," Cohen said, "cab drivers are taking advantage of the public, and something must be done about it. If necessary, we should revoke the license of every cab driver in Chicago in an effort to stop overcharging and refusals to make long hauls."

Cohen related that while he was waiting for a bus Wednesday night before the Stevens hotel, he saw "at least 100 cabs" circling the hotel and refusing to take passengers except those going short distances.

One Cabbie Fined $10.

"In some cases," he said, "the drivers pulled away with their doors open after refusing to take passengers going some distance. Then they would reappear a short time later looking for a short run."

Judge Jay Schiller in South State st. court yesterday fined Angelo Immodino, 42, of 965 Cambridge av., $10 for refusing to accept a fare to 31st st. and Prairie av. from the loop. Charges against Sam Shapiro, 37, of 4217 Broadway, accused of refusing to take a soldier to 87th st. and Anthony av., were continued to tomorrow.

The major cab companies and union officials have said they are taking every action to oust drivers guilty of violations. Immodino will be required to appear before a board and Edward Gorman, acting public vehicle license commissioner, to show cause why his license should not be revoked.

Suggests System of Zones.

As a possible solution to the dearth of cabs in outlying sections while the loop is crowded with them, Cohen suggested a system of zones in which cabs would be required to operate.

In another discussion, the judiciary committee approved a resolution submitted by Ald. Moss [5th] which would amend the city code so that persons convicted of felonies, other than sex offenses, may obtain cab chauffeurs' licenses if they have been honorably discharged from military service. Under present law, former convicts are barred from obtaining licenses until they have established clear records for eight years after leaving prison.

Suspect's Bond in Rape of Girl, 10, Set at $10,000

John Sperry, 57, of 807 W. 51st pl., was held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 yesterday by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Felony court on charges of rape and committing an unnatural act brought on behalf of a 10 year old girl.

BENTON HARBOR PROMOTER FACES BRIBERY TRIAL

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 14 [Special].—Floyd Fitzsimmons, Benton Harbor sports promoter and veteran lobbyist, was bound over by Judge Leland W. Carr of Ingham Circuit court today to face trial on a charge of attempting to bribe Gail Handy, Eau Claire, former Republican state representative, during the 1941 legislative session.

Carr, who in his capacity of one-man grand jury had indicted Fitzsimmons, presided as examining magistrate during a hearing today at which Fitzsimmons was accused by Handy of proffering him $500 to "go along" with the lobbyist by attempting to keep in committee a bill to reguate pari-mutuel horse race betting.

Handy's testimony that he had informed other members of the committee of the bribe offer and that they later reported the gambling measure for floor consideration was corroborated by Rep. Bert J. Storey, Belding Republican.

Ruth McCormick Simms Reported Much Better

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, 64, Republican leader from New Mexico and publisher of the Rockford [Ill.] Morning Star and the Rockford Register-Republic, was reported "much better" yesterday in Billings Memorial hospital. She underwent an operation Dec. 4 for pancreatitis. Her husband, Albert G. Simms, is a former United States congressman from New Mexico, and their home is near Albuquerque.

A HOUSE DIVIDED CALLS FOR HELP ON ITS PARROT PROBLEM

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—A Vermont lady whose house stands on an international boundary—half in Canada and half in this country—has a problem over her pet parrot.

Is it okay, she asked the United States public health service today, to move Polly from the kitchen, which is in Canada, into the living room, which is in the United States—without violating quarantine regulations?

[Before a parrot can be brought into this country, it must be examined to see if it is free of psittacosis, a bird disease which is communicable to man.]

Polly's been living in the Canadian side kitchen for years, the conscientious housewife told the doctors in a letter. And now, she wants to let the bird do a little living in the United States. Public health officers declined to release the name of the woman or her home town in Vermont. They were too busy looking up the regulations.

A Cat Is Let Out of Bag and It Goes to the Dogs

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 14 (AP).—The humane society pondered a problem of metamorphosis today on whether a Persian cat could conceivably turn into a hunting dog. The cat was Sylvia, who was crated and shipped to New York, but when the crate was opened a hunting dog emerged.

AN OLD EUROPEAN CUSTOM.

The news from Greece has led some people to the conclusion that the Russians are already quarreling with the British over the division of the spoils. That interpretation may be correct but there is, as yet, little evidence to support it beyond the fact that there are a lot of Communists among the Greeks who have been fighting the British in Athens. These members of the ELAS may be acting on orders from Moscow or may be acting on their own. Certainly Moscow has as yet given no such clear indication of where it stands in the Greek quarrel as was given in Yugoslavia when Russia threw support to Tito or when, in Bulgaria, it bounced the American mission out of the country.

What the events in Greece clearly do indicate is not so much a quarrel over spoils as an agreement between Russia and Britain on the division of Europe into spheres of influence. Mr. Churchill believes he has a right to guide the Greek government and so does almost everybody else in England, including the Labor party. This "right" was acquired in a deal with the Russians by which they got comparable advantages elsewhere. Mr. Churchill hasn't peeped in protest against the Russian aggressions in Poland and elsewhere tho it was on behalf of Polish integrity that the war was undertaken. Obviously, Mr. Churchill expects the Russians to show a corresponding forbearance toward British activity in Greece. He may yet be disappointed but to date he hasn't been.

There is nothing in this record of power politics which should astonish any one who knows how Europe has been run for at least half a dozen centuries. The only people who should be astonished are those who were so naive as to believe that the world after the war would be organized in accordance with the principle of self-determination laid down in the Atlantic Charter; and those others who were persuaded that Europe was unreservedly for some such plan of collective security as was devised at Dumbarton Oaks.

If the great powers really believed in self-determination, Russia would not have gobbled the Baltic states and Britain would not have vetoed the proposal to give Carlo Sforza an important post in the Italian cabinet. If the great powers really believed in collective security, Russia would not have thought it necessary to strengthen her frontiers with new territory nor would Britain have felt compelled to reinforce her position in the Mediterranean. Similarly, France would not have found it expedient to sign a treaty of alliance with Russia. These treaties and arrangements all tell the same story: the victorious powers in Europe expect that their continent will be run after the war pretty much as it was before.

They all expect to be aggrandized to a greater or less extent thru the peace treaty. They count upon American soldiers, American wealth, and American industrial power to guarantee them forever in the possession of their gains. They look upon America as the ideal partner whose resources can be drawn upon as needed to support the business, but who will never demand a share of the profits. America is asked to commit herself to war in defense of the territorial arrangements to be made, but not one of the powers which expects to benefit has offered to give up anything toward the pacification of Europe and the world.

Britain has not proffered Hong Kong to China or India to the Indians altho the failure to do so may lead to war. Russia takes what she wants and asks no questions tho it is certain that the peoples she has absorbed will be discontented, and that their discontent may lead to armed conflict sooner or later.

As usual, Europe is over-reaching. A great many Americans who may be willing today to risk membership in a collective security arrangement are going to be dissuaded by the many evidences they see of Europe's refusal to take any self-denying steps that might minimize the risk of war.

MAYBE HARRY HOPKINS CAN EXPLAIN.

"Cigaret sales in all United Kingdom PXs [army post exchanges] were halted last night to all United States army personnel except combat soldiers, replacements, and hospital patients. . . .

"As a result of the ban on American cigaret purchases, American consumption of British cigarets was expected to rise sharply. However, no shortage of British smokes was expected last night.

"A spokesman for the British board of trade in London told the Stars and Stripes: 'Increased American purchases of our cigarets will bring no hardship to British smokers. We have plenty to supply any demands.'"

Economic note: British cigarets, because of high British excise taxes, cost from 38 to 50 cents a pack. American cigarets, tax free in post exchanges, cost about 9 cents.

SOLDIERS' PAY.

Rep. Shafer of Michigan, one of the congressmen who have been inspecting the American army in Europe, says that when he gets back to Washington he is going to move for an inquiry into the pay of American soldiers in France. They have been getting their money in French francs at the rate fixed by our government of 2 cents to the franc. A franc is really worth only about ¼ cent. As Mr. Shafer reckons it, a soldier paid in francs is getting only about $12 a month.

The obvious purpose of overhauling the franc is to reduce the purchasing power of our soldiers and thus to prevent them from competing with French civilians for scarce goods. With fewer francs to spend, the Americans will buy fewer handkerchiefs to send home as souvenirs and therefore there will be more handkerchiefs left for Frenchmen and Frenchwomen. This arrangement is very neighborly on the part of our administration and evidences once again the willingness of the planners to be generous at the expense of somebody who is in no position to talk back.

Mr. Shafer intimates that the soldiers are indignant, and they should be if the facts are as he says they are. If it is desired to keep American soldiers out of French stores and restaurants there are other and better ways of accomplishing it than by cheating the men of a substantial portion of their pay.

There is a lesson in this for Americans who believe that the planned economy means happiness and prosperity for everybody. In truth, the planned economy is always a scheme for giving something to somebody at the expense of somebody else. Generally the victim is the taxpayer. It can be anybody. In Russia it was the peasant who owned two or more cows. Now it is the American soldiers who are already making the greatest sacrifices for the nation

The planners are ruthless. They can be counted upon to finance their schemes at the expense of those who because of their limited numbers or some other reason can make no effective protest.

TAXES AND JOBS.

High taxes on corporations and large individual incomes, if not approved, certainly have not been opposed by employe organizations. Indeed, by indorsing various government subsidies to the individual citizen, such as public housing, state medicine, and other extensions of so-called social security, all of which would require greatly increased tax collections, organized labor has implicitly indorsed the high taxes. Yet it is probable that the employe, the ordinary working man, skilled or unskilled, is the greatest loser by this policy.

What he wants most is a job at good wages. Whether his wages are to be considered good depends upon how much he can buy with them in the form of food, shelter, clothing, amusement, and future security thru his savings, insurance premiums, or social security taxes. Enders M. Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation, pointed out recently that if corporation income taxes are regarded, as they should be, as one of the costs of doing business, they are an unequally distributed cost. The government collects more from the producer who is most efficient and the least from the producer who is least efficient. The result is that the corporation tax, by penalizing the efficient producer and forcing up the price of his goods, protects the inefficient at the expense of the customers who have to pay for the product.

But before the workman spends his wages he has to get them. It is perfectly obvious that what goes out in taxes paid by an employer, corporate or individual, cannot go out in wages. If the employer kept the money the workman, it is true, might not get it, but if the employer hasn't the money it is certain that the workman will not get it, except perhaps over a short period during which high wage payments would bankrupt the employer and destroy the job.

The second effect of the high tax policy is that it makes it impossible for employers to expand their business and, in the expansion, to create more jobs. If existing enterprises cannot increase their employment and new enterprises cannot be started, because money is not available to start them or the risks to which such money as is available would be subjected are so great as to be unreasonable, employment will not remain static. The number of jobs will decrease steadily.

Businesses are mortal. Their life expectancy is far less than that of their employes. Nothing is going to stop businesses from dying, any more than means will be found, in our time, to stop people from dying. The only way to maintain an adequate supply of jobs is to keep the business population growing by births in excess of deaths, just as human population is maintained.

When businesses die and replacements are not born it is not the employes of the dying businesses alone who lose jobs. The tools of production are constantly wearing out. Buildings have to be replaced. New machines have to be purchased. Unless the process of expansion and births is continuous and exceeds the death rate workers in the construction and building material trades, the machine trades, and many other occupations must also go jobless. The vicious course, in fact, extends to every phase of employment.

Men wishing jobs can only get them from those who are able to offer them. If the latter are prevented from doing so by taxation there will be no employment. Eventually the economic machine that is running down comes to dead center and we all starve together.

War employment may momentarily obscure these otherwise obvious facts. But war employment and war industries are producing nothing of value. They are only producing instruments to destroy wealth, while the only way that we all can achieve greater material prosperity is thru the production of new wealth, in excess of that which we destroy in wars and thru the ordinary mortality of business in a changing world.

WAR IN THE VINEYARDS.

This column has seen nothing in dispatches about the Yanks sampling German wines, and the explanation is simple: they have not yet reached the vineyard districts. They are, however, close to a small patch of wine country at the junction of the Saar river with the Moselle, and will probably do their first tasting there.

* * *

The Saar wines, a sub-variety of the Moselles, are regarded as the lightest and most delicate of Germany, and have a sweet, fresh bouquet. Among the finest is Schwarzhofburg, from the Wiltingen district. These wines have never been common on American restaurant cards. When young, a professional bibber testifies, "They may seem cold on the stomach and over-acid."

* * *

The Yanks' next experience will be with the Ruwer wines, also close relatives of the Moselles. Their home is a district below the city of Trier, small of area and production. Its vintages are esteemed by connoisseurs, especially for spring or summer refreshment. If this darkened world ever gives us a glance at a bottle of Maximin Grünhäuser Viertelsberg, we shall uncork it with enthusiasm, for in the wine label collection of H. L. Mencken, the Sage of Baltimore, it has a place of honor.

* * *

The Saar and Ruwer brands, when available in American cafés, were cataloged among the Moselles, which the Yanks will find in abundance on both sides of the river as they move from Trier toward Coblenz. This is another story, which was told in this column two or three months ago.

* * *

The advance in northern Alsace promises an invasion of the Palatinate [Pfalz], where there are many vineyards among the foothills of the Haardt mountains. The Pfalz wines form a respected branch of the Rhenish family, and are described as soft, full, sweet, and luscious. Among the high grade districts are Deidesheim, Ruppertsberg, Wachenheim, and Forst. The last named produces Jesuiten-Garten, a wine of great fame. These wines come from grape varieties called Riesling, Oestreicher, Traminer, and Gutedel.

A SONG OF SIXES.

Sing a song of six o'clock,
As dark as Egypt's night,
When I struggle out of bed
And dress before it's light,
For my work is miles away
And I must not be late,
With much to do and far to go
Before the clock strikes eight.

Then sing the song of six o'clock
Again as I go home
Thru streets as dark as Egypt's night
Where dim lights fight the gloom.
But when the war is over,
Which cannot be too soon,
I'll bid my job a long farewell
And stay in bed till noon!

The Date for V-Day?

It was only a penciled date on a frayed envelope on which I am wont to scribble notes and memoranda to jog a capricious memory. It appeared among a miscellaneous collection of scrawlings which only I could decipher as reminders of small errands I wanted to do when I got around to them. But there it was: 2-1-'55. And it bothered me.

What did it mean? I couldn't for the life of me recall why I had jotted it down or when. But apparently it was an important date, for I had underscored it heavily. Was it an anniversary I wanted particularly to remember? Was it the date my endowment policy paid off? No, I concluded, pondering these and many other possibilities and exhausting them all. But surely, I insisted to myself, it must have some significance or else I wouldn't have noted a date some 10 years hence.

For days I was preoccupied with the problem. At night the numerals mocked me in my dreams: 2-1-'55.

And then one day it came to me suddenly, like a rocket bomb exploding in the sky. Why, that was the date the package I left at the laundry three months before would be ready!

Davy of the Navy.

Night turns a kiss, when thrown afar—
Yes, so I've heard—into a star!
And so my eager, longing lips
Blow kisses from my fingertips
Straight toward the crystal Dipper's bowl
(A lovely cup to hold one's soul!)
And there they shimmer, wistful, gay,
Till, foaming down the Milky Way,
I know they've reached my darling's dreams—

How to Dress for Foxes.

In the hunter classes of the horse show the riders are required to wear correct hunting attire. These accouterments have often been criticized as foppish, yet there is behind them a well thought out tradition.

The scarlet coat is easily visible when a rider is thrown and perhaps badly injured. The white stock is convertible into a sling or bandage. The silk hat and steel-lined velvet cap have prevented many a serious head injury by breaking a fall. When the rider is out for the better part of a day the contents of the flask and sandwich cases attached to the saddle come in handy. The thong of the whip is used for getting a straying hound back into line; its crooked handle is used for opening gates.

By Sally Joy Brown

[This department answers questions related to help available to relatives of service men in the column or by mail if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent to Sally Joy Brown.]

Mrs. O. W. writes: "My mother recently became ill and the physician has forbidden her to do work of any kind. My brother in service has asked me to inquire about her allowance, which is $37 a month. I had been able to assist my mother financially, but, due to the loss of my husband, no longer can do so. My brother worries about the additional medical expenses and would like to know if there is any way in which my mother's allowance could be increased."

Report the facts of the case to the office of dependency benefits and provide complete identification concerning your brother, as well as details concerning your mother's illness and financial status. The case will be given consideration and it is possible a change of classification from "B" to "B 1," with an increase of $13 a month, will be granted.

I am forwarding the bulletin, which gives complete information on the family allowance. Other interested readers may obtain it by sending in a stamped, addressed envelope.

ACTIVITY DEMANDS VITAMIN B.

MILLIONS of people are taking vitamins who do not need them. They are wasting their money. Furthermore, they may be covering up some disease condition which should be identified and remedied.

We must not look upon these food accessories as tonics, boosters, or cure-alls. But they have a real place in the dietary program of every one who wants to keep his health. Each of us may ask himself, "Are my menus well balanced? Do they supply the essential vitamins and minerals?" More often than not, the answer will be "Yes." With the query replied to in the affirmative, if symptoms are present, we should look elsewhere for the cause.

Just the other day I encountered a professional man who had been employing vitamin B complex because the whites of his eyes had assumed a yellowish tinge. He was suffering from a mild type of jaundice. Despite the fact that his meals included all the nutritive elements, something had gone wrong with his liver which a boatload of vitamins would not correct. We can be sensible rather than foolish about the situation.

Another individual, however, exhibited an entirely different picture. He was a warehouseman who toiled hard all day long. Because of meat restrictions, he was eating too little protein. Fond of rice, he used this grain twice daily. His complaints were weakness, fatigue, and an "all-gone" feeling. He was advised to substitute whole wheat bread for white and in addition take a tablespoonful of dried brewers' yeast [which yields vitamin B] with his breakfast cereal or rice pudding. Within two or three days he noticed a difference and, at the end of two weeks, all signs of exhaustion had disappeared.

We must admit that it has been demonstrated positively by numerous research workers that muscular efficiency will be greatly decreased if the edibles are too low in vitamin B complex. Enough is stored in the body to allow for a deficit of about 10 days. Thereafter, discomfort will appear. The fractions which most persons require particularly are thiamin and pyridoxine. While this man brought on his trouble with too much rice and too little meat, the same effect will be observed from the use of pure white bread without a trace of bran.

The whole matter was subjected to experiment. Young, healthy males were obliged to work a certain number of hours each evening, using the Krogh bicycle. The work load was constant for several days and the outcome was so striking—namely, the necessity for a huge amount of B—that there could be no question about the results.

Those who labor, who are obliged to lift, tug, and move about, who use their muscles—will demand a somewhat larger quota than those who are sitters. But even in these trials, natural foods restored strength faster than when synthetic preparations were administered.

SHE GAGS.

L. F. writes: Can you offer any suggestions to overcome gagging when I am brushing my teeth, or when a dentist is working on them?

REPLY.

Try a child's size toothbrush. You are unusually sensitive. An astringent mouth wash that contains a small amount of alum or tannic acid should bring relief. Rinsing the oral cavity several times daily with strong tea may be successful. Dentists occasionally employ a local anesthetic.

LITTLE DANGER.

A. T. writes: Is there any way to fumigate books that have been in a home of a patient with tuberculosis?

REPLY.

Probably not necessary if you will expose them to fresh air and sunlight for a few days. There is practically no evidence that disease is spread by literature.

MOTH PATCHES.

Mrs. F. R. writes: Are brown patches on the face caused by a skin or an internal disorder?

REPLY.

Internal. Among the causative factors are anemia, indigestion, constipation, pregnancy, etc.

LITTLE'S DISEASE.

L. D. writes: What is meant by "a spastic child?"

REPLY.

The 51st Chapter of Genesis.

1. And it came to pass after these things that Abraham sat in the door of his tent, after the going down of the sun.

2. And behold a man, bowed with age, came from the way of the wilderness, leaning on a staff.

3. And Abraham arose and met him, and said unto him, turn in, I pray thee, and wash thy feet, and tarry all night, and thou shalt arise early on the morrow and go on thy way.

4. But the man said, Nay, for I will abide under this tree.

5. And Abraham pressed him greatly, so he turned, and they went into the tent, and Abraham baked unleavened bread, and they did eat.

6. And when Abraham saw that the man blessed not God, he said unto him. Wherefore dost thou not worship the most high God, creator of heaven and earth?

7. And the man answered and said, I do not worship the God thou speakest of, neither do I call upon his name; for I have made to myself a God, which abideth always in mine house and provideth me with all things.

8. And Abraham's zeal was kindled against the man, and he arose and drove him forth with blows into the wilderness.

9. And at midnight God called unto Abraham, saying, Abraham, where is the stranger?

10. And Abraham answered and said, Lord, he would not worship thee, neither would he call upon thy name, therefore have I driven him out from before my face into the wilderness.

11. And God said, have I borne with him these hundred ninety and eight years, and nourished him and cloathed him, notwithstanding his rebellion against me, and couldst not thou, that art thyself a sinner, beare with him one night?

12. And Abraham said, Let not the anger of the Lord wax hot against his servant; lo, I have sinned, forgive me, I pray thee.

13. And Abraham arose and went forth into the wilderness, and sought diligently for the man, and found him, and returned with him to the tent, and when he had entreated him kindly, he sent him away on the morrow with gifts.

14. And God spake again unto Abraham, saying, For this thy sin shall thy seed be afflicted four hundred years in a strange land:

15. But for thy repentance will I deliver them, and they shall come forth with power and with gladness of heart, and with much substance.

There is no 51st chapter of Genesis in the Bible, but a 51st chapter, in the form here presented, was slipped in the Bible of Benjamin Franklin by Franklin himself. It usually is called the parable against persecution and did not originate with Franklin, altho he gave it its Biblical phrasing and delighted to pick up his Bible, read the passage to biblical students, and listen to them grope for explanation.

Its origin has been traced to ancient Persia, but Franklin based his paraphrase on a parable advocating tolerance in a book by Jeremy Taylor.

Franklin was greatly surprised when the British Repository launched an attack upon him for plagiarism. He wrote in prompt rebuttal:

". . . I never published that chapter, and never claimed more credit from it than what related to the style, and the addition of the concluding threatening and promise. The publishing of it . . . without my consent . . . deprived me of a great deal of amusement in . . . obtaining the remarks of the Scripturians upon it, which were sometimes diverting; not but that it is in itself, on account of the importance of its moral, well worth being made known to all mankind."

Franklin doubtless would be gratified if he knew that at Christmas, 1944, climaxing a decade of violent persecution and intolerance, his parable now is being sent broadside over the United States on Christmas cards.

WEALTH IS TIME.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—Your editorial, "The Life and Death of Wealth," was aptly named. Wealth intrinsically is crystallized human labor and labor is of the stuff of which life, and perhaps death, is made—time. We recognize that the war into which the New Deal has plunged us as its only solution to the depression is costing the nation dearly in lives and blood. It has not been made as obvious that this same depression-solving war is draining a bit of the life stuff from each of us. We work to amass wealth so that we may buy a home, start a business of our own, be assured of a comfortable and secure old age. But New Deal taxes have made any one of those things much more difficult to obtain. Using my own case as an example, New Deal taxes deduct approximately one-sixth from my pay check each week. Assuming that I started working at 18 and stopped at 66, my working lifetime would be 48 years. If the present rate of taxation made necessary by the New Deal solution of the depression were to continue thru that lifetime, one-sixth of my labor would have gone to pay taxes, eight years of my life would have been wasted to finance the endless job duplication and make-work treadmill that is Washington, D. C. That, in its simplest terms, is what high taxes mean. They mean the productive lifetime of every worker is shortened. The New Deal would share the wealth. But wealth is labor and labor is time. How can the New Deal share time?

DO ISOLATIONISTS "MUTINY"?

Chicago, Dec. 7.—With reference to James Cook's item, "Americans Don't Mutiny," which appeared in the Dec. 6 issue of THE TRIBUNE, it appears that Mr. Cook is one of those disposed to make criticisms and comparisons of conditions in countries of which he is grossly ignorant. For his information, the writer wishes to state facts which he, Mr. Cook, may find worthwhile investigating.

Canada has 750,000 men in its armed forces, all of whom make up a volunteer army. This corresponds in proportion to population to an army of 16,500,000 which this country would have if it were furnishing the same man power as Canada. In no engagement in Europe has the loss of American lives equaled that of Canada in Dieppe, and very recently, in Holland. The 60,000 Zombies of Canada likewise can be compared to the 40,000,000 isolationists in the United States. "Volunteers Don't Mutiny."

PALOMINOS.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Everything has been said that can be said of the Chicago horse show. The American saddle horse has been called "the peacock of horses," and seeing him in the ring, who would dispute the title?

But to lovers of the horse in his natural beauty, the Palomino class at the show is truly delightful. We trust that this class will be included in future shows in Chicago, altho not alone for the Palomino, but for our Morgans, Arabians, pintos, and albinos. There are many of these beautiful horses in the vicinity, but there is no way of showing them to admirers of these types. So, all thanks to the sponsors of this great show for bringing one such class before the public.

THE COMBAT ENGINEERS REBUT.

NEW GUINEA, Nov. 26.—In the Oct. 8 Voice of the People three of us so-called U. S. O. Commandos here in New Guinea read the article by Gunnery Sgt. James E. Tyler of the marines.

"I'll admit that the United States army are the forgotten men of the Pacific due to the fact that we do not rate a combat correspondent to exploit our deeds. We have other things to do. None of us wants glory, we're just in there pitching, doing our damnedest to get this over with as soon as possible."

Perhaps the sergeant has never heard of the 27th, 32d, 41st, 25th, 43d American divisions, and many more. Perhaps the sergeant remembers Guadalcanal. The 164th infantry was there and they weren't exactly picking daisies and building U. S. O. clubs.

Some of us doubt whether the sergeant has been down here. We have had numerous contacts with the marines and have found that the boys that are always shooting off their mouths are the ones who have never seen actual combat.

We also have been wondering how the sergeant happens to be back in Chicago after being, as he says, overseas two years. Some of these so-called U. S. O. Commandos who have been down here 32 to 34 months have fought thru the Buna campaign, Aitape, Hollandia, Biak, Halmahera, and others, have been wounded two or three times, are still down here wondering just what rotation is all about.

We admit that the marines are doing a fine job but it burns us up to hear a few "gyrenes" shoot off their mouths about how great they are as individuals.

THE STOCK SHOW.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Now that the 1944 Chicago market fat stock and carlot competition has gone into history I trust you will permit me to express our deep appreciation of the excellent support given us by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The show was a great success and the youngsters, as well as the adult exhibitors, left Chicago in high spirits as a result of the splendid sales. The juniors were particularly pleased and encouraged, and we feel that the publicity given the show contributed largely in making the sales a success. We are deeply indebted to your capable staff who reported it so well.

Dieterich, Ill., Dec. 9.—Referring to the editorial, "Who's First With the Double-Cross?" in THE TRIBUNE today, I wish to recall to you a news item in THE TRIBUNE at the time Italy was driven out of Ethiopia. This stated that Great Britain had acquired, by treaty, all rights to airports in Ethiopia.

$350,000 LEFT IN G.O.P. CHEST TO BOOST PARTY

Leaders Ponder Dewey's Part in Control.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Disclosure last night that $350,000 remains in the Republican national treasury raised the question in the minds of some G. O. P. leaders as to whether Gov. Dewey intends to control the use of the money.

National Chairman Herbert Brownell Jr., chosen for that post by Dewey, said the surplus will finance year 'round operation of national headquarters equipped with a publicity and research staff. He spoke at a dinner in the Stevens hotel honoring those who helped raise G. O. P. funds.

"We can win in the 1946 congressional elections, and in 1948 put the Republican party back where it belongs," Brownell said. "Voters have charged the national committee with the responsibility of leading party activities."

Brownell Tells Work Plans.

Upon returning to New York in a few days, Brownell said, he will confer with Gov. Dewey and Gov. Bricker, "who performed such brilliant service for Republicans." After getting the consensus of the national committee members in a meeting soon, and of G. O. P. senators and governors, the money will be put to work to get "the best brains possible" for a strong research and publicity department.

Sentiment of Republican voters leaves no doubt that they favor an aggressive and continuous campaign starting as soon as possible, he said.

Gov. Green and Werner W. Schroeder, national vice chairman and head of the Illinois fund raising groups, gave the 75 guests postmortem reports on the election. Dewey lost Illinois altho most Republican state candidates won.

Green Calls for Service.

Major factors, said the governor, were the war's domination of public thinking, activity of the CIO political action committee and segments of the AFL unions, and a previously unmeasured war time exodus of about 200,000 downstate voters. Instead of denouncing certain groups, the party should demonstrate thru its public officials that "we really can serve the great different masses of people," Green said. He also declared it the duty of the G. O. P. to be militant in pointing out New Deal weaknesses. He then paid his respects to Dewey and Bricker.

"I feel that the two men heading the national ticket were fine Americans who would have won but for major obstacles that could not be overcome," he said.

Gov. Green expressed hope that Brownell would continue as national chairman and recommended that the $350,000 be used to form a strong organization.

Schroeder Explains Defeat.

Schroeder, host and toastmaster, urged that none forget that the G. O. P. got 21½ million votes in the nation and 2 million for some candidates in Illinois. He blamed defeats on the fact that Democratic patronage was 100 times as great in Chicago as that of Republicans, and on "historical circumstances."

"I am not at all discouraged," Schroeder said. "We have carried on the fight for Americanism and constitutionalism, and we're on our way to victory."

Silas W. Strawn read a letter from James W. Kemper of Chicago, chairman of the national finance committee, reporting the surplus. Most Republican leaders were present, including Atty. Gen. Barrett, Secretary of State Rowe, State Treasurer Stratton, and Superintendent of Public Instruction Nickell.

96 PCT. OF 11,152 SHOPS OBEY OPA AND POST PRICES

More than 96 per cent of the 11,152 retail stores handling women's and children's outerwear garments in the seven states of the Chicago office of price administration region have complied with the price posting regulations, Rae E. Walters, regional administrator, said yesterday.

Most of those not in compliance are small country stores which do not carry complete inventories and have only small stocks, he said. Retail ceilings are based on cost to dealers, and are not flat priced like meat and groceries, Walters pointed out, and must be figured out by each store.

THE QUESTION.

What articles that you planned to discard did you have to salvage because of war time restrictions?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Dolores Mae Helm, Gridley, Ill.—You should see my tennis shoes—what there is of them. They have a few holes in the bottoms and the tops are beginning to get thin. But if you've tried to buy a new pair you'll understand why I'm hanging onto the ones I have. Anyway—they used to be tennis shoes.

Mrs. A. Tennent, housewife, 1824 N. Albany av.—My washing machine chugs and sputters like a tired automobile, and my vacuum sweeper sounds like a squadron of planes—that is, when it runs. I planned to junk them long ago but they're electrical appliances and I realize they are far better than a wash board and a carpet sweeper.

Patricia Selcs, timekeeper, 5120 S. Troy st.—I was all set to throw away my old luggage and buy some modern traveling equipment until I started looking around. I can get newer luggage but it's so expensive I've decided my old trunk will do. You aren't supposed to travel now, so what difference does it make?

Mrs. Clayton W. Chance, housewife, El Paso, Tex.—Before the war I used to buy new dresses just because I was tired of my old ones. I find that many of my old dresses are in perfect condition, and since newer clothes are so skimpy I've been wearing old ones and getting compliments on them. So why worry?

Celia Siegel, personal shopper, 4039 Van Buren st.—Several people have eyed my nylon hose with envy. They are a part of a salvage project I conducted among my old stockings. I couldn't have mended them myself, so I sent them out. They came back looking like new, and are good for perhaps another year's wear.

Mrs. Robert L. Rieck, housewife, 1655 W. 57th st.—I've got to the point where I save almost everything—I hate to throw anything away because, you never know, some one may be able to use it. I've been especially careful to save grease because, first, my brother was overseas and now my husband is there.

WIFE HAS RIGHT TO HURL FRYING PAN, JUDGE TOLD

It is not cruel of a wife to strike her husband with a skillet or bottle unless she hits him hard enough to make him fear for his life, Atty. Norman Becker, representing Mrs. Clare Elizabeth Martin, 44, of 1003 E. 53d st., blonde former German actress, argued before Judge William J. Lindsay in Superior court yesterday.

Mrs. Martin charges her husband, Robert, 35, a physician, with adultery and cruelty in a suit for divorce, and he has a cross-bill charging her with cruelty. A private detective, Sol D. Golbey, hired by Mrs. Martin, testified that Dr. Martin spent three hours with another woman in the Broadview hotel at 5540 Hyde Park blvd. last March. For his side, Dr. Martin, in court with Atty. Irving Eisenman, said his wife threw a skillet at him and hit him with a bottle.

"That was nothing," said Atty. Becker. "The Illinois Supreme court has held that cruelty of a woman to a man must be an act of such great degree as to place the man in fear of his life. After Dr. Martin was hit with the frying pan he calmly went out to a restaurant for supper; after he was hit with the bottle he just dressed his wounds and went to work."

RETRIAL OF AP IN LOWER COURT OPPOSED BY U.S.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—The justice department told the Supreme court today it saw no reason why the tribunal should send back for lower court trial the government's civil anti-trust suit against the Associated Press.

The Supreme court has the case under advisement. It heard arguments Dec. 5 and 6 on appeals from the summary judgment by a special three judge federal District court in New York, which ruled that the coöperative news organization must change its membership by-laws.

The District court acted at the government's request and over the AP's objection in giving summary judgment — that is, a decision by the judges based solely on affidavits and depositions.

Filed at Court Request.

The justice department said the memorandum was presented at the request of the court. Several members of the court questioned government counsel closely on the reasons for the summary judgment move during last week's argument.

The government's memorandum said the government contended "all material facts are established beyond dispute" and that "on these facts the judgment of the District court should be affirmed" with several modifications requested earlier by the department.

"The government believes," the memorandum added, "that there is thus no occasion to remand the case to the District court for the trial of any issue of fact."

After describing the procedure used in the District court, the department's memorandum said that "with controversy as to the underlying facts almost wholly removed the only effect of a trial in further elucidating the facts would have been to subject the affidavit evidence to the test of cross-examination. In effect, the government's affidavit evidence was subjected to a much more drastic test.

AP Can Answer.

"The defendants [AP] had ample opportunity to examine the government's affidavit and to offer counter-affidavits, thereby raising a dispute as to any affidavit statement offered by the government and eliminating it from consideration under the motion" [for summary judgment].

AP counsel has contended, the memorandum said, that various statements made in an earlier brief submitted to the Supreme court by the government involve controversial, factual questions. The memorandum continued:

"We submit that the contention is almost wholly based upon misinterpretation of the government's position or statements or upon failure to distinguish between essential and nonessential facts. We further submit that nothing to which AP refers puts in genuine dispute the ultimate facts."

Court attaches said the AP may file an answering memorandum if desired.

ICE SHOW TABS START FLOWING TO BOND OFFICE

Chicago's wholehearted support of a plan to send 8,500 soldiers and sailors and their girls to the opening night of the new Sonja Henie ice show in Chicago Stadium, Dec. 22, was evidenced yesterday by a flood of several hundred telephone inquiries received at 6th war loan headquarters and at The Tribune.

The first wave of coupons clipped from The Tribune and stamped to certify the purchase of a $100 war bond were received at the war loan headquarters.

Under the plan, which is sponsored jointly by The Tribune and the treasury department, each person who purchases a $100 bond and presents a coupon clipped from this newspaper for stamping by the bond sales agent will be giving a Christmas gift of two tickets to the Henie show to some service man.

Sales of bonds to individuals in the 6th war loan drive in Chicago and Cook county rose to $155,917,000, or 66.1 per cent of their quota, while sales to corporations rose to 120.1 per cent over their quota by the close of business on Tuesday. Over-all sales thruout the state rose to $1,091,400,000, or 105.6 per cent of the quota, but purchases by individuals totaled $230,400,000, or only 65.6 per cent of their quota.

SENATE INQUIRY OF INDIANA VOTE CALLED 'SMEAR'

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 14 [Special].—Atty. Gen. James A. Emmert [R.] charged today that investigators for a senate committee looking into alleged election irregularities in Indiana are using "browbeating methods."

Emmert's charge was made in a letter to Sen. Willis [R., Ind.] asking for a copy of the senate resolution, "if any," under which the committee headed by Sen. Green [D., R. I.] was created and empowered to investigate charges of election irregularities.

In the November election, Homer Capehart, a Republican, defeated Gov. Henry F. Schricker for Samuel D. Jackson's seat in the United States senate while Ralph Gates, also a Republican, defeated Jackson for the gubernatorial post vacated by Schricker.

The attorney general wrote Willis that after the November election "the governor [Schricker] and a few other soreheads who could not take defeat started yelling, 'We were robbed.' The senate committee sent investigators to Indianapolis, and they still are conducting their inquisition by browbeatng methods, to put it mildly. If it is true that it is only to investigate campaign expenditures, they are out on a purely smearing expedition without any basis of legal authority."

LAST CALL

Saturday, December 16, is the last day subscriptions will be accepted for the coupon bonds offered in the 6th War Loan.

The Series "E" War Savings Bonds and other savings bonds and notes can be bought any time this month and count in the drive.

2% U. S. Treasury Bonds of 1952-54
1¼% U. S. Treasury Notes due 1947
⅞% Certificates of Indebtedness due Dec. 1, 1945

The price in each case is the face value and accrued interest.

These issues are payable to bearer, and semi-annual interest is paid by means of coupons unless registration in owner's name is requested. They can be bought and sold in the market and used as collateral security for loans.

Chicago and Illinois have a long way to go to reach their 6th War Loan goal in sales to individuals. What will our fighting men think of us if we fail them?

This is addressed to individuals who plan to buy some of the above issues. Saturday the 16th is the last day. Any bank, investment dealer or broker will handle your subscription without charge.

This advertisement is published by a group of Chicago investment houses and stock exchange firms in the interest of the 6th War Loan.

CANAL HIGHWAY INDORSED FOR MOTOR ECONOMY

South Area Group Tells Annual Savings.

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

As a great saving in expense and time, the proposed southwest superhighway, which would utilize the abandoned Illinois and Michigan canal route, was indorsed yesterday by the south area council of the Chicago Motor club. Resolutions pointed out that motorists now using the southwesterly streets would save 38 cents in operating expenses and 44 minutes for each round trip.

For motorists living in the southwest suburbs and driving to the loop 300 days a year, the saving in expense would be $114 a year per car. Engineers also computed that the round trip saving in time would equal at least 55 cents a day, or $165 a year, for each motorist who drives from Harlem av.

Canal Route Has Top Rating.

Gov. Green has asked that the canal route be given top priority in plans for post-war improvement of Chicago's transportation system.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club, pointed out that the south area council has advocated the southwest super-highway for nine years. He added:

"Reasons for building it now are more imperative than ever. This highway will be a relief to motorists from a standpoint of economy and time saving. It is estimated that about 13,000 vehicles a day will enter the city limits over this highway.

Highway Will Save Lives.

"In addition, of course, there will be a lifesaving factor that will be tremendously important."

MRS. LOVE TAKES OFF ON HER LAST FLIGHT AS WASP

Mrs. Nancy Harkness Love, famous woman flyer and organizer of the WASP, yesterday was at the controls of one of the six C-54s which departed for a west coast base from the Douglas Aircraft company's air field at Higgins and Mannheim rds.

The flight was the first Mrs. Love made as pilot of one of the big cargo ships, but it was her swansong as a member of the WASP, which will be disbanded next week.

Serving as Mrs. Love's co-pilot was Miss Beatrice Medes, also of the WASP, of Grand Rapids, Mich. Miss Medes has been co-pilot to the famous flyer for more than a year. The other five ships were flown by officers in the air transport command. The shipment was the largest made in one day from the Douglas plant.

REFUSES CLAIM ON ESTATE OF W. H. THOMPSON

James W. Breen, attorney for the 2 million dollar estate of William H. Thompson, former Republican mayor, said yesterday that he has refused to settle a $150,000 claim against the estate presented in behalf of Ethabelle Green, 35, who for 13 years was Thompson's confidential secretary. Green said the claim was presented three weeks ago by Atty. Joseph T. Harrington for Miss Green on the ground Thompson had promised her half the estate several years ago.

Breen said that Miss Green will have to sue to get any part of the estate.

Harrington declined last night to discuss his client's affairs, but of Breen he said: "If this case comes to trial, Jim Breen will be put on the stand under oath and we will see what he has to say then."

SENATE LIMITS PETRILLO'S BAN ON BROADCASTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—The senate today passed legislation designed to prohibit James Caesar Petrillo's American Federation of Musicians from interfering with the broadcasting of noncommercial cultural or education programs.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], was approved by unanimous voice vote during a routine call of the calendar of unopposed bills. It goes to the house.

The legislation grew out of Petrillo's cancelation of a broadcast by the National High School Symphony orchestra from the National Music camp at Interlochen, Mich.

TOTS IN NURSERY WRITE AND MAIL WISHES TO SANTA

Judge Thomas J. Hoban Seriously Ill in Elgin

Judge Thomas J. Hoban, 48, a vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, is seriously ill in St. Joseph hospital, Elgin, where he was taken early yesterday for treatment of a heart condition. The Hobans reside at 4 N. Jackson st., Elgin.

DIES OF GUNSHOT WOUNDS.

James Warren, 38, Negro, of 3130 Wabash av., died in the Bridewell hospital last night of gunshot wounds inflicted Dec. 6 in his home. Police arrested his landlord, Walter Crosby, 69, also a Negro, and charged him with assault to kill.

HELD ON FRAUD CHARGE BY KIN OF WAR HEROES

Walter A. Thomas, 39, of the Plaza hotel, 32 W. 8th av., Gary, was held to the federal grand jury in bond of $1,000 by United States Commissioner Forrest Gantenbein in Gary yesterday on a charge of using the mails to defraud. He is accused of running a newspaper clipping racket dealing with war casualties.

Postal authorities said that Thomas wrote to families of men killed, wounded, or missing in action, or otherwise in service, promising for $1 to mail a large eastern newspaper mentioning the soldiers "favorably in the headlines."

Sometimes, agents said, Thomas sent names from newspaper casualty lists, and sometimes he sent dummy front pages with the specified name and headline inserted. Some casualty lists were clipped from THE TRIBUNE. Two complainants against Thomas are Mrs. Grace Edris, 842 19th st., Rock Island, Ill., and Mrs. Iva Miller, 7015 16th av., Kenosha, Wis.

TEACHER NAMED IN MURDER WRIT IS FOUND INSANE

Rochester, Minn., Dec. 14 (AP).—Nellie V. Gilberson, 57, Minneapolis school teacher charged with first degree murder in the strangulation death of her roommate, Minnie M. Easthagen, 60, another Minneapolis teacher, today was found insane by an Olmstead county sanity board.

Probate Judge Bunn T. Willson disclosed the findings following an all day hearing. He said a certificate of the board's report would be presented to District Judge Vernon Gates here tomorrow.

Judge Willson said the board's findings do not eliminate the murder charge but merely suspend it so long as Miss Gilberson's mental condition remains unchanged.

Miss Easthagen was slain the night of Nov. 21 while she and Miss Gilberson were in Rochester for medical attention for the former.

ANALYZE COOK COUNTY'S ROAD PROGRAM TODAY

Engineers to Confer in Quinlan's Office.

Cook county's long range highway plans, which contemplate the building of several express highways in the county outside Chicago, are to be discussed this afternoon by a committee of engineers representing Chicago and other local municipalities.

Maj. George A. Quinlan, county highway superintendent, said that the engineers are members of a board of review that holds frequent meetings and that the meeting will be in his office so that maps and charts drawn by himself and his staff will be available. Among those expected to be present are Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways for the city; Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works; and representatives of the sanitary and park districts.

48 Million Program Drawn.

The county program, which was outlined in a report by Quinlan to the county board recently, would provide for expenditure of 48 million dollars on superhighways between now and the end of 1955. All the construction would be outside the city limits, except for a portion of the city's Congress street project, to cost the county less than 5 millions.

The report indicated that the county will go thru with two south suburban highways [Tri-State and Calumet] and one to the north [Edens], for which rights of way are being acquired, and an extension of Congress street when needed.

U. S. Funds for Congress St.

The allocation of funds would leave the intracity Congress street project to be financed almost wholly by federal and state money.

Plans of the county also contemplate building many grade crossing separations and an adequate number of secondary roads in the country areas. Quinlan's program was based on conservatively estimated revenues from the county's share of gasoline taxes and its property tax levy.

Egg Drier Fire Drives 50 Employes from Work

An overheated egg drier was the cause of a fire that forced 50 workers to flee the Marquette Food Industries at 59 E. Illinois st. yesterday, it was reported by Fire Chief Burton Erickson of the 1st battalion. He estimated the damage at $200.

3 FROM CHICAGO WHO SERVED ON PRINCETON ARRIVE BACK IN U. S.

Three Chicago pilots of the lost carrier Princeton's fighting squadron 27, which has 198 Jap planes and five ships to its credit, have returned from the Pacific, the 9th naval district has announced.

They are Ensign James P. McCarthy, 5225 Cuyler av., who destroyed three enemy planes; Ensign Elten A. Gould Jr., 3929 Lowell av., who is credited with two, and Ensign Frederick D. Hautop, 7131 Palmer st., whose score is two.

The Princeton was lost in the Leyte invasion, but not before its fighting and torpedo squadrons had extracted a heavy price from the enemy. In addition to fighting 27's record of planes and ships destroyed, torpedo squadron 27 accounted for three cargo ships, a medium tanker, and three small craft.

POLICE SEIZE 2 AS THEY TRY TO ROB MESSENGER

Nick Raniere Jr., 17, of 3845 Flournoy st., a messenger employed by the Stevens hotel, and Rudy Fico, 17, of 424 S. Pulaski rd., were seized yesterday by Detectives James Condon and Terrence Loftus, who learned of their plans to rob another messenger, John Sprenger, 612 Webster av., who was sent to a postal substation in the Transportation building at 608 S. Dearborn st. to buy $150 worth of stamps. Sprenger said the two had threatened to rob him and make him a "permanent 4-F" if he resisted. The detectives waited until Fico jabbed at Sprenger with a four inch fish knife outside the postal station, then seized both. Fico and Raniere told police they decided to rob Sprenger because they believed he "would not squawk."

A $6,000 CHAMP UPSETS ROUTINE ON IOWA FARM

Prize Steer Gets His Just Due of Attention.

BY GAIL COMPTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bryant, Ia., Dec. 14.—Fame has tossed a monkey wrench into the routine on Dilman Wilson's farm two miles north of here.

Six thousand dollars' worth of beef on the hoof stands in a small red barn back of the Wilson house. It is Teddy, Hereford steer chosen grand champion of the fat stock show last week in Chicago.

Teddy to Tour Colleges.

Ben was asked to take care of Teddy until next month, when it will tour agricultural colleges and be shown to farmer groups as a proper example of what today's farm youth can accomplish.

Ben has found that the fame attached to producing the finest steer in the nation brings a lot of responsibility, in addition to money. The tall, red haired youngster has discovered his life revolves around the steer instead of the ordinary winter routine of a 160 acre farm. Take yesterday, for example.

Ben got up at 6 a. m. Outside it was dark and the cold wind swept over the big snow drifts, which for two days had kept the family cut off from the outside. Slipping into the layers of clothing demanded by an Iowa winter, Ben hurried downstairs and to the cattle barn. Then chores started.

101 Calves Gather to Feast.

Baskets of shelled corn, ground corn, cob meal, and baskets of oats were dumped into the long troughs in the cattle lot back of the barn. Then Ben pitched four bales of clover hay down the chute into the feed troughs, and 101 Hereford calves gathered to feast.

Next eight Guernsey cows were milked, Ben and his uncle each milking four. Then they went to the milkhouse, where the milk was separated.

The cows fed, the four draft horses and the pony got attention. And then Teddy ate.

When all the stock had been fed it was time for Ben and his uncle to have breakfast. After breakfast there were more chores, such as cleaning the barns, feeding and watering 300 Leghorn hens, and getting the feed ready for evening.

Special Jobs Postponed.

Ben and his uncle had planned a number of additional chores for the day — there was some repair work to be done on Ben's car, and they were to help a neighbor ship cattle —but these had to be postponed. Ben and Uncle Dilman and Aunt Amanda got into their best clothes before noon, because Ben was guest of honor at a Kiwanis club luncheon in Clinton.

"Sure it's fun," he said. "Next Saturday I talk on the radio in Des Moines. I get nice letters in every mail from people I never knew. But, my gosh, I haven't been able to settle down to a normal day's work since I got back from Chicago."

This is the last time I call on a detective's daughter.

BLONDE EX-WAC FOUND RAPED AND STRANGLED

Houston, Tex., Dec. 14 (AP).—The body of Miss Clara Belle Penn, blonde, 26 year old former WAC, was found today in a vacant lot and Justice of the Peace W. C. Ragan said she had been raped and strangled.

Miss Penn had been employed in a cafeteria since coming here after her discharge from the WAC in Fort Des Moines, Ia., last August.

Mrs. A. V. Fitzgerald, with whom Miss Penn recently lived, said the slain woman's mother, Mrs. Clara J. Penn of Kansas City, Mo., was arriving in Houston today.

FARMERS URGE FREE PRESS AND RADIO SYSTEMS

Resolutions calling for greater economic balance between industry and agriculture, improvement of administration of the national agricultural program, extension of social security to farm labor, and organization for world peace were adopted by the American Farm Bureau federation at the closing session of its annual convention yesterday in Hotel Sherman. The convention also opposed farm subsidies and compulsory military training and urged retention of the Little Steel formula.

Advocating continuation of press and radio freedom, one resolution stated that "clear channel broadcasting, free from interference, is invaluable to rural America as a source of news, information, and entertainment. We urge no reduction in the number of clear channel stations and no limitation of clear channel broadcasting."

The first resolution urged a series of 1945 meetings between agriculture and industry to form policies that will assure "security for labor, stability for industry, and parity for American agriculture."

The farm bureau, representing 828,000 American farmers, asked retention of the agricultural adjustment act, but recommended improvement of its administration in the interests of economy, simplification, better coördination, and greater decentralization of power.

MOTHER MAKES CHILD SWALLOW POISON IN MOVIE

Mrs. Edith Howe, 37, of 4511 Lake Park av., and her son, John, 2½, were taken to the St. Luke's hospital by police late yesterday after she had forced the child to swallow some poison in a loop movie theater and then drank the remainder from a small bottle herself. The child's cries attracted theater attendants, who summoned a near-by traffic policeman. The mother told Policeman Edward McMahon she had committed the deed because her husband accused her of being insane.

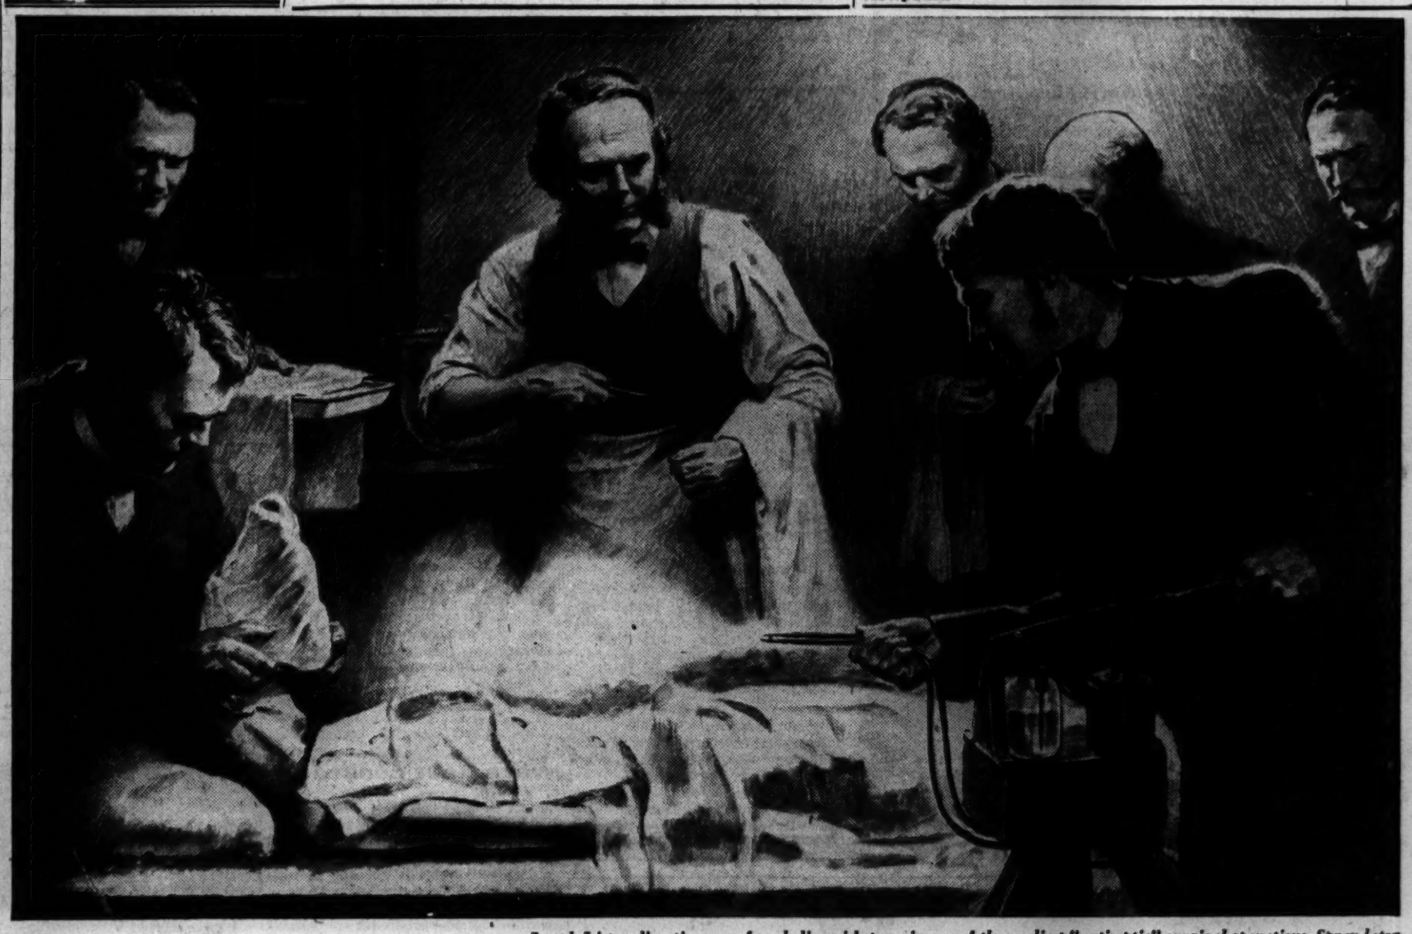
Walgreen DRUG STORES

Readers of the Chicago Tribune are best informed about events in Washington and thruout the world because they read the dispatches of seasoned correspondents who know how to get at the real facts of the news and who write from the American viewpoint.



Joseph Lister directing use of carbolic acid spray in one of the earliest "antiseptic" surgical operations. Spray later was discarded in favor of washing the wound, hands, instruments, etc., with carbolic acid.

Through READING he found the clue that saved MILLIONS

"Have you read any of the papers of this crazy Frenchman?"

The speaker was an elderly Scotch chemist. The person addressed was a young Glasgow surgeon, Joseph Lister. The year was 1865.

In those days an operation was a perilous experience. Forty-five per cent of all amputation cases died. This high mortality worried Lister, and he had long been searching for its cause.

Lister read Pasteur . . . and a whole new world opened before his eyes. Germs? Ferments? Minute organisms everywhere? Perhaps here, at last, was the answer!

He began to experiment. He washed wounds, hands and instruments with carbolic acid to kill the germs. Then he waited breathlessly to observe the results. The dreaded gangrenous infection failed to occur!

Thus, through reading, Lister was led to the discovery of "antisepsis," which virtually eliminated the deadly threat of infection; not only in surgery but in wounds, cuts and abrasions . . . a discovery which has been called by Dr. Logan Clendening, "one of the ten greatest in the history of the world."

* * *

FOR YOUNG JOSEPH LISTER, reading opened new vistas . . . new horizons of the mind. To him, as to other world leaders, it brought discovery, accomplishment, success.

For nothing can take the place of reading. When you read, you set the pace . . . go fast or slow . . . stop and think . . . go back and read again. In no other way can ideas be absorbed so completely and clearly.

Reading of exciting scope and abundance is provided regularly by The American Weekly. Reading about science . . . art . . . literature . . . history . . . religion. Reading about people . . . their hopes, fears, struggles . . . their heartbreaks and laughter . . . their disappointments, tragedies, triumphs . . . the whole crowded story of the brave and foolish and tender things they do.

These inspiring stories of history in the making are brought regularly by The American Weekly into more than 7,750,000 homes from coast to coast. Distributed through 20 great Sunday newspapers, it exerts a powerful influence upon America's largest reading group.

Many women with reputations for being "born cooks" owe their food flavoring tricks to the use of wine in cooking. Contrary to widely held opinion, wine cookery is not difficult. It is as easy as seasoning with salt and pepper, once you get the hang of it. Because the alcohol in wine evaporates when heated, the whole family, except for the tiniest tots, can eat most dishes made with wine.

To meet all wine cookery needs, only a few different kinds of wine need to be kept on hand. Claret or burgundy [red wine], sauterne or rhine wine [white], sherry, and a sweet dessert wine would be an adequate culinary collection. Or for all purpose use, a medium dry sherry would be suitable.

In general, you don't need a special recipe to use wine in cooking. Add just a little to a dish and then give it the taste test. Remember that wine's delicate flavor is harmed by boiling, so whenever possible avoid letting a wine dish reach the boiling point. Following is a list of the ways in which wine may be used to enhance food flavor.

Fish and Meat Wine Cookery.

Chops and steaks: Marinate in dry white wine with garlic or onion added. Drain meat, flour, brown, then bake in marinating liquid.

Wine with Vegetables.

Desserts with Wine.

[For grownups only.]

Fruit cup with sweet dessert wine, home canned peaches with port, broiled grapefruit with sherry, fruit with sherry custard sauce, steamed pudding with sweet wine sauce, wine in mincemeat pie.

Leftover fruit cake a la mode: Crumble fruit cake and moisten it liberally with sherry wine. Stir well. Put a few spoonfuls in dessert glass, top with vanilla ice cream, and serve immediately.

Soups, Salad Dressings, Gravy with Wine.

Salad dressings: Make a light colored French dressing by using sauterne for part of the vinegar, or a red wine dressing by using claret or burgundy.

Gravy: Use sherry or any dry wine in making gravy from drippings of beef, veal, or lamb roasts.

Keep Guns Loaded by Salvaging Fats, Housewives Urged

A spoonful of grease a day for a month will make it possible to fire 155 machine gun bullets, Mrs. Walter J. Kelly, chairman of the office of civilian defense grease-tin campaign, said yesterday. She urged housewives to "keep the guns loaded" by providing grease to the campaign so that glycerin and other necessary by-products can be manufactured.

Chicagoans are contributing about 500,000 pounds a month now and Mrs. Kelly would like to see it stepped up to 800,000 pounds, the figure reached last March before the contributions dwindled. "We need grease now more desperately than ever before," she said. "Stock reserves are dwindling as the demand for artillery shells increase."

Four cents and two red ration stamps are paid for a pound of grease at neighborhood meat markets. The grease is then picked up by rendering firms and later sent to soap manufacturers, where the glycerin is processed. "Every pound of grease goes to war," Mrs. Kelly said. "Such grease keeps up the home front supply of soap, too. Otherwise we'd be in the same situation as occupied countries."

Lean Beef Cookery.

In cooking lean, nonrationed beef, fat should be added to make a richer, moister product. Chopped suet cooked on top of pot roasts and steaks provide necessary fat.

Prague Cookies

½ cup shortening
3 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks
¾ cup flour
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
½ cup blanched, shredded almonds

Cream shortening until light and fluffy. Add sugar gradually. Add beaten egg yolks and flour. Place dough on well floured pastry cloth. Flatten dough with floured hands lightly until about ¼ inch thick. Cut with round cookie cutter about 1½ inches in diameter. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in salt and sugar. Fold in vanilla, grated lemon rind, and nuts. Place cookies on greased cooky tin. Place teaspoon of meringue on each cookie base, spreading to edges. Walnuts or pecans may be substituted for almonds if desired. Bake in a 325 degree oven 20 minutes. Recipe makes 2½ dozen.

Ham as a Gift? Of Course—But Not This Year

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

A real Christmas gift this year, if you can spare the red points, would be a smoked ham. This winter hams are more tempting than usual because of the wide variety being produced, the exceptionally high quality, and the younger age of the hogs processed in recent weeks. It is unlawful to give your ration points to another, but no one in the meat trade believes the OPA would try to send you to jail if you avoided this technicality by giving a ham as a gift.

However, packers are not planning seriously for any stepped-up holiday ham sales. Only a vegetarian can afford such an "expensive" gift at its current point value, they say. It would take weeks for most average meat eating families to save up enough points to buy a whole ham. From 60 to 70 points are required now for the most popular weight hams. A year ago a ham took 72 to 85 points.

In pre-rationing days packers promoted the idea of giving meat as Christmas gifts and built up an impressive holiday trade for hams in colorful wrapping to catch the eye of the shopper. All this has been abandoned and none of the packers is encouraging any large sale of any meat for the Christmas trade because such a great share of all production is sorely needed in the war.

However, the drive to sell meat for gifts will be important in the post-war program. The packing industry now produces more kinds of ham than ever before. Some additions have been made to the long list since the war began because of special demands of the services and lend-lease requirements for products that fit easily into foreign trade channels. Uncle Sam's demands come first now, but in the long run Mrs. American Housewife again will determine the kind of products packers turn out. She still buys the largest share of the output from most plants.

The acute ham shortage in domestic channels which existed for many weeks in late summer and thru the fall has eased some, a survey of the industry disclosed yesterday. Packers anticipate a fairly stable supply the remainder of the winter, about in line with the existing available supply, but they do not hold out much hope for any substantial offering for civilians at any time, and in most weeks demand will be above the supply.

Current ham production is about 50 per cent greater than at the lowest point three months ago, but it still is about 20 per cent lower than in December, 1943. Demand from the services and lend-lease has been rising much faster than production these last few weeks, so if you want a whole holiday ham you might have to do some shopping around.

Oates-Wright Families Plan Yule Reunion

BY JUDITH CASS.

BY transferring their Christmas celebration from Lake Forest to Pompano, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. James F. Oates Jr. and their children will be able to help Mrs. Oates' parents, the Frank G. Wrights of Delaware pl., celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. Wright and the former Katherine Dunlap were married Feb. 6, 1895, so their golden wedding date actually is nearly two months away, but since their grandchildren will not be having recesses from school at that time, the celebration is being moved ahead to the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Oates is leaving today to join her parents at the Hillsboro club, near Pompano, where they are spending the winter, and Mr. Oates will go south just before Christmas. Their children will go directly from their classes, Miss Rosalind Oates from Bryn Mawr and her brother, James III., from Exeter. If Mrs. Oates' brother, Norman Wright, and his wife can make the trip from Pawlet, Vt., the family reunion will be complete.

Miss Oates' parents may present her to society at a small party next summer, at which time most of her friends will be making debuts.

Holiday Parties.

Miss Margaret Carson, Miss Anne Clark Schmidt, Miss Gay Tuttle, and Miss Betsy Weir, who grew up together in Glencoe, have decided against a formal debut but instead are inviting their friends to a luncheon Dec. 23 in the Skokie Country club. They will be at home for the holidays from Bradford Junior, Smith, Wells, and Vassar colleges, respectively.

Miss Carson's parents, the Samuel P. Carsons, have an added reason this year for celebrating the holidays, for their son, Lt. [j. g.] Roland Carson of the naval reserve, arrived at home last Saturday on a 30 day leave. He and his wife will spend his leave with the senior Carsons before he reports again for duty.

Miss Tuttle is the daughter of the William F. Tuttles; Miss Weir's parents are the Norman W. Weirs, and Miss Clark is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. G. Lyle Fischer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Mulberry will have their traditional Christmas time open house from 4 to 7 p. m. Dec. 24 to welcome home their son-in-law, Ensign Remster H. Bingham Jr., who has spent the last nine months in the Pacific, serving as a fighter pilot. Ensign Bingham and the former Barbara Mulberry, will be with the Mulberrys until Dec. 27, when they will leave for Seattle, Wash. He is the grandson of Mrs. Edson W. Kidder of Winnetka.

Wedding News.

When Ensign Roger Hurd of the merchant marine returned from the Pacific Monday he and his fiancee, Miss Lois Emery, daughter of Mrs. Henry Emery of Kenmore av., began making hasty arrangements for their wedding, which will take place at 8 p. m. next Thursday in the Church of Atonement, followed by a reception in the Drake hotel. Ensign Hurd will arrive in Chicago this week-end.

Thru the Looking Glass

One of our favorites among the lines of toilet preparations for men apparently is the pet of many men, too. It's the kind of thing they will buy for themselves, which is the real test. Where we women are apt to choose their toiletries because we think the package is snazzy and will add exactly the right decorative note to the bathroom shelves, they choose items because they like [1] their quality or action and [2] their straightforward masculinity of package and fragrance.

Among its products of special merit the line we refer to has what's known as a "smooth shave base." It is used by brush and brushless shavers immediately BEFORE lathering the face for shaving. It softens the toughest beard and prepares even very sensitive skin for the shave. The boys say it is out of this world.

However, this is only one of many items in the line. We think this is the most complete line for men on the market. Grand soaps, talc, after shave lotion, and cologne are all there, too, stunningly packed in deep burgundy with gold lettering. No affectation, no la-de-da touches at all.

One grand gift item in the line is a box of soaps, big mannish cakes that fit a man's hand, and, in fragrance, suit his sense of the fitness of such things. Each cake is a husky 4½ ounce bar, and each is wrapped in paper that looks like rich burgundy toned leather, gold stamped.

We couldn't describe the fragrance of these men's preparations accurately. It's just clean and woodsish, the kind of thing men like. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 14.—Barbara Stanwyck's first picture with Hal Wallis will be "Don't Ever Grieve Me," tale of a government press agent who takes a hero about the country to make speeches for bond rallies, etc. Sure, it ends in love. . . . Harry Sherman bought Andy Rice's "Gentlemen, the Queen." Rice should know about those critters. He used to write for George White's "Scandals." . . . June Vincent, Andy Devine, Gene Lockhart, and Edith Barrett join Jack Oakie in "That's the Spirit." I'm sure that's the spirit if it gives June a good part. . . . Rita Hayworth's baby probably will be here when you read this. . . . Rose Stradner, because of her work in "Keys of the Kingdom," gets a New York trip and a big party there by Twentieth Century. . . . Carl Laemmle Jr. follows Virginia Hill back to Chicago. . . . Martha O'Driscoll's singing and traveling with Jimmy Greer's band during vacation time. That's mighty smart; it's such good training.

Two Surprised People.

Kathleen Winsor of "Forever Amber" will change her name to Amber Winsor if her screen test turns out satisfactorily. Incidentally, she can thank a San Francisco book editor for telling her what to do with her story. She did—and nobody was more amazed than he. . . . Gilbert Miller, who bought "Harriet" from Florence Ryerson and Colin Clemens, now has bought their latest comedy—one they worked on with Elia Kazan. Up to date it has no title they can call their own. . . . After I announced Jesse Lasky had formed his own company he got wires from C. B. De Mille and Sam Goldwyn wishing him luck and saying, "Sorry we can't be with you again this time." Those three were partners 31 years ago.

Playing Fields of England.

Mickey Rooney met his stepfather, Fred Pankey, for 24 hours somewhere in England. It took Mick four hours to get to him. Then he put on a show for the fellows, and it took him another four hours to get back to his base. . . . Joan Caulfield was being interviewed and was asked if any member of her family had been in the profession. She replied: "No. Mother tried out for stock, but grandmother killed that deal. Then when I went on the stage some one gave mother quite a reputation—said she'd been a high kicker in a Minsky show." . . . Jimmy Wallington's too generous. He fixed two of his pals with furnished homes, now can't move into his own—his agent lives there. You know, no home for the agent, no work for Jimmy. . . . Kay Francis is off on another hospital tour. It's unbelievable how much Kay does in her quiet way. . . . Glad Grace Moore's accident in Richmond, Va., was slight. Too few Graces and too many accidents.

Tsk, Tsk, Hedda; Be Calm.

Clare Luce has assets too well known to enumerate here. Now, I'm not given to envy, but when I see those overseas pictures of her with that curly hair I could scream. All my life I've wanted curly hair. You wouldn't believe the things I've done to make it that way. And she, the lucky stiff, was born that way. . . . Mrs. Gary Cooper often has been spoken of as chilly. Well, if what she did was chilly a lot more wives should let the breeze blow thru their hair. After press conferences in the east and all the nice writeups Coop got she sat down and wrote a "Thank-you-ma'am" letter to each writer. . . . Says wrongo to dumbo: Spike Jones, who was operated on in a local hospital under an assumed name, ate a hearty luncheon at the Brown Derby. Two members of his band, however, were in the hospital and Spike sent them a drawing of der fuehrer in the bottom of a pan and then filled it with spring flowers.

Hooray for Sex.

Since Claude Rains' English salary and income tax trouble was given out, Walter Wanger wants him with Turhan Bey for "Night in Paradise." Walter never lets his right hand know what his left is doing. He's made a fortune on Maria Montez in "Arabian Nights." Maria even had a fur lined swimming pool. Now he's doing "Salome, Where She Danced" and "Night in Paradise." Sounds like more of those lush undressed films. Walter's cultural ideas sure pay big dividends. . . . Cute letter from six pilots marooned in a hut thousands of miles from nowhere: "We have seen no women for so long, and the prospects of seeing any in the near future are equally dim. Three months ago we wrote each of the six beauties mentioned below, requesting a picture in order that we shouldn't forget what the fair sex looked like. Evidently those gals are far too busy entertaining boys back home. So as a last hope we appeal to you." Well, boys in hut No. 10, pictures of Rita Hayworth, Teresa Wright, Betty Grable, Veronica Lake, Paulette Goddard, and Jennifer Jones are on their way to you. And I hope they'll arrive by Christmas.

Spy Film Has Capable Cast and Suspense

"THE CONSPIRATORS."

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

"The Conspirators," after the novel by Frederick Prokosch, is better than but not much different from the lately exhibited "Storm over Lisbon." It is better to the extent that it has Hedy Lamarr—front view and profile—Paul Henreid, Sydney Greenstreet, Peter Lorre, Victor Francen, and Joseph Calleia, an assemblage of good actors by any measurement, as well as good photography—particularly of Hedy—authentic background, and a script that holds your interest and keeps you guessing, even if it does not elevate the blood pressure to dangerous heights. It has also, as you may perceive from the cast, a collection of varied accents which seem indispensable to any spy picture.

Paul Henreid plays a member of the Dutch underground who arrives in Lisbon to contact a group of confederates. Since he is not known to them, except by hearsay, or they to him, the getting acquainted process is slow, cautious, and harrowing. And when he does finally meet the whole crowd you wonder: they all have that suspicious look which might indicate either good or evil. Even their leader, Sydney Greenstreet, is suspicious, and announces that one among them is a traitor, and from there on you're on your own.

Paul meets Hedy in a cafe, where she suddenly plunks herself down at his table to escape pursuit, just when Paul is ordering his first steak dinner in three years. He is instantly enamored of her unruffled beauty—which remains unruffled thruout a rough and tumble plot—forgets the steak, and goes off to a little romancing before returning to the spy business.

The next day he learns that Hedy is married to a member of the German legation. But when, a few days later, she shows up at an underground meeting, and when, a few more days later, her German husband also appears at the secret sessions, you are quite confused, as you have every right to be. Then a member of the circle is found murdered in Paul's room, which, while obvious, makes it look bad for him, and lands him in a Lisbon jail. He escapes, and for the rest of the picture works hard to prove his innocence and loyalty.

With such baleful characters around as Peter Lorre and Victor Francen you are a bit put to it to guess the real traitor. It couldn't very well be a truly happy ending, but it leaves Hedy hopeful for the future, with that looking-into-the-sunset look.

Now's the Time to Make Christmas Plum Pudding

It's nearly deadline time for plum pudding making, for this traditional Christmas dessert needs at least a few days of ageing or ripening to improve its flavor. Here's the recipe:

Mix and sift ⅝ cup sifted flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ¾ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon mace, and ½ teaspoon cloves. Add ½ pound raisins, ¼ pound currants, ¼ pound chopped figs, and 2 ounces each chopped citron and candied orange peel. Soak ½ cup fine bread crumbs in 1 cup hot milk for 10 minutes. Beat well 4 egg yolks and stir in ¼ cup sugar, then add 1 cup vegetable shortening, melted [or ½ pound beef suet, ground], and crumbs. Stir into first mixture. Add ½ cup molasses and mix well. Fold in 4 stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into greased molds, cover with 3 thicknesses of waxed paper, and tie on securely with string. Steam 3½ hours. Cool thoroly, then wrap puddings in several thicknesses of waxed paper and store in covered container. To reheat, steam 1 to 2 hours, depending on size of pudding. Serve decorated with cherries and almonds and surrounded by hard sauce mounds.

Better Figure on Using Old Yule Trinkets

Junior's schoolmade red paper chain may have to come out of mother's keepsake box, to be hung on the family tree beside a cracked glass Santa Claus this Christmas. That was the conclusion a shopper, tired of a fruitless search for ornaments in the loop, reached yesterday. Another said she was going home to string popcorn and cut stars from silver paper.

"If it was good enough for grandma, it's good enough for me," a third woman declared as she turned from an almost empty counter. And that is what Chicagoans in general will have to do unless they're well supplied with trinkets from former years.

A few loop department stores boast a small assortment of colored glass balls, but the delicate blown glass figurines which in former years swayed from the branches of almost every Christmas tree are not to be found. Some stores display only paper and wood angels to be hung from trees, while others carry no type of ornament in stock.

Christmas decorations for the home are equally scarce. Holly wreathes are at a premium, the stores reported, but cellophane wreathes have taken their place on counters. Large oilcloth bows, most of them a brilliant red, are suggested by some clerks as window decoration, and real acorns tied with red ribbon are said to be appropriate mantle trim.

"Sorry, no Christmas tree lights," read the sign in one department store, and the situation is similar in almost every loop establishment. One other harbinger of the Yule season, however, was much in evidence. Chicago florists' stock of mistletoe has started to arrive, and most shop managers said they expected larger stocks than they had last year because the 1943 orders were gone long before the holidays were over.

Stage Note

MARY.

From the Boss' Pen.

If you'd like an expression of opinion from the boss' pen as to whether he approves of the practice of his secretary giving him a personal gift [in addition to the office "chip-in" gift] the answer is no.

Gift giving, in an office, can grow to embarrassing proportions. I am reminded of the new, young executive who sent an engraved invitation to his wedding to each of the senior members of our firm. No one knew how to handle the situation without disconcerting the bride and the bridegroom, but no one wanted to establish a precedent.

Christmas, birthdays, anniversaries, weddings—all are best celebrated with "chip-in" presents which place no pressure on any one individual. MERCHANDISE MGR.

Fun with a Book.

Want to have fun with a book? Read "The Feminine Fifties," by Fred Lewis Pattee, chronicling the period of American history when militant crusading by "the ladies" characterized our literature.

You'll learn that Harriet Beecher Stowe cried herself sick when she recorded the death of Little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and was unable to work for two weeks. . . . That the fashion of the hoopskirt greatly damaged New York's shipping industry. . . . That the first woman to lecture on equal rights, Elizabeth Oakes Smith, wrote a poem with the astounding title of "The Sinless Child." . . . That Nathaniel Hawthorne considered abandoning fiction because he complained, "America is now wholly given over to a mob of scribbling women." . . . That Oliver Wendell Holmes voted against the admission of women to Harvard medical school, charging them with being "too impressionable and imaginative to be successful as physicians."

You'll learn that when Matthew Vassar endowed a college "designed to accomplish for young women what our colleges are accomplishing for young men" a woman, Sarah Josepha, raised a hubbub now recorded in stone. In stone letters the inscription originally was VASSAR FEMALE COLLEGE, to which Sarah protested violently, "What female do you mean? Not a female donkey!" Whereupon Mr. Vassar ordered the word "FEMALE" chiseled off the building and today the inscription stands with a telltale gap between the words "VASSAR" and "COLLEGE."

Music Note

Rudolf Serkin is ill and unable to play the Schumann Concerto with the Chicago Symphony orchestra and Désiré Defauw at the war bond concert scheduled for tomorrow night in Orchestra hall. In his place, Oscar Levant will be the soloist, playing Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

College Club Tea.

Heifetz Plays Brahms Work Magnificently

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Désiré Defauw conductor; Jascha Heifetz, violinist. Presented at Orchestra hall Thursday evening, Dec. 14, 1944, and scheduled for repetition Friday afternoon. The program:
Bourree Fantasque .....Chabrier-Motti
"Ports of Call ["Escales"].....Ibert
Symphonic Variations, "Istar".....d'Indy
Concerto for Violin, D major.....Brahms

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Just 27 years ago Jascha Heifetz made his orchestral debut in this country with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, playing the Tschaikowsky Concerto, and Ashton Stevens tells me his friend, Music Critic Jimmy Whittaker, turned to him at the end of the first movement and said in dazed incredulity, "I don't believe it." Since that time not many violinists have challenged Heifetz, but a lot of listeners have echoed Whittaker. To this day we don't quite believe it.

Last night it was Brahms' Concerto that made us doubt our ears, as Mr. Heifetz played it in unflawed glory with our orchestra under the direction of Désiré Defauw. His tone had a golden luster, a silken texture, and the patrician phrasing that gives the listening ear unutterable delight. The cadenza of the first movement was dazzlingly clean, the slow movement had a purity and tenderness to make you catch your breath, and the finale flashed out with the fierce pride of indomitable Brahms. If it is Mr. Heifetz' magnificent obsession to devote most of his concert time to men in service, it is our gain that in this one Chicago appearance he was at his superlative best.

The accompaniment was alert and often lyrical, but tonally shallow. It lacked the mellow radiance that should envelop the solo instrument in the adagio, and the deeply rhythmical urge that can give the finale its ultimate brilliance. Mr. Defauw opened the concert with French music, featuring Chabrier, Ibert, and D'Indy, which was rather too much of what added up to the trivial. Chabrier's "Bourrée Fantasque" was well played in the Motti orchestration, while Ibert's "Ports of Call" had its moments, and D'Indy's "Istar" variations died the death of sluggish performance.

The second of the season's composers' concerts at the University of Chicago was played in Mandel hall Wednesday night, but so arranged as to baffle attempts to review it next morning. Devoted to music of Schoenberg, Stravinsky, and Prokofieff, and played by Joseph Szigeti, violinist, Harry Kaufman, pianist, and the Pro Arte quartet, it was attractive on paper but rather dry in performance. The Pro Arte tone is not luxurious, and it dried out the delicate rhythms wielded with such skill in Schoenberg's Third Quartet, with its adagio sometimes hinting at the sensuous texture of "Verklärte Nacht." Prokofieff's quartet, opus 50, is an engaging work, quite lovely in places, but it, too, fell short of completely revealing performance. Mr. Szigeti and Mr. Kaufman made expert going of Stravinsky's diamond sharp "Duo Concertant," played a year ago by the composer and John Weicher, and later introduced Prokofieff's newest sonata, in D, for violin and piano. This is reliable Prokofieff, but no landmark in a consistently distinguished career. I found it most interesting in the piano part, vividly projected by the unduly modest Mr. Kaufman.

INSTALMENT XXIX.

WAR DECLARED.

Mose Hersey laughed wisely. "You boys can have him. I don't want any part of him if he is as tough as they say."

"I'll bet he's a sure enough bad man from the Brazos who would start smokin' quick," Fraser said. "The time to get him would be when he is asleep, don't you reckon?"

"Not interested, asleep or awake." Mose shook his head. "I like money well as most men, but I'd walk a mile around any desperado when he is on the prod even if the reward was 10 times that big."

"Well, you ain't liable to meet him. . . . You wouldn't have any mail here for Joseph K. Ward, would you?"

The postmaster knew he had not, but out of politeness he rifled thru the five or six letters in the office before answering that he had not.

"I didn't hardly expect one," admitted Joseph K. Ward, alias Stanley Fraser. "My wife ran off with a traveling salesman, but I figured maybe they would be outa money by this time and she might of writ home asking me to send her some and the letter could of been forwarded."

Mose murmured that he was sorry Mr. Ward's home had been busted up.

"So is the city slicker sorry by this time," the alleged husband commented philosophically. "Mary Jane had the evenest bad temper of anybody in Trinidad."

"Trinidad, Colorado?"

"That's right. Do you think my son here favors me?"

"I got four more boys and two girls." Fraser went on mendaciously. "The other boys ain't so puny as this one. Bill here is the runt of the family."

"He don't look so puny to me," Mose said.

"Appearances is deceptive."

Thru the door they could see that a rider had stirred up the yellow dust in the street and was heavily dismounting in front of the store. He stopped to exchange greetings with a man lounging outside, after he had glanced at the two horses already tied to the rack.

Fraser took one look at him and dropped his foolery instantly. "I reckon we better be moseyin' along, son," he drawled.

The new arrival came into the store. It was darker inside the building than out in the street, and he stood accustoming himself to the change.

"'Lo, sheriff," Mose said.

"'Lo, Hersey. My throat's dry as a limekiln. Bust me open a can of tomatoes."

Norlin had not identified Webb, who had wandered to the back of the store and was standing in the shadows. Fraser moved forward and stood directly between the sheriff and the convict.

"Well—well, if it ain't Chad Norlin. You doggoned old vinegaroon. I ain't seen you for a month of Sundays. Sure is good to meet up with you again." Fraser caught the officer's hand and wrung it vigorously. His face beamed delight.

The sheriff was surprised at this burst of affection. It had not occurred to him before that there was any real tie of friendship binding them. He did not know that while Fraser was firmly but unobtrusively crowding him toward the front of the store the little man was desperately hoping there was a back exit from the building by means of which Webb could escape.

"Want to show you something, Chad, tho maybe you've seen it," Fraser continued eagerly. "Here's a $1,500 reward offered for a guy escaped from the pen. Yesterday it was $200. Now it has jumped into big money. Jug is a tightfisted galoot. Why for is he digging up $1,300 bucks to get this fellow?"

Mose had been cutting open a tomato can. Now he brought it forward to the sheriff.

Norlin brushed the dust from the top of the can before lifting it to his mouth. "I saw that poster at Mammoth, Stan," he said. "I can tell you something you probably don't know. 'Most all of one hot day less than two weeks ago I spent in the saddle going to have a look at this fellow. I didn't know he was Webb, since he was passing as Cape Sloan. The fellow had been accused of being a rustler, and I wanted to check up on him. He was staying at the Circle-JR ranch with the rangers. I satisfied myself he couldn't be one of the waddies who ran off stock when Spillman was killed, but I had a queer feeling I was missing something. So I was. There was Webb right in my hands, and I let him go.'"

"That was certainly hard luck," Fraser said. "But you can't blame yoreself. You didn't know who he was."

The sheriff tilted the can and began to drink the tomato juice. Out of the corner of an eye Fraser saw that Bob was not only in the store but was coming forward quietly, evidently with the intention of, passing unnoticed in the rear of Norlin while he was drinking. As Bob was brushing past, the officer glanced at him carelessly.

Norlin's eyes froze. But his right hand was holding a tomato can 2 feet from the butt of his revolver and the barrel of a .'5 was pressing against a rib just over his heart. His shooting iron might just as well have been in New York.

"I won't forget this, Stan," Norlin promised. "You worked me for a sucker."

"Don't feel too bad," Fraser consoled him, with a grin. "You were took by surprise, and if I do say it I put on a good show."

"Why are you throwing in with this criminal, Fraser?" the sheriff demanded. "It means the penitentiary for you, too."

"You done said it, Chad," answered Fraser chirpily. "I'm in this up to my neck. If and when Bob killed Chuck Holloway and robbed the stage I was right by his side aiding and abetting. What makes me mad is that they're offering $1,500 for him."

"This won't be so funny when you're breaking rocks with a guard over you," Norlin told him irritably.

"Change that when to if, Chad," suggested Stan. "We ain't either of us going to prison. First off, Bob never killed a man in his life, and that perjured murderer, Jug Packard, knows it. The same goes for his killer Uhlmann. We've declared war on those villains, and we aim to show who belongs in the pen and who doesn't."

Yule Flowers Are Plentiful and Beautiful

BY REA SEEGER.

Christmas flowers and plants must be ordered early this year along with a lot of other fast vanishing gift items. And don't plan on red roses or orchids, as the services virtually have taken over all available supplies of both as their gifts to the girls they left behind them. But the traditional poinsettias, azaleas, and cyclamen plants are not only vivid in color but seem to be plentiful enough to go around. Begonia plants are popular, and each is loaded with tiny old fashioned spicy pink blossoms that are massed against glossy green leaves.

Chicago carnations are becoming famous. They are grown here and something in the exhilarating air seems to make them larger and more beautiful that those grown in other parts of the country. The pale pinks are exquisite and the handsome red carnations make exceptionally decorative flowers for table as well as the tightly massed corsage arrangements. Light yellow and white and the dark maroon blooms complete the color range of these lovely flowers that have been so popular this last season as the correct accent for the new high fashion revival of Victorian elegance in clothes as well as decoration.

Orchids, camellias, gardenias, and violets are still the most popular corsage flowers. Tiny baby orchids in pale green make a very exotic corsage, while the violets, contrasted with a single red rose, a pink carnation, or a waxily perfect gardenia or coral pink camellia, make the most romantic corsage. They can be tied with Christmas ribbon or worn without extra ribbon bows. A new trick of the florists is that of using the blooms from your cyclamen plant in threes or fours as a corsage. White roses, white valley lilies, and large lilies are here for the Christmas bride.

Boy of 9 Thanks Sally; Woman of 87 Asks for Aid

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

William, age 9, has sent a communication to our readers:

"Dear Miss Brown:

"I want to thank you for putting my letter in the paper. I received stamps from many different people, and two of them sent some to me twice. I also received a nice letter with $3 in it, but it was just signed 'From a Friend.' If you should know who it is, please tell him thank you from me. My mother said I could save it toward getting a stamp catalog.

"I want you to know that I appreciate what you did for me, because it would have taken me an awfully long time to get all these wonderful stamps myself."

We do not know the identity of "A Friend" and are taking this method of expressing our appreciation.

We hope west side readers can assist Mrs. A. She is 87 and living on a pension which barely is sufficient for food and shelter. Her needs include a winter coat, dresses, size 16, and warm underwear. She is 5 feet tall but would like dresses which extend to her ankles. The name and address will be provided to interested readers.

Yanks Let Sweethearts Select Own Yule Flowers

Chicago florists have been telephoning relatives of overseas soldiers during the last few days to learn the favorite flowers of women for whom bouquets, corsages, or plants have been ordered from foreign lands. The Allied Florists' association yesterday reported that the city's florists have been bombarded with Christmas flower orders from fighters, many of whom failed to specify the kind of flowers they wished to have delivered.

Oates-Wright Families Plan Yule Reunion

James R. Emery, and a pearl necklace given to her as a child by her grandfather, the late Mr. Emery. Miss Marguerite O'Neill will be the bride's only attendant. Ensign Hurd, son of Mrs. Robert Maxon, will take his bride to the west coast, where he will report for duty at the end of his leave.

From Hollow Rock farm, Chapel Hill, N. C., Col. and Mrs. Paul Henderson, formerly of Chicago, send word of the approaching marriage of their daughter, Josephine, to Lt. (j. g.) Charles Oliver Humphries of the naval reserve, son of Mrs. Wofford F. Humphries and the late Mr. Humphries of Asheville, N. C. The wedding will take place Dec. 30 in the Chapel of the Cross in Chapel Hill, with Canon Albert M. Lucas of Washington, D. C., officiating.

Miss Henderson, a granddaughter of the late Martin B. Madden, veteral member of the house of representatives, will be graduated this month from Vassar college in the accelerated class of 1945-4. Lt. Humphries was graduated from the University of North Carolina and from the medical school of Cornell university and is interning at the University of Virginia hospital in Charlottesville, Va. He and his bride will live in Charlottesville when they return from their wedding trip.

Today's Events.

The freshman class of the Girls' Latin school has been invited to attend the matinee performance of the Chicago Horse show today as guests of one of its members, Miss Jorie Butler. Miss Butler's father, Paul Butler, is president of the Horse Show association.

A party which the Parents' association of the Francis W. Parker school gives each year to welcome new parents into the group will be repeated tonight with a barn dance in the school gymnasium, decorated for the occasion in corn stalks. Bernard Negronida of the Parker faculty heads the association.

Miss Florence Donnersberger, daughter of the George Donnersbergers of Highland Park, will return to the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Lake Forest tonight as guest artist in the school's annual Christmas concert. Miss Donnersberger was graduated from the academy a few years ago and has studied voice in New York.

Younger members of the English-Speaking union have been giving visiting British service men such a good time that three royal air force men who were here this summer named the plane they are flying over Iceland the Winnetka Belle. The young women, some arriving at home from schools this week, will be special guests at a tea in union headquarters today. Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood will be hostess.

Miss Mary E. Hipple will give a demonstration of comb painting at tea from 4 to 6 p. m. today in the Cordon club.

In woolen, of course! Style No. 2556 is designed for sizes 12 to 46. Size 36, jerkin and skirt, requires 3⅞ yards of 35-inch fabric; weskit, 1⅛ yards of 35-inch material. In 54-inch fabric, skirt requires 1¼ yards, jerkin 1⅛ yards, weskit 1¼ yards.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The winter fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents, 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Drive Opened to Fill World Need for Bibles

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago's part in a 3 million dollar campaign to buy Bibles for the world during the next four years was launched yesterday at a Protestant clergy luncheon at the La Salle hotel under the auspices of the American Bible society in cooperation with the Chicago Bible society. Dr. John Timothy Stone is honorary chairman of the drive, and Dr. Ray Freeman Jenney of Bryn Mawr Community church, the chairman.

Dr. Robert Taylor, general secretary of the American society in the central west, outlined the general emergency needs for Bibles. The first of these, he said, is that of the fighting forces of the United States. The American society, he said, relies on the stated needs of chaplains. The problem of replacing Bibles is comparable with those of replacing equipment and clothes thruout the services, he added.

Dr. Taylor put the services' present needs at 200,000 complete Bibles and 4,200,000 New Testaments for the various services' personnel. Four hundred thousand more Bibles will be needed in 1945, he said, adding that there is a shortage of 375,000 New Testaments in France alone.

The second demand for Bibles comes from military prison camps. Dr. Taylor said the Scriptures must be available in 35 languages to meet that need, adding that no Bibles have been produced in many European countries for several years. The program covering this need, Dr. Taylor said, calls for 275,000 Bibles.

Liberated areas' needs for Bibles form the third part of the American society's program. In many Nazi and Japanese occupied lands, Bibles have been destroyed, and the means to print them have been wiped out, Dr. Taylor said. In certain countries, he went on, Bibles and portions of Bibles have been typewritten by those who wished to preserve the sacred writings.

Capt. S. W. Salisbury, chaplain of the 5th naval district, Norfolk, Va., was the guest speaker yesterday. "The American Bible society has never let us down," he said, adding that generally, by its alertness, the society anticipates the needs in the navy.

Winter sports enthusiasts, both active and spectator, will revel in the brilliant accessories which may be worn under the ski pants and jacket which compose the uniform for winter outdoor activities. Shirts, jackets, weskits, and sweaters are only a few of the gay items which serve as gift suggestions.

The new gold colored jacket at left, with narrow brown and white stripes forming an interesting plaid, is made of 100 per cent wool and is as warm as it is soft. Long, full sleeves are tightly cuffed, the collar buttons up snugly, and the deep pocket is trimmed with a single button matching those of the front closing. The jacket also is available in blanket and Scotch plaids in sizes 12 to 20.

An ideal gift is the smooth suede weskit, in center, worn over a contrasting colored sweater. The knitted back is of tissue soft wool done in ribbing of knit 2, purl 2. Bands of the ribbing trim armholes and front. It is available in blue, red, beige, gold, green, and fuchsia and priced under $4.

The season's favorite plaid among the younger set is that of the Stuart dress tartan. The white background with its soft red blue and green plaid creates the tuck-in wool shirt at right. Perfectly cut and tailored, it has a convertible neckline, long sleeves tightly cuffed, and a single chest pocket.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Our tiresome partner, who for three days has been responding to our opening bids with one no trump, has outworn his welcome, and after today he is dismissed. To be sure, he has done nothing wrong, but it is probably more entertaining to have a partner who commits an occasional error but who also participates with enthusiasm in the auction.

In today's hand, South bid one spade and North responded with his usual one no trump. South elected to bid two no trump, coaxing his partner to go on, but North felt that he was unable to accept the invitation and passed.

East opened his fourth best club, Declarer played the 10 from dummy, West won with the queen and returned the suit. North played the 9, East the ace, and dummy unblocked with the king in order to get a quick entry to his hand. East continued with the third round of clubs, not with any idea of establishing the suit but because he felt that a shift to one of the other suits would make life too easy for the declarer.

North then led a low diamond, playing the 10 from dummy in order to keep East out of the lead. West won with the queen and could do no better than return the suit, whereupon declarer cashed three diamond tricks and then took the spade finesse. The queen of spades was the fourth and final trick taken by the defense.

South immediately reprimanded his partner for not going to game. "I put up very strong bidding, partner," he said. To which North quite promptly responded, "I bid my hand to the hilt." North was absolutely right.

It is an elementary principle of bidding tactics that you do not ask your partner to bid your hand for you. South should have known there was a game in the hand, despite his partner's weak bid, because he had two aces in excess of an opening bid.

We have observed that when your partner responds with one no trump if you have one trick and a half excess, there is a chance for game; two tricks excess, game is certain.

The usual weekly quiz will appear tomorrow.

Hurry, Worry Often Obscure Yuletide Spirit

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"There was once a family who had a guest staying with them, and when they found out that he was to have a birthday during his visit they were all delighted at the idea of celebrating it. Days before, almost weeks before, they began to prepare for the celebration. They cooked and stored a large quantity of good things to eat . . . they planned and arranged the most beautiful decorations. They made or selected little gifts for one another, and the whole house was in hurry and confusion for weeks before the birthday came.

"Finally the birthday came . . . and the guests arrived. . . . Just after the festivities had begun a little child said to his mother, 'Mamma, where is the man whose birthday it is?'"

His mother didn't know; the guests didn't. Finally the little child went on a search for the guest whose birthday they were celebrating and found him ill and forgotten in an upper bedroom.

"They had all been so busy preparing for his birthday festival that they had forgotten him entirely. This is the way it is with most of us at Christmas."

When I had read that far I thought, "How true that is, far too often, of Christmas preparations and sometimes even of the day itself."

Christmas is the most beautiful celebration in the world, because it has everything. Let us not let our children forget, nor forget ourselves, how Christmas came to be, nor let its spirit be overlaid and obscured by hurry and confusion and too great preoccupation with the material observance of it.

In an old book store that overflows from cellar to roof I came across the book from which the above quotations were taken, a book incidentally which [published just after the turn of the century] is surprisingly modern in its psychology and its approach to personal emotional and physical problems. Modern, I say, but really neither old nor new—simply fundamentally true. The book is the "Freedom of Life," by Annie Payson Call, published by Little, Brown & Co.

Radio Entertainer Will Conduct Quiz for Church Benefit

Dr. I. Q., radio entertainer, will conduct a quiz program to be given tonight by the Episcopal Church of the Atonement in Orchestra hall. Proceeds of the show will be applied on the parochial debt, according to the Rev. James Murchison Duncan, rector.

Dr. I. Q., a student at Seabury-Western Theological seminary, is donating his services. He will work directly from the stage, assisted by six members of the church staff each carrying a portable microphone.

Other items on the program include the Malone sisters, and Johnnie Jones, monologist. Charles Deland, vestryman of the Church of the Atonement, is general chairman of this benefit.

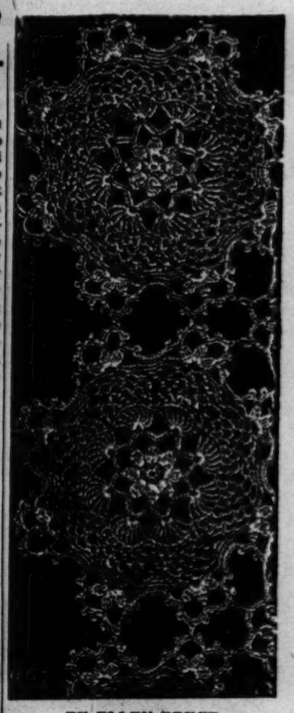
Irish Lace Motif



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This crocheted design of a modified Irish lace pattern is by far one of the most attractive motifs to create. It is not difficult to work, and a completed tablecloth may easily rate as a museum piece. The medallions are joined as the work progresses and it is easy to visualize the finished product.

For instructions in crocheting the Irish lace tablecloth, No. 892, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

MAJORS FACE FIGHT OVER NEW AGREEMENT

ILLINOIS PRIMES VETERANS FOR DE PAUL GAME

They Hope to Match Mikan's Skill.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

While George Mikan, De Paul's All-American basketball center, probably is the key to the outcome of tomorrow night's game in the Chicago Stadium between Illinois and the Blue Demons, the Illini have a trio of shooters whose combined efforts may offset Mikan's scoring. These players are Howie Judson, Junior Kirk, and Don Delaney.

The opening game of the second double header program of the season matches Northwestern and Marquette.

Illinois defeated De Paul last year in the Stadium, 45 to 33, for one of the four defeats on the Blue Demon record. Mikan scored 14 points but he fouled out in the second half. Without Mikan's height under the backboards, and the other points he might have scored, Illinois took charge of the contest and won handily.

George Has a Motive.

Mikan naturally sees in tomorrow night's game his chance for personal satisfaction. He seldom commits the maximum number of fouls and in this respect has an advantage over last year since five personal fouls now are required for elimination, one more than previously.

Illinois had two men on Mikan last year, the guard stationed behind him and a front line player, who dropped back to prevent passes for pivot plays. This is standard defense against an exceptionally tall man near the backboard, particularly if he is unsually accurate. The maneuver always permits long distance shots.

Demons Have Other Marksmen.

If Mikan is kept under control on floor plays, these long shots probably will be taken by Ed Kachan, Gene Stump, or Jack Allen. Mikan then will be in position for follow-up attempts and here Illinois unquestionably must depend first on Delaney to prevent field goals.

Illinois must two-time Mikan in some way and its remains to be seen just how Doug Mills, Illinois coach, plans to accomplish it. In any event, however, Kirk, Judson, and Delaney will carry the burden of attack against De Paul's defense.

Kirk Leads Illini.

Kirk has scored 37 points this year; Judson has 35, and Delaney has made 22 points. The latter tires easily and requires relief. This task probably will fall to Johnny Orr or possibly Walt Kersulis. Jim Seyler and Jake Staab, 1944 letter men, have completed the Illinois starting line-up this year with Kirk, Judson, and Delaney. Paul Schnackenberg, a freshman, also will have a share in tomorrow's game. Paul played well against Great Lakes but he hasn't found the basket range so far in collegiate competition.

The second half of the Illinois-De Paul game will be broadcast tomorrow night by W-G-N with Jack Brickhouse at the microphone starting at 10:45 o'clock. Station WILL of Champaign will carry the entire game.

NORTH'S ROSTER COMPLETE FOR BLUE-GRAY GAME

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 14 (AP).—Advantages in weight and experience will be with the North in the Blue-Gray football game Dec. 30.

Promoters of the game today said the North had filled its 23 man roster. The South is two short of this limit, but the additional players will be selected within the next few weeks.

The complete North roster:

CENTERS—John Tavener, Indiana; Frank Szalasak, Columbia.

BACKS—Allen Dekdebrun, Cornell; Bob Hoernschemeyer, Indiana; Henry Jagade, Indiana; Pete Sica, Pennsylvania; Ed Gingrich, Dartmouth; Ernie Bonelli, Pittsburgh; Jack Burns, Temple; Anthony Minisi, Pennsylvania; John Cuchan, Penn State.

When He Returns.

Some day he will return to home again—
Grown older and so wise in many ways.
Having known danger and kinship to pain,
He may find strangeness threading after days.
It will be then that you must play your part
In guiding him to life once more serene—
Give him the last full measure of your heart—
Strengthen the faith upon which he must lean.
He may find things to be a little strange;
Then he'll need love, and love—and still more love.
You must be strong to help him should he change
Then turn to God and he will grant you power

Annual Tryst.

The Christmas cards are waiting
They're here upon the table
In colorful array.
But first I shall read over
The ones that came last year—
How nice it is to linger
With friends from far and near.
Addresses, full of numbers,
This time above all others—
How many must I change!
And there are some additions
To place upon the list,
New friends who crossed my pathway
To join this yearly tryst.
At last they're stamped and ready
To speed upon their way,
Each one a special greeting
For some one's Christmas day.

Packers and Giants Use Wing Back.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 14.—Chicago and midwest fans who have become T formation conscious thru the Bears' long time successful use of football's dominant system may be surprised to learn that this tactic will be missing Sunday when the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants meet for the National league championship in the Polo Grounds.

The play planners of both teams happen to be right half backs, or wing backs, as they are called by the trade. The quarter back, who is the big personality kid in the T, is relegated almost to anonymity the way the Giants and Packers do business. He is a blocking back.

You've Heard of These.

Ward Cuff calls the plays for the Giants. Lou Brock selects them for the Packers and this is another reason why the Western champions' fate in this game depends largely on the condition of the former Purdue star, Brock, who, because of a knee injury, has not played since Oct. 22, a long time for a 27 year old to stay out of combat.

At his Charlottesville [Va.] base, Coach Curly Lambeau of the Packers said today that Brock will not start. At this key position will be Joe Laws, 33 year old Iowan who is playing his 11th season for Green Bay. This gives the chunky Hawkeye a chance to play the big role in a Packer success.

Ward Learns New Job.

Cuff, at 31 and in his eighth campaign with the Giants, is calling signals for the first time as successor to Alphonse [Tuffy] Leemans. Steve Owen, the Giants' stout coach, said today that Cuff has amazed him with his generalship, tho he knew all along that the native of Redwood Falls, Minn., was a bright young man.

Cuff's home now is in Milwaukee, where he is regarded as one of Marquette's most notable athletic alumni. In Sunday's game he will try to pick the right spots for Arnie Herber of De Pere, Wis., to pitch passes and there you have the spectacle of two Badgers teaming up to whip the Packers the toast of Wisconsin. What will their neighbors say or do to them this winter if the Giants win?

Weather Outlook Is Good.

The sunny, crisp weather will hold thru game time, it was predicted today, and temperatures likely will be in the low or middle 40s. The Packers will leave their Virginia camp tomorrow night. After a Saturday morning arrival in New York they will go immediately to the Polo Grounds for a workout. That afternoon the Randolph field Superbombers and the 2d Air Force elevens will meet there for the National Air Force championship in a Bond bowl game which has met a quota of $79,750,000.

The pro title game will begin at 1:05 [Chicago war time]. It will be aired by 190 stations over the Blue network, with Harry Wismer at the microphone. Station WTMJ, Milwaukee, will have its own broadcast, with Russ Winnie doing the description.

INDIANA ROUTS WABASH FOR 4TH VICTORY, 55 TO 39

Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 14 [Special]. — Forward Charles Radcliffe made 10 field goals and two free throws for 22 points here tonight to pace Indiana's Hoosiers to a 55 to 39 victory over Wabash college. It was the Hoosiers' fourth victory in five starts and their second of the season over the Little Giants.

Radcliffe and teammate Gene Faris, sophomore forward, worked together in a smooth passing attack which overwhelmed Wabash. Faris was second in scoring for Indiana with 15 points.

Wabash scored first, but Radcliffe and Faris put the Hoosiers ahead quickly and they were never headed, leading by a score of 25 to 17 at half time. Indiana won going away in the last period. Center Pete Moore was high for Wabash with 13 points.

WOUNDED VETS, BLACKHAWKS GET TOGETHER

$2,000 GELDING STAKE WON BY THE INVASION

Spurred on by the cheers of 6,000 spectators, the largest crowd since the Chicago horse show opened in the Coliseum last Saturday night, The Invasion, a sleek black 6 year old from the stables of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Johnston of Longview, Tex., walked off with the blue ribbon in the gelding division of the $10,000 grand championship stake for five gaited horses last night.

The Invasion, ridden by Welch Greenwald, thus became one of the 12 animals which will compete in the big event on closing night, Sunday, when the winners of the stallion, mare, and gelding divisions take to the tanbark ring in the feature of the nine day show.

Relegated to second place behind The Invasion in the $2,000 gelding stake was Blue Hawaii, a previous show winner owned by the Dodge stables of Rochester, Mich., the leading exhibitors during the first seven performances. Third place went to King of the Plains, owned by Miss Virginia Smith of Milwaukee, Wis., and also a winner earlier in the session.

Invasion Wins Second Feature.

The secondary feature, the Hawthorn-Mellody farms' dairy $1,000 stake for single harness horses, gave Mrs. Loula Long Combs of Lee's Summit, Mo., her third blue ribbon of the show when Invasion, an aged bay gelding, caught the Judges' fancy. Killearn Beauty of the Fair City farm of Elberon, N. J., took second and Royal Mistress, owned by the Happy Way farm of Maywood was awarded third.

Last night's show was opened by one of the most colorful of the riding classes, an event for hunters with riders in livery. First place was awarded Light Land, owned by George Braun of New Rochelle, N. Y., a chestnut gelding which also scored first Wednesday night.

$2,000 Stake Event Tonight.

Topping this afternoon's program will be the Elaine Victor Mahle $500 stake for three gaited saddle horses not exceeding 15 hands in height. Other events are those for hunters ridden by amateurs, harness horses over 14.2 hands, 3 year old five gaited saddle horses, heavyweight stock horses, single roadsters, harness ponies in threes, and fine harness horses.

A novelty will be presented tonight in the $500 stock horse stake, sponsored by the Sun ranch of Montana, owned by Paul Butler, president of the Chicago Horse Show association. The big event of the evening, however, will be a $2,000 championship stake for harness horses.

Visit to War Vets Inspires Blackhawks

Eight members of the Chicago Blackhawks yesterday paid a visit to wounded service men in Gardiner and Vaughan General hospitals, and at the end of their two hours of visiting came away a more determined bunch of boys than they've been for quite some time.

Clint Smith, Bill Thoms, Cully Dahlstrom, Bill Mosienko, Earl Seibert, Joe Cooper, and Mush March were divided into two groups, one led by Coach-Player Johnny Gottselig visiting at Vaughan and the other, with Manager Paul Thompson in charge, paying their respects at Gardiner.

The patients at both institutions gave them a warm welcome and fired questions at them so fast the hockey stars had little time to get in a few planned words.

Thompson Admits Some Changes Might Be Necessary.

"Do you plan switching your lineup to any extent?" inquired Pvt. Sam Greenberg, 1251 S. Avers av., one of the most enthusiastic hockey fans quartered in Gardiner.

"I'm contemplating it," said Thompson, "since it would seem at the moment changes are in order. But they'll all have to be in the nature of experiments."

The Lieutenant Wonders About the Chances of Improvement.

Lt. Earl Stotts of Memphis, Tenn., showed especial interest in the standings and inquired the possibility of the Hawks improving theirs.

"That," answered Gottselig, "is something only the future knows and it won't tell, altho we're doing our best to influence it."

COCHRAN TAKES TITLE HOME BUT CUE GETS AWAY

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—Welker Cochran started for his San Francisco home today minus the cue with which he won the world three cushion billiard championship here Tuesday. He said a thief lifted his cue case, containing the cue and two spare shafts, last night while he was attending the basketball double header in Madison Square Garden.

Cochran said he had the cue for 25 years, and had used it to win several three cushion titles as well as the 18.1 and 18.2 Balkline championships.

At Baltimore—Jimmie O'Brien beat Charley Eagle [10]; Jimmie McAllister stopped Tommy King [3].

NEW DRAFT HAS NO TERRORS FOR MAJOR LEAGUES

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—Twice as many big league ball players have been inducted into the army and navy since the end of the 1944 season as have been discharged, but club owners today look ahead with confidence to another campaign and a rosy post-war future.

The trickle of returning service men has yielded Van Mungo of the Giants, Mickey Livingston and Harry [Peanuts] Lowrey of the Cubs, and Les Mueller and Al Benton of the Tigers.

They'll Get Jobs Back.

Dick Wakefield, whose bat almost gave the Tigers the American league flag, heads the outgoing list that includes Thurman Tucker of the White Sox, Hal Epps of the Athletics, Fred Schmidt of the Cards, Al Zarilla, Paul Dean, and Bill Seinsoth of the Browns, Jim Tabor and Roy Partee of the Red Sox and Bob Malloy of the Reds among the better known.

Altho increased drafting of the 26-37 age group and reviews of well known service men before discharge are expected to tighten the man power situation, the leagues have made provisions for taking care of the army of national defense list players when they come back.

Raise Player Limits.

The American league has 239 men in the service and the National 231, but the minors with 3,406 on their defense lists present the big problem.

Action at the major and minor meetings in New York and Buffalo clears up the situation somewhat. The big leagues have boosted their player limits to 48 and their active lists during the playing season to 30, both increased on a ratio of one returning service man to each five men originally allowed.

MAPLE LEAFS, 3 MEN SHORT, TIE CANADIENS, 2-2

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 14 (AP).—Toronto's Maple Leafs, who were three men under normal strength, held Montreal's National Hockey league leading Canadiens to a 2 to 2 tie here tonight before a crowd of about 12,000 fans.

GIBBS SELECTED TO REFEREE PRO TITLE CONTEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 14.—Ronald Gibbs of Springfield, Ill., today was named referee in Sunday's National Football league championship contest between the New York Giants and the Green Bay Packers. Gibbs also had the No. 1 assignment in last year's play-off between Washington and the Bears in Chicago.

There will be four other officials, including a timer. This job will be handled by Lt. Col. William [Red] Friesel. The umpire will be C. H. Brubacker of Ohio Wesleyan, the field judge Eugene [Shorty] Miller of Penn State, and the head linesman Charles Berry of Lafayette, former Chicago White Sox catcher.

FARM SYSTEM BLOC OPPOSES DICTATORSHIP

Hope to Cut Power of Commissioner.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There's a lot of work—and probably no little amount of wrangling—ahead before the major league baseball folks decide they are ready to name a man for the commissioner's job, made vacant by the recent death of Judge K. M. Landis.

This may be disconcerting news for the seekers of lucrative posts, but the absence of haste in the matter was indicated yesterday upon the return of the Chicago delegates to the annual business meetings in New York.

Naming the commissioner must wait until the American and National leagues sign a working agreement to take the place of the 25 year pact now canceled and that, because of differences of opinion between the two organizations, may delay the formal unveiling of the new boss man for many, many months.

They've Had Their Lesson.

The differences exist because some of the owners rightfully feel they are not going to get themselves—if they can avoid it—into another spot in which an employe can rule helter skelter over a multimillion dollar enterprise.

In other words, the owners in this class fail to see there is any need for an agreement which would give to the future commissioner the unlimited powers enjoyed by Landis from the day he was inducted into office in January of 1921.

One of such executives, and he was voicing the sentiments of others, not many months ago referred to Landis as a policeman and declared baseball didn't require such services. Landis cared so little for the term applied by the executive that the latter was asked for an explanation.

National Is Chief Opponent.

The real strength against another agreement granting broad powers is said to be in the National league, in which the farm system clubs hold the balance of power. Landis was anti-farm and while he never launched a real campaign to stamp out the wide practice of majors developing prospects by owning minor league properties, he kept the farm operators on the hot seat because they were never certain of their positions. They want no more of that if it can be avoided.

It is significant that the National league committee, which will meet with an American league committee in Chicago Jan. 5 to fashion a new agreement for subsequent vote of all 16 clubs, is heavy with baseball chain store operators. Certain of the American league clubs conduct similar systems. It is also significant that if there weren't wide differences a new agreement could have been considered in New York early this week merely by making a few alterations in the original pact.

Grimm Is in Town.

Charles Grimm, Cub manager, was among those returning yesterday, his rating of the meetings being "the dullest ever." Grimm claimed he never got started on a deal altho he did hear a few rival managers hint willingness to take this or that player off the Cubs' hands.

Grimm will delay returning to his St. Louis farm until after Monday evening so that he can attend the ice cream and beer social to be held in Milwaukee for Pvt. Bill Veeck, U. S. M. C., also president of the Brewers.

DE KALB RALLY BEATS WHEATON QUINTET, 38-37

De Kalb's basketball team came from behind, 19 to 12, at half time to defeat Wheaton college, 38 to 37, in an overtime period at Wheaton last night.

Bill Ward's free throw in the last three seconds of play for Wheaton sent the game into the overtime. Outscored on field goals, De Kalb won thru its success on free throws, scoring 11 times to Wheaton's three.

ST. SABINA AND ST. MARY FIVES IN MEET FINAL

St. Gertrude, defending champion in the St. Sabina grammar school basketball tournament, failed to stop a last-half rally by the host team and lost in the semi-finals last night. Trailing, 17 to 7, at the half, St. Sabina unleashed a second-half attack to win, 30 to 26.

In the other semi-final, played before 1,500 in the St. Sabina community center, St. Mary of Perpetual Help defeated St. Columbanus, 17 to 15, in an overtime session.

St. Sabina and St. Mary will meet at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon for the title. St. Gertrude and St. Columbanus, playing for third place, will meet in the first game.

Billiard Stars to Plan Benefit for Thurnblad

At a meeting to be held tomorrow, plans will be discussed for a series of benefit billiard exhibitions by prominent players, proceeds from which will be given to Arthur Thurnblad, himself a cue expert, who is ill in Arizona. The meeting will be held in Bensinger's Wabash av. rooms.

Glenview Five Beats 87th St. Navy Team, 52-45

Glenview Naval Air Station basketball team defeated the 87th Street Navy, 52 to 45, last night in the Glenview gymnasium. Glenview led at the half, 27 to 23. Ashe, forward, led the vistors in scoring with 17 points, while Cawood and Waldron led the Glenview attack with 13 points each.

Hawks Lend Johnson to Cleveland Club on Recall

The Chicago Blackhawks yesterday announced the release on loan of Virgil Johnson Johnson, defense man, to the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey league. Johnson will be subject to immediate recall, the Hawks' manager, Paul Thompson, said.

ANNUAL C.D.G.A. DINNER WILL BE HELD TONIGHT

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago District Golf association will hold its 31st annual dinner and election of officers in the grand ball room of the La Salle hotel tonight, beginning at 5:30 o'clock. More than 300 leading golf officials are expected to attend.

The nominating committee, composed of Chairman Thomas G. McMahon of Skokie; Maynard G. Fessenden of Bob O' Link, and Walter G. Leininger of Oak Park has presented a ticket headed by Lowell D. Rutherford of Medinah for president, and including Robert S. Hulbert of Brookwood for vice president, Frank M. Whiston of Edgewater for secretary, and Leslie F. Muter of Calumet for treasurer.

List Directors Nominated.

Committees to Report.

Reports of the various committees will include the final audit of the Chicago Victory National tournament, won last summer at Edgewater by Harold [Jug] McSpaden after a play-off with Lt. Ben Hogan, which produced a net contribution of $17,172.89 for wounded veterans of World War II.

Another report will reveal the Dime-a-Round campaign total for 1944--$15,319.26--which was turned over to the Chicago service men's centers.

MEXICAN GROUP TAKES OVER AT AGUA CALIENTE

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 14 (AP).—The 10 year old litigation for possession of the $3,000,000 Agua Caliente race track entered a new phase today with spokesmen for two groups of heirs claiming it.

Yesterday, Mexican government officials seized the track and Augustine Silveyra was given material possession as receiver for the Arguello family heirs.

Today, S. P. Barrish, Los Angeles real estate broker, told the San Diego Tribune-Sun, that he represented 95.6 per cent of the rightful heirs, and that the group which took over the track represented only 4.4 per cent.

The Tribune-Sun reported Barrish intended to file suit in Tijuana, Mex., asking possession for what he calls the "majority group."

Whether racing will continue, as usual, Sunday is uncertain.

Midwest League to Hold Yule Party for Veterans

The Midwest Baseball league will hold its 14th annual Christmas party in Edward Hines Jr., hospital on Dec. 20 to distribute gifts and entertain war veterans, John Conroy, clerk of Circuit court and chairman of the league's party committee, said yesterday. Conroy's committee includes State's Atty. Touhy, Sheriff Mulcahy, County Treasurer Schlaeger, and John Toman of the county board of tax appeals.

DR. MOORHEAD SUED OVER GIFT IN BARBER'S WILL Influence Won Legacy of $60,000, Kin Say.

H. C. Berthold Wetstone, 77, a barber who saved $60,000 while living as a poor man, was unduly influenced by generous treatment he received from Dr. Louis D. Moorhead, to whom he left the bulk of his estate, six second cousins charged in a suit filed in Superior court yesterday seeking to set aside his will.

The barber, who died last January, was employed in a shop in the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 S. La Salle st., and lived the last 16 years of his life in a rooming house at 3037 Warren av. His will made two specific bequests of $1,000 and left the remainder of his money to Dr. Moorhead. At a Probate court hearing, it was testified that Wetstone had no relatives, but Mrs. Martha George, 70, of 3002 Davlin ct., later claimed heirship as a second cousin.

Met Him While Child, Says Doctor.

Dr. Moorhead, who is chairman of the medical board of the Chicago Catholic archdiocese, testified at the Probate court hearing that he was a child when he first met Wetstone and that they were fast friends.

The suit filed by Atty. James A. Dayton for the six persons claiming heirship alleged that Wetstone met Dr. Moorhead in 1939, when the barber sought treatment for a heart ailment.

Wetstone had started life as a coal miner in Pennsylvania and was miserly with his earnings, the bill alleged. He ate cheap food, lived in a cheap room, and spent little money on clothing. As a result, the suit charged, he was "easy prey" to the attentions of the doctor.

Assert Doctor's Wife Helped.

Dr. Moorhead, "possessed of a magnetic, persuasive, and ingratiating personality," and his wife, Ann, "a clever, glamorous, beauteous socialite," endeared themselves to Wetstone "in a scheme to get possession of his estate," the suit charged.

They invited him to their home at 1101 N. Elmwood av., Oak Park, for frequent dinners, where the hoarding barber met, among their other friends, "the daughter of a President maker," the cousins asserted.

Dr. Moorhead placed his limousine and chauffeur at Wetstone's disposal, and "prevailed upon at least one important clergyman to act as chauffeur" for him, the suit states.

Atty. Walter C. Healy, representing Dr. Moorhead, said last night that "the whole story is ridiculous." Dr. Moorhead and his wife said they would not comment until they talked with Healy.

INJURED GIRL, 18, AND ESTATES OF 2 AWARDED $65,000

A jury in the court of federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday assessed damages totaling $65,000 against the Rock Island railroad for injuries to a young woman and deaths of two persons in a train accident near Scandia, Kas., Nov. 15, 1941. Miss Audrey Thomas, 18, was awarded $45,000 for permanent injuries, and $10,000 each was awarded to the estates of Leonard Garoutte and Florence Berggren, 16, who were killed. All lived in Scandia.

Atty. Royal W. Irwin said the three went to the railroad station to get a timetable and were crushed when the cars of a passing freight train piled up and some of them fell on their automobile.

Why Thousands of Doctors Prescribed This For CHILDREN'S BAD COUGHS
(CAUSED BY COLDS)
Mothers are simply overjoyed about Pertussin because often the first spoonfuls help bring PROMPT relief from bronchial and croupy coughs due to colds. And Pertussin is so pleasant and safe for kiddies to take! Nothing to sicken delicate little stomachs—it's entirely free from dope, chloroform and creosote.
Pertussin is scientifically prepared to act at once to relieve your child's coughing spell. It increases natural secretions in the respiratory tract to soothe dry irritated membranes. It improves ciliary action, loosens sticky phlegm and makes it easier to raise. Also mighty effective for adults. Inexpensive! Any drugstore.

GOODWILL OPENS $500,000 DRIVE FOR NEW HOME

Goodwill Industries, which has been training and finding employment for handicapped persons for 24 years, is facing a financial crisis. Unless the drive for $500,000, announced yesterday, is succeeful, the organization will have to close.

The crisis was brought about this week when the building occupied by Goodwill Industries, 2425 Wallace st., was condemned, Neville Pilling, chairman of the drive, said. Notice was served that the organization's shop must be vacated Jan. 1. The $500,000 will be used to purchase a new, larger building.

"The Goodwill Industries of Chicago has given paid, on-the-job training to more than 24,000 individuals thru its repair and renovation of household articles contributed by Chicagoans," Pilling said. "Almost $1,700,000 in wages has been paid handicapped persons."

40 PASSENGERS SHAKEN AS BUS, AUTO COLLIDE

Forty passengers on a Chicago Motor Coach company bus were shaken yesterday when the bus collided with an automobile at Jackson blvd. and Green st., then struck a light pole. Harry P. Cooper, 46, of 7625 Sheridan rd., owner of a sewing machine company who was driving the automobile, suffered head and collarbone injuries and was taken to Presbyterian hospital. The bus was driven by John T. Toms, 44, of 14 Lamon av.

Joseph Majcer, 56, of 3811 S. Honore st., died yesterday in County hospital of injuries suffered Dec. 6 when he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver. The accident occurred at 38th and Wood streets.

PATRICIA GOES INTO COMA, BUT LATER RALLIES

Patricia Attaway, 6, Aurora's leukemia victim, rallied from her first real crisis yesterday when her temperature climbed to 104.8 degrees and she went into a coma. It is only a question of time, however, until the rare blood disease will cause her death, her physician and hospital authorities agree.

At her bedside in St. Charles hospital is her father, Chief M. F. Attaway, the Seabee who traveled 8,000 miles to be with her. Nurses say he is with Patricia almost constantly. He has his meals in the room. Harrowed with grief, he shows the strain of his vigil.

"Everytime she wakes up, she wants me," he said. "I'll be there until the end."

BURNS TO DEATH IN HOME.

TIRE MAKERS QUESTION NEED OF NEW PLANTS

Suggest All-Out Use of Present Units.

Akron, O., Dec. 14 [Special].—Tire industry spokesmen today said the war production board plan to construct new tire making plants would not relieve the army's immediate need for heavy duty tires. They backed full use of existing facilities and man power as the quickest means of increasing production.

William O'Neil.

Acting WPB Chairman Batcheller announced in Washington, D. C., yesterday that new plants costing 40 to 50 million dollars would be constructed to meet what he termed the "most critical" of war programs.

Construction Takes Time.

Industry sources said construction of new plants would require time and that production in such plants could not be started for nearly a year. One spokesman suggested that additions to existing plants would permit the meeting of requirements in much less time at much less cost.

Another spokesman said that under present union restrictions which result in production quotas based on the output of the slowest man, efficient production is not possible. He estimated production could be increased at least 20 per cent by removal of these restrictions and obtaining adequate man power. The industry actually gets about 6½ hours of production per man in an 8 hour day, he said.

"Our understanding is that the need for additional heavy duty tire production is immediate," said William O'Neil, president of General Tire and Rubber company. "This cannot be met by new plants which would take many months to be put into production.

More Efficiency Needed.

"What is needed is more effective use of existing machines and some solution of our man power needs. The industry's tire making capacity is already expanded beyond peace time needs and further expansion would create a problem of excess capacity and prove a disturbing economic factor after the war."

E. J. Thomas, president of Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, said he did not think the industry had the capacity to produce the tires to meet projected peak requirements, but that much depended on what the needs were and at what time they had to be met. He suggested construction of additions to existing plants as the method which would obtain new production facilities most quickly at the lowest cost.

Three Factors to Be Met.

He said three factors could bring the industry to capacity production, but would not meet projected peak requirements. These were [1] "all-out" effort by tire plant labor, [2] return of former tire workers from the army, and [3] getting into full production with equipment only now being put into use.

"Absenteeism and labor turnover are heavy in the industry and are problems which must be solved to increase production," he said. "Leeway in the industry for expansion is substantial and a large increase can be obtained thru all-out performance."

Another spokesman said that if required man power is obtained before Christmas the industry will be able to meet 1945 first quarter schedules.

Ford Expects Top Output in Chicago Plant

The Hegewisch assembly plant of Ford Motor company will be used to its "utmost capacity" after the war and will employ as many if not more persons than at its war time peak, Henry Ford II, executive vice president, said yesterday. Top employment at the plant, which is producing the M-8 armored car, was about 3,000.

Ford discussed operations of his company at a press conference in the Morrison hotel preceding a luncheon with midwest regional field executives and dealers. He was accompanied by J. R. Davis, director of sales and advertising.

Plan to Equal Pre-war Totals.

He said the company was optimistic over post-war prospects generally and that production volume would require as many employes as before the war. Plans call for use of 16 or 17 assembly plants, about the same as in pre-war operations.

Altho production on regular models is scheduled to begin within three months after war restrictions end, output of the recently announced new lightweight models could not begin until a year or a year and a half after materials were available, he said.

This car will cost about 20 to 25 per cent less than the regular models and will be of standard size. The type of engine for it has not been determined, he said.

Lighter Metals Considered.

"We will figure out ways to use lighter metals in the new low priced auto," Ford said. "We will use aluminum where possible, and if the price of magnesium is right we will use it. If plastic materials are not too costly they will be widely used."

The first regular models will be as much different from the last pre-war model as government restrictions permit, he said.

"We have a lot of changes we would like to make and some of these will be incorporated in the immediate post-war models," Ford asserted. "We have developed a new type of bearing as a result of our war time production and we will be permitted to go right ahead with it after the war."

Three Programs for Veterans.

He disclosed that the company has in operation three programs to aid the war veteran in making his return to civilian life. In one, wounded veterans are taught various aspects of agriculture, automotive mechanics, and mechanical trades. He said "no strings" were attached, and the vets were not required to accept employment by Ford.

Another program is operated thru the company's dealers, who teach service operations to vets who eventually may own their business or may be employed by the dealers.

The third program, for both wounded and nonwounded vets, is in the company's plants. There they are handled by a separate set of personnel men, are carefully guided, and given every chance to get into the type of work they want to do.

Ford said dealer "mortality" of the company had been about only 7 per cent, and that the post-war plans were to have about the same total as before the war.

ARMY RESELLS JACKS TO MAKER $35 BELOW COST

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—The government lost $35 on each of 10,700 10 ton hydraulic jacks sold by the army to two midwest manufacturers, a senate committee learned today. The jacks were bought by the army at $80 each and resold to the companies that made them at $45, Lee W. Moran, chief of the automotive division of the treasury surplus property office, testified before a subcommitte of the small business committee.

Moran explained that his office considered itself lucky to get rid of them at almost any price because there appeared to be no call for a jack of that type. The normal demand is about 1,000 annually, he said.

The jacks were sold to the Weaver company of Springfield, Ill., and the Walker Manufacturing company of Racine, Wis., he testified, because there was no better offer and because as major producers, they were best equipped to handle the distribution.

ICKES ABSOLVES OIL INDUSTRY OF SUPPLY BLAME

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—Petroleum Administrator Ickes today absolved the oil industry of blame for the gasoline shortage which reportedly halted for a time Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army advance toward Germany. He said some persons apparently misinterpreted a Patton statement to mean that the oil industry was to blame.

"There never has been a shortage of gasoline for any combat area," Ickes said. "Dispatches clearly indicate that Gen. Patton moved so fast that the army's transport system could not bring up enough fuel to keep him moving.

"The fact that a considerable quantity of gasoline was flown from the beaches to the front shows that the problem was one of military transport rather than any lack of stocks."

NEWSPRINT USE 4.8 PCT. LOWER, REPORT A. N. P. A.

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—The American Newspaper Publishers association today said newspapers reporting to it used 211,572 tons of newsprint paper in November, a decrease of 4.8 per cent from a year ago and 19.8 per cent from 1941, base period for figuring permitted consumption. The A. N. P. A. estimated total consumption at 291,823 tons in November, and at 2,958,819 tons for the first 11 months of the year.

HIGH SPEED MACHINE FOR PACKAGING OIL IN PAPER 'CAN' PRODUCED

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—After 12 years of research, a high speed packaging machine which fills with lubricating oil and seals 70 paper bound quart containers a minute reached the commercial production stage today. General Container corporation of New York and Package Machinery company of Springfield, Mass., jointly announced the process was available to the oil industry.

General said the equipment fabricates the container from a roll of board paper, fills it with lubricating oil, and seals it airtight and weatherproof at a rate four times faster than any other machine. The container resembles a tin can and is made of various cheaper grades of paper and chipboard exempted from the government's paper limitation order.

Socony-Vacuum Oil company contributed four years' preliminary research to the process. It said that under limited production 4½ million quarts of oil were marketed in paper containers in the southeast to test utility and consumer reaction.

BIG PEACE USE FORECAST FOR AIR CLEANSER

Electronic Device Snares Fine Dust.

BY HERSCHEL PATTERSON.

A comparatively new product for which a much expanded post-war market is predicted is the electronic air cleaner which removes even the most minute particles of foreign matter from the air. This electrostatic cleaner, at present used chiefly in vital war industries, will be available after the war for many other uses, not the least of which will be in the home, an industry spokesman said.

War time experience with the electronic system has widened its use and mass war production of highly sensitive mechanism and instruments has emphasized industry's growing dependence on really clean air, he said. He asserted that air borne particles, not discernible by sight, cause shutdowns, ruin products, contaminate the atmosphere, and cut employe efficiency.

Has Wide Application.

Post-war applications include use in hospitals, radio stations, offices, stores, hotels, and restaurants, in addition to factories and homes, Roscoe Moore, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company specialist in its use, said. The electronic method of air cleaning was developed by Westinghouse.

He explained that in the electronic method all air borne articles pass thru an electrostatic field. Thus charged, they are precipitated on collector plates alternately charged with a high positive voltage. Where mechanical filters will permit much dirt to pass thru, the electronic air cleaner will trap air borne particles so small it takes several million to cover the head of a pin, he said.

One of the war time developments in the electronic cleaner is an oil mist remover. The cleaner unit, attached to the individual machine, precipitates the mist, and the oil is recovered, resulting in a big saving where many machines are in use. Another industrial application is in the removal of welding smoke, which permits the welder to work without interruption.

May Be Central or Room Unit.

Generally the system is installed in the home as a central unit in conjunction with existing or new installations of air conditioning, but room units are available which may be used for removal of airborne pollens and other allergy agents.

A few installations have been made on train club cars, and wider applications on trains are expected after the war, he said. Other post-war uses forecast were for dairies, bottling companies, breweries, distilleries, producers of serums, and operating rooms in hospitals.

"In Pittsburgh, where many of the employes of Westinghouse have installed the systems, a housewife formerly found it necessary to frequently wash her curtains," he said. "With the use of the electronic air cleaner the curtains remain so clean they need be washed only about once a year."

'RECESS' PARLEY BETWEEN UNION AND U. S. STEEL

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 14 (AP).—A conference between United States Steel corporation subsidiaries and the CIO United Steelworkers was "recessed" today after a disagreement. The company and union representatives had met to discuss a war labor board directive of Nov. 25 which tentatively approved wage adjustments for 485,000 workers in 86 basic steel companies, retroactive to last December.

People and Events

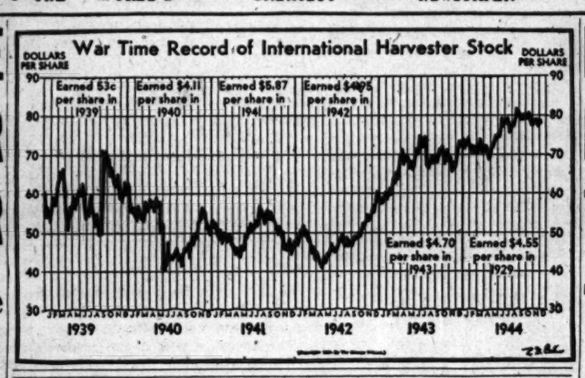
Standard Oil Company of Indiana has subscribed for 10 million dollars of war bonds in the 6th war loan, Edward G. Seubert, president, said yesterday. The largest allocation of $2,443,000 was credited to Chicago and Cook county where the general offices of the company are.

William H. Spencer, Chicago region war man power commission director, has been appointed chairman of the committee for economic readjustment of the National Association of Personnel Directors, Roy S. Welch, executive secretary of the organization, announced.

J. E. Frawley of Detroit was elected president of the American Hotel association at a meeting in the Stevens hotel. He succeeds Glenwood J. Sherrard of Boston. Leonard Hicks of Chicago was elected first vice president.

Robert Dorr Jr. of Kenilworth has been appointed to design furnishings and equipment for the Congress hotel, said Alexander T. Spare, attorney for the purchasers.

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade said Ruloff Cutten of E. F. Hutton & Co., New York, had been admitted to membership.



Expect Only Minor Changes in Post-War Roads, Trucks

Post-war highways and motor trucks will be patterned largely on pre-war designs, speakers yesterday told the American Trucking associations' common carrier conference in the Continental hotel.

Chester C. Burdick, liaison engineer for the army's 6th transportation zone, told the motor carrier representatives not to expect "multilane, controled access, high speed highways thruout the land."

Approximately 90 per cent of highways after the war will be two lane, two way highways because traffic volume will not justify more than two lanes, he said. Studies of population trends and motor vehicle registration and use lead inevitably to that conclusion, said Burdick.

More Multilane Roads.

"The mileage of multilane highways in rural areas may be expected to increase gradually, and it is reasonable to presume highways designed to replace obsolete or worn out facilities will be constructed to standards and on alignment compatible with the increased needs and modern necessities of motor operation," he said.

Fred B. Lautzenhiser, consulting engineer for International Harvester company, said post-war trucks will resemble 1942 models, but that many makes and models will no doubt embody improvements and refinements based on war time experience.

Warning that new designs will not come overnight, he said the trend will be toward higher compression engines and a higher ratio of engine horsepower to gross vehicle weight to take advantage of the higher anti-knock qualities of war time developed fuels.

City of Future?

Streets that slope up at the edges instead of down, with gutters in the center and virtually no curbs; elevated sidewalks on which shoppers will cross over loop streets, and parking areas in basements of large buildings were predicted for Chicago last night by Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic engineer.

Leslie J. Sorenson.

Sorenson told the Western Society of Engineers in the Engineering building little possibility of changing Chicago's street layout existed and that as a result proper designing of new subdivisions and rebuilding of old offer the only hope for eliminating traffic hazards.

Center gutters would facilitate street cleaning and induce traffic to move along the edge. Sidewalks could be adjacent to the low curb, and better lighted because the space between walk and street would be eliminated, she said.

Tribune Use Held Proof of Lakes' Value

Walter K. Greenebaum, veteran Great Lakes steamship operator, yesterday termed THE TRIBUNE'S accomplishment in delivering to its readers each morning for 3 cents a finished newspaper manufactured from pulpwood grown more than 1,500 miles from Chicago, a "daily souvenir of ingenuity and enterprise."

Greenebaum, a special representative for the Chicago, Duluth and Georgian Bay Transit company, spoke on "Interesting Facts About the Great Lakes," at a luncheon meeting of the Central Lions club of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman.

Take Task for Granted.

Readers, he said, are inclined to take for granted, THE TRIBUNE'S performance, which begins with transporting in its own ships to its own mills in Thorold, Ont., the trees grown on its own lands in northern Canada. These same trees, transformed into paper rolls, subsequently are brought to Chicago in other TRIBUNE owned vessels.

THE TRIBUNE'S efficient use of the Great Lakes, Greenebaum asserted, is illustrative of what he said is the vast and little known traffic over these inland waterways.

Latest figures on this traffic, he disclosed, show that during 1943, Great Lakes vessels transported 92 million tons of iron ore, 20 million tons of limestone, 118 million bushels of grain, and 49½ million tons of coal.

Vast Tonnage Carried.

The iron ore carried during the navigation season was sufficient to provide every citizen of the United States with 1,000 pounds of finished steel. The grain equaled 50 loaves of bread for every man, woman, and child of the nation. The coal shipments would have provided 1¾ tons for every residence from coast to coast.

More than 100,000 workers are now employed in shipbuilding industries on the Great Lakes, against only 4,000 before the war.

SHARP RIVALRY IS FORECAST FOR SOVIET MARKET

Competition for Russia's trade after the war will be so keen that United States corporations will need specially trained engineers to handle their share of the business, Lt. Col. Louis Edgar Browne, executive secretary of the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce, New York, yesterday told the Export Managers club in the La Salle hotel.

He predicted that the soviet market for capital goods will be needed by the United States to replace war production. Great Britain will be a strong competitor, however, as will parts of central Europe as soon as normalcy returns, he said.

CARRIER BONDS CLIMB SHARPLY ON OUTLOOK FOR BIG WAR VOLUME

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—Expectations of continued war transport volume and year-end interest payments boosted rail loan prices sharply in the bond market today. Bidders shoved prices of some issues up more than 2 points and many had gains of a point or more.

Activity broadened with the advance, rising to $15,332,300—largest since Feb. 18—from $9,791,000 the day before.

Chicago and Alton 3s continued to lead the list in turnover and rose 1¼ points to 32¾ on sales of $1,286,000. Milwaukee adjusted 5s accounted for $1,255,000 of volume and were up ¾ at 16½. Milwaukee 5s of '75 rose 1⅜ on smaller dealings.

The Associated Press average of 20 rail loans pushed up 0.2 of a point to 95.4, the highest since March 16, 1937.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO REVIVE CROP INSURANCE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—The senate today passed legislation reviving the federal crop insurance program and broadened it to protect eventually virtually all crops against all hazards.

The bill goes back to the house for consideration of amendments, including a 30 million dollar program of incentive payments for flax production and thus increase the output of badly needed linseed oil.

The measure would provide federal insurance next year on wheat, cotton, and flax against flood, hail, drouth, snow, insect infestation, and plant disease. In subsequent years experimental insurance programs may be tried out on other crops at the rate of not more than three a year.

Where the house had held loss claims to the actual investment in the damaged crop, the senate voted to pay claims up to 75 per cent of the crop value, based on average yields.

Bank Clearings Drop 20 Pct. from Week Ago

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—Bank clearings in the week ended Wednesday were far below the preceding week's 14 year record high, but larger than a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet said today. For 24 leading cities clearings were $10,209,557,000, 20.4 per cent less than the week before, but 7.8 per cent more than the corresponding 1943 week.

RAIL STRENGTH PUSHES STOCKS TO 7 YEAR HIGH

Trade Tops Million Shares Again.

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—After a mild two day reaction, the stock market regained its equilibrium today under the leadership of rails and specialties and pushed to a new peak since 1937 on volume, topping the million share figure for the 10th consecutive session.

Prices stiffened soon after a mixed start, with the railroads active and strong around midday. Previously, utility preferreds and liquor issues received a buying play. Many pivotals were bought sparingly, but advances of fractions to 3 points predominated at the close.

The outlook for sustained hostilities in Europe and the Pacific, in addition to debt reduction and other factors, apparently aided the carriers. Action of the interstate commerce commission in holding the door open on the reinstatement of suspended increased freight rates also was helpful.

Capital Plans Aid Utilities.

Hopes for break-up benefits in capital integration of utility holding companies buoyed several issues in this field. Distillers were propped by earnings forecasts and the forthcoming January "holiday" in which civilian beverage alcohol will be manufactured.

Many customers, however, stayed out of the market on the idea the technical correction of Tuesday and yesterday may run farther.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite was up 0.4 to 57.6, a new peak since Sept. 22, 1937. The rail average jumped a full point to 33.2, highest since Sept. 4, 1937.

Of 906 issues registering, 430 were up, 272 down, and 204 unchanged. Transfers of 1,386,170 shares compared with 1,127,730 yesterday.

CHICAGO'S PRICES EDGE UP.

Prices were slightly higher in reduced turnover of 31,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Of 102 issues traded, 45 advanced and 31 declined. Volume leaders included New York Central, up ⅝; Commonwealth Edison, up ⅜; Paramount Pictures, up ¼, and Chicago corporation common, unchanged.

General Precision Buys Askania, Chicago Firm

General Precision Equipment corporation has acquired all stock of Askania Regulator company, 1603 S. Michigan av., for an undisclosed price, H. P. Niemann, vice president of Askania, said yesterday. Askania manufactures hydraulic control systems for general industrial applications.

Lucas Blamed for Delaying Hog Inquiry

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] warned the senate today that the government's price stabilization program threatened a glut in midwestern hog markets and accused Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] of contributing to the situation by holding up a senate resolution to investigate live stock production and marketing.

Lucas is chairman of the senate's committee on audit and control, which approves the allocation of senate funds for investigating committees. The live stock investigating resolution, introduced by Wherry and 23 other senators, was approved by the agriculture committee last June, but Lucas' committee has taken no action on the appropriation asked for in the measure.

Termed Among Most Vital.

"The resolution is one of the most vital which has been submitted in the present congress," Wherry said. "I think the committee on audit and control is going a long way when it sets itself up as a hierarchy and says, 'We will prevent the appropriation of the funds requested in the resolution.'"

Lucas told Wherry in the debate he thought Wherry had introduced the resolution for political purposes, altho he considered the investigation vital "even tho Nov. 7 is past." Lucas told the senate, however, he could see no necessity for authorizing the investigation before the new congress meets Jan. 3.

The live stock investigation resolution was proposed by Wherry and the other 23 senators, including five Democrats, after a group of farm state senators had held unofficial hearings to determine whether low ceiling prices were holding live stock from the market.

Says Prices Were Raised.

In an interview today, Wherry said the unofficial hearings had resulted in higher prices for beef cattle, more beef on the market, and the subsequent removal of some types of beef from the ration list.

"If we had been able to get a formal investigation started, we could have done the same for pork and other products," Wherry asserted. "We should have a higher ceiling price for hogs, probably $17.75 [a hundred pounds] and a definite floor below which processors cannot go. And there should be no points whatsoever on pork and pork products.

"But we cannot force such a program without having the facts at hand, and we need a live stock and marketing investigation to get them."

Holds New Homes Must Await Army Permission

BUYERS SPURN CHOICE STEERS; PRICES SLUMP

'Cheap' Cattle Rise; Hogs Lower.

Prices of highly finished steers were under heavy pressure at the Chicago stock yards yesterday, declining an average of 50 cent a hundred pounds. Buyers reduced their bids in a renewal of objections to what packers termed an unfair spread between cattle costs and price ceilings on prime beef.

Trading was at a near stalemate until late in the session when farmers accepted the lower bids. Eastern interests are the largest buyers of top grades of cattle and said that for many months every prime steer bought has been handled at a loss.

Cattle Ceiling Expected.

Persistent reports that government agencies are considering placing of a ceiling on live cattle contributed to the sluggish condition of the market.

The trade carried a nominal top quotation of $17.75 a hundred pounds, lowest since July, but $17.25 was the highest bid. Most buyers of top grades bid no more than $16. The top price had been $18.50 for several weeks.

Most sales of steers were at $13 to $15.50, $1 to $1.50 below last week's highs. Some late bids were $2 lower and several thousand head were not sold.

All classes of "cheap" cattle sold briskly and unevenly higher. Best beef cows were slow, but stock worth less than $11 advanced 15 to 25 cents in large demand.

Hog Prices Slump.

After hogs had slumped 25 to 35 cents early under pressure of abnormally large receipts, a lively rally developed that recovered 5 or 10 cents of the loss. A $14 top price was established on the final rounds, compared with $13.90 at the start of trading and $14.25 Wednesday.

Farmers shipped in 36,000 hogs, including shipments direct to packers. The pile-up occurred because snow had curtailed shipments earlier in the week. Late demand was stimulated by a slump in supplies on other markets. Lambs were strong to 15 cents higher. The $15 top price was a December high.

South East National Bank Lifts Surplus to $500,000

Directors of the South East National bank yesterday said $100,000 had been transferred from undivided profits to surplus, increasing that account to $500,000. Undivided profits and reserves are now $221,000. Semi-annual dividends of $3 on common stock and $4 on preferred were declared.

RULE ON TAVERN, CHURCH FEUD IN HIGHWOOD TODAY

Distance Dispute Now Is Down to Inches.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Whether Harold Snavely's grocery in Highwood is within 100 feet of the Methodist church will be decided by the Illinois Liquor commission today.

The case has been before the state regulators for months. It was brought out in closing arguments yesterday that the question, instead of being one of feet, actually is one of inches and involves not only the "visible" but the "invisible" house of worship.

Juke Box, Hymnal Competition.

Snavely's license was revoked last Oct. 20 when members of the Methodist congregation complained that the juke box, into which an unceasing stream of nickels seemed to be going, clashed with the strains of "How Firm a Foundation" and other Wesleyan hymns in the church. The psalmsters asserted the juke's competition was a bit too keen. Anyway, it had been measured and found that Snavely's was within the 100 feet the law insists must be between church and avern.

Snavely's attorney, Leo Bartolini, brought the question down to a matter of inches. He also brought up the "visible" and "invisible" church, respectively the church building and the "sanctuary," or that part of the building in which the actual worship takes place.

Measurements and Calculations.

A survey for the village by James Anderson, 290 E. Deerpath, Lake Forest, showed the distance between the church and tavern, building line to building line, to be 85 feet 6 inches. But Bartolini said the "invisible" church—the "church" referred to by the legislature in enacting the law—was exactly 15 feet 4 inches in from the "visible" church, represented by the building line.

Atty. Bartolini did a quick calculation on his fingers, then pointed out that Snavely's was certainly more than 100 feet from the "invisible" church. In fact, he said, there was exactly 12 inches to spare.

All in the Family

MRS. EUGENE SCIBORSKI.

Stephen Schurak, 41, of 4326 Kimball av., yesterday described himself satisfied with the decision of Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Felony court which sent Schurak's son-in-law, Eugene Sciborski, 25, of 3553 Fullerton av., to the house of correction for a year.

Sciborski was accused of entering his father-in-law's home on Nov. 28 and stealing a box which contained $1,565, $975 in war bonds, and some jewelry.

A charge of accessory before the fact against Schurak's daughter, Mrs. Judith Sciborski, 23, was dismissed when it was shown she had no knowledge of the burglary.

ALDERMEN DENY PLEAS OF 13,000 FOR HIGHER PAY

All requests for 1945 salary increases for 13,000 city employes were rejected yesterday by the city council's subcommittee on pay raises, headed by Ald. Lindell [9th]. The requests, made by representatives of every department, totaled $6,800,000.

The finance committee approved an appropriation of $150,000 to cover 1945 expenses of the office of civilian defense after committee members had questioned Ralph H. Burke, deputy coördinator.

"We realize that the protective side of the OCD no longer exists, but the $150,000 is rock bottom for other expenses, such as financing bond drives, memorial services, and honorary plaques," Burke explained.

Insists on Publicity Fund.

Burke disclosed that some of the money is earmarked for "publicity" purposes, including messages of Mayor Kelly on radio programs. The deputy coördinator termed this publicity a "civic enterprise" and said: "It would be unwise to discontinue that item."

One member of the finance committee, it was disclosed, will ask the city council at its meeting on Dec. 20 to call upon the Illinois legislature to enact a program to remit half of the sales taxes paid by the city.

The sanitary district trustees enacted an ordinance reducing the district's estimated 1944 tax rate from 37.4 cents on $100 to an estimated 33.5 cents, based on the 1943 assessment. The 1944 tax bills are to be paid in 1945.

Sanitary Board Saves on Interest.

Eleven cents of the total rate is for operating expenses, 22 cents for bonds and interest, and a half cent for annuities. The reduction was made because of lowering of interest charges on refunded bonds. Some interest rates have been slashed to 1¾ per cent from 4 and 4½ per cent. The saving on bond service and interest was estimated at about $2,300,000.

No pay raises were foreseen for county employes either. Daniel Ryan, chairman of the county board finance committee, said the county budget would be adopted Dec. 29. Ryan added that he and other commissioners would remain firm in their decision to keep the budget close to what it totaled a year ago.

Slaying Trial Opens

Frank Kothanek, 42, went on trial yesterday before a jury of nine women and three men in the Criminal court of Chief Justice Harold G. Ward for the murder last May 28 of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Edna Barnas, 26. He also is under indictment for the murder of his estranged wife, Kathryn, 29, a sister of Mrs. Barnas.

Kothanek shot himself after wounding the women fatally in the Barnas apartment at 5537 Schubert av. and was near death for several weeks. His attorney, Harold Levy, said in opening arguments that he will seek to show thru the testimony of alienists that Kothanek was emotionally upset and temporarily insane as a result of domestic troubles. His wife had sued for divorce.

Michael Barnas, 5507 Schubert av., husband of Mrs. Barnas, testified that Kothanek burst into the apartment and opened fire while he [Barnas] was in another apartment telephoning police.

800 WILL HEAR REPORT TONIGHT ON FUND DRIVE

A final report on the 1944 Community and War fund drive will be made at 6:30 o'clock tonight at a dinner meeting in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. More than 800 persons, including Mayor Kelly and Kay Francis, motion picture actress, will be present.

The meeting will disclose whether the volunteer workers have raised their goal of $12,980,000, it was reported by Clarence B. Randall, general campaign chairman.

Miss Francis is coming to Chicago especially to take part in the meeting. She was one of the first Hollywood entertainers to go overseas for U. S. O. camp shows, which benefit from the fund.

STIRRING TALE IS LESSON FOR KIWANIS CLUB

The danger of taking anybody at face value and the ruses which an enemy might devise to obtain possibly valuable information were stressed at yesterday's Kiwanis club luncheon in Hotel Sherman by the club's program committee. A Polish noblewoman was introduced as guest speaker and in suitably broken English she told an affecting tale of her escape from Warsaw and her work in the British intelligence service. At the conclusion of the story, which was followed closely and apparently given full credence by the audience, "she" tore off "her" makeup and revealed "herself" as the Chicago character actor, Martin Hughes.

TWO ON POLICE BOARD YIELD IN CAPTAINS' SUIT

Attorneys for six police captains who were discharged June 16 by the civil service commission said their reinstatement to the department was virtually reassured yesterday when Walter L. Gregory, chairman, and William F. Clarke, member of the commission, agreed in Superior court to amend the records of the proceedings.

Gregory and Clarke, defending themselves against another contempt of court citation, admitted before Judge Joseph A. Graber that records involving the captains' dismissal were not written until many days later altho they were dated June 16.

Under Jail Sentences.

The two commissioners are under jail sentences for contempt in connection with the case of Capt. Thomas Harrison, and a second citation was sought yesterday in behalf of Acting Capt. William J. Drury.

They and Corporation Counsel Hodes said they will file amended records, more complete and admitting the first records were falsely dated. Judge Graber indicated that Clarke and Gregory will be purged of contempt when the amendments are filed, which he ordered be done by Tuesday.

Effect of the amendments, lawyers said, will be almost to insure the quashing of the commission's discharges of the captains, as the new records will prove they were dismissed in a manner not according to law.

Move Planned Next Week.

Atty. John Cusack, representing Capt. Thomas Connelly, said he will file a motion to quash the commission's records pertaining to the commission's acts after June 16, when hearings are resumed before Judge Graber on Wednesday.

Hodes, after a conference with Atty. Stephen Love, counsel for Capt. Drury, said he agreed to a stipulation that the city will admit that the commission's findings were drawn on a date later than the discharges were ordered; that the amended record will include testimony by supervising captains who said it is not customary for police captains to make complaint book entries of gambling complaints received by mail.

The captains were discharged on technicalities in their enforcement of gambling laws in their districts.

CHILDREN'S SOCIETY PREPARES GIFTS FOR ALL ITS 1,800 WARDS

Selecting, wrapping, and delivering gifts to 1,800 children before Christmas are the jobs being tackled this week by Mrs. Brooks McCormick and Mrs. Mabbett K. Reckord, co-chairmen of the Christmas committee of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, which cares for dependent and homeless children thruout the state.

Each year the case workers find out what every child in their charge wants most for Christmas, and, with the help of many generous friends, the society does its best to fulfill those wishes. For instance, there is Della, a blonde 11 year old with a sprinkling of freckles. Her dearest wish is for a friendship ring and the society will make certain she receives one. Individual gifts for the 1,800 children under the care of the society are being wrapped at the agency's office, 208 W. Washington st.

The Illinois Children's Home and Aid society has been caring for dependent Protestant children in the state for 61 years.

FRIEND CLAIMS BODY OF NAVAL MAN'S FIANCEE

The funeral for Miss Virginia Thompson, 35, who took poison early this week in the apartment of her fiance, Lt. Joseph C. Stanley, U. S. N. R., at 1209 Sherwin av., will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 7066 Clark st. Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Wilma P. Karlson, 8035 Keating av., Skokie, whose husband, Fred, is a long time friend of Corp. Russell Thompson, first husband of the dead woman. Thompson is stationed in England.

Mrs. Karlson claimed the body yesterday. Mrs. Clarence Gleason, 450 Bangs st., Aurora, a foster relative of Miss Thompson, indicated she would prefer to have Mrs. Karlson act. Mrs. Karlson said several friends of Thompson and his former wife had offered to help pay expenses. Also contributing is Joseph [Duke] Corrado, whose marriage to Miss Thompson last February was annulled recently. An ex-prize fighter, Corrado is a navy chief specialist at Navy pier.

TROOP LOUNGES TO REMAIN OPEN ON ALL HOLIDAYS

The U. S. O. Troops in Transit lounges in six Chicago railway terminals will be made as festive as possible for the holidays this year for service men and women who must be traveling and away from home during that time. All lounges will be operated on Christmas eve and Christmas day, as on every other day of the year, by Travelers' Aid volunteers. The Wholesale Plant Growers' Association of Metropolitan Chicago will donate poinsettia plants to decorate the lounges in the North Western, Union, Grand Central, La Salle, Dearborn, and Illinois Central stations. These plants are to be the first received in the Chicago market.

Save Time—Phone
Working men and women borrow on their signature only at LOCAL LOAN. $25 up to $300. Save time by phoning for your LOAN before you stop in for your money. Make your own terms of repayment. Up to 12 months to repay. You can be SURE at LOCAL because you pay ONLY legal interest costs. For example, you pay only 42 cents a week for $100 at LOCAL based on six equal monthly payments. No red tape or unnecessary delay. One visit action. The above example is based on the lawful rate of 3% per month on the unpaid balance. Another advantage at LOCAL is, you can return the unpaid balance anytime and you'll be charged only for the exact number of days you kept the money.

HELP WANTED—MEN

IMPORTANT NOTICE

War Manpower Commission requires that all employers in this locality obtain a certificate of necessity before they may hire workers 18 to 38 years of age. Effective July 1, 1944, no employer may hire a worker unless he has been referred by the United States Employment Service.

This does not prevent any worker from first investigating any opportunity for employment and then applying through the United States Employment Service for a referral card to present to the employer.
